City Treasurer James S. Bell is busily engaged these days in straightening up the insurance policies of London's soldiers. At the present time he is renewing the policies held by insurance companies. The Metropolitan Life has 630, the Aetna 298, and the State Life of Indianapolis 100. The majority of these have to be renewed. The council will carry these with the war. Many have been struck off the now about 1,020 policies in effect car-
