The American Race—Las of Freedom—Our Expected Civitization.

New York, Oct 20.—In an interview published here, Herbert Spencer says the newspapers have made erroneous statements in regard to his disorders, dress, dress, habits, etc. He states that what he has seen in America far exceeded his expectations. Books about America that he had looked into gave him no adequate idea of the immense development of material civilization which he everywhere found. The extent of the wealth and magnificence of our cities, especially the splendor of New York, altogether astonished him. He thinks free institutions have been partly the cause of these results, but not the chief cause. He says the American people have come into possession of an unparalleled for tune in mineral wealth and wast tracts of fortune in mineral wealth and wast tracts of results while learning the most of determination—of a kind of do or die expression—and this trait of character, joined with power of work exceeding that of any other need for economizing labor has been so wisely fostered. "I perceive in American faces generally a greak amount of determination—of a kind of do or die expression—and this trait of character, joined with power of work exceeding that of any other power of work which professes to set assthetic inventiveness, which, stimulated by the need for economizing labor has been so wisely fostered. "Spencer further says: "The American people, while greatly prospering, are like the Italian republics of the middle ages, gradually LOSINO THEIR FREEDOM."

He remarks: You retain the forms of free-the remarks: You retain the sevency fostered. Spencer forther any average pring, are like the Italian republics of the middle ages, gradually mannow."

He remarket: You retain the form of freedom, but as far as I can gather there has been considerable inso of the community of the world of command by ally, as did the dependent of the old fender to override when the world of command by ally, as did the dependent of the old fender to override when the community as the command to the community as the common of the comm

That the great city will ere long be hardly recognizable by its former denizens, all the world has heard. The risitor passing up the Thames now finds his eye gratified by the many handsome edifices recently erected. As he reaches the famous Victoria Embankment, there rises over him on the right hand the new Times office, and on the left hand the new tower-crowned works of Mesers. James Epps & Co., both phases of Italian architecture. It may be said that these two destablishments have brought these two establishments have brought these two establishments have brought themselyes to the fore, and that the annual issue of each has come to be estimated by insilions. During the last year the number of copies of the Times issued is estimated at 16,276,000, while the number of packets of Epps' Cocoa sent off in the same period is computed at 14,749,695. The latter is a large total, when it is borne in mind that in 1830 the consumpsion of cocoa throughin 1830 the consumpsion of cocoa throug visitor passing up the Thames now finds his eye gratified by the many hand-

The young Temple barrister who, as the telegraph informs us, has been chosen of counsel for Arabi Pasha, is an interesting person. Hon. Mark Francis Napier is the third son of the distinguished diplomat, Lord Napier and Ettrick of Thirlstane Castle, Selkirk. He now resides with his father in law, Lord Ranelagh of Mulgrave house, Fulham, having married his young est daughter Emily. Mrs. Napier is a charming woman and noted beauty, and on her marriage was chape-oned by Mrs. Langtry, who came up from Jersey for the Junyson. Adjoining their estate is the site of the Hurlinghar and Ranelagh club, noted for polo, lawn tennis pigeon shooting and other forms of sport.
