res for Sunday church services seems to be the latest dodge to get up an audience. I pity the minister or members of any Christian church who have to adopt such taotics. If the fault lies with the minister, the sooner he betakes himself to a field where his talents will be appreciated the better. But if amateur singing is the choice of the members they should at least supply singing talent that would be worth listening to, as those attracted by it would deprive themselves of going to churches which do not require to adopt such doubtful assistance, Church-Goer.
