FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 11, 1884 THE JUNE EXAMINATIONS. List of Successful Students at the Normal School. The following is a list of those normal school students who passed successfully the June examinations for professional second class certificates. Certain of the cash at a time. The remainder will be, of course, one, two, three or four cash, and the winner is determined by the accident of the remaining number of cash corresponding with the number of the square on which he has placed his stakes. The game is called fantan.

Some time ago the publishers of the Star reluctantly consented to become the custodians of checks for $4000, staked by one Fortier, a cigar maker, and one Davis, who is in the same business, in support of a certain challenge respectively given and accepted by them. We begged these gentlemen to select other custodians, because we have made it a rule not to hold money under such circumstances. Both the interested parties urged us so strongly to make an exception to our wholesome rule in this particular case -on the ground that the whole amount of the forfeit was to be the whole amount of the forfeit was to be distributed among charities—that "for sweet charity's sake" we accepted the trust. We need not say that we only accepted the responsibility in the conviction that both Fortier and Davis were acting in good faith, and that we had not the re-motest intention of assisting either of these parties to play a royal game of "blnff." It will be remembered that the challenge and acceptance were made as public as printer's ink could make them and our name being freely proclaimed as the stake-holders, we of course felt it to be our im-perative duty to see that the public were not humbugged or the charities defrauded without exposure. From the outset Davis has fulfilled all his promises and shown an unmistakable desire to test the matter in has fulfilled all his promises and shown an unmistakable desire to test the matter in dispute. Fortier was equally valiant until he began to realize that his money was in jeopardy. Except for his original quib-bling about the terms of the challenge, his refusal to allow arbitrators to decide whether Davis' acceptance was regular and other obstacles placed by him in the way of a settlement, Fortier made a fair show
