CARBONIS DETERGENS - We are very sceptical of the ralge of new remedies, and it was in a spirit facepticism hat we tried the lig. carbonis dotergens. It is repre-ented to be a concentrated algoholic solution of the consented to be a concentrated allootergens. It is repre-sented to be a concentrated allootergens. It is repre-dents of the tar, to wit, benzine, napthaline, and phenic acid. The addition of water, with agitation, makes a durable emulsion, in which the tar remains in a state of finesuspension, almost equivalent to solution. Our thera-peutical experience of the preparation is very satisfactory indeed. In our hands it has been a most effective agent in the case of various skin diseases, especially of the chronic ecsematons class; and one case of psoriasis which had resisted all other kinds of freatment speedily got well under the application of the liq. carbonis deter gens. We esteem it a very valuable addition to our list of skin remedies, and worthy of a very extended trial by the profession. In the above classes of disease, and in various others, such as fetid ulcers, etc., the preparation is put into the form of some.
