

CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO MARKET--August 30, 1899.

From the Bartlett Fraser Co., Chicago. H. J. Coon, Manager, 39 St. Sacramento St.

GOOD OPENING - 720,000 SOLD FOR EXPORT - 1 CENT ADVANCE OF WHEAT IN 20 MINUTES.

Chicago, Aug. 30th.

It is said that among the orders coming in from abroad there is a great scarcity of orders for wheat, yet in face of this bearish factor, there was very little depression in wheat prices this morning. Liverpool cable, in fact, quoted wheat as $\frac{1}{4}$ higher, with fairly steady tendency and demand, and Chicago openings in the wheat market showed no decline except in September variety. Here there was a recession followed by a downward tendency, not indeed very marked, while in other varieties, the openings were on the same level as yesterday's close. Corn, which was unchanged on Liverpool market made a better showing at the opening, but further sales gathered no more vigor. Previous openings were in the majority of cases 2 or 3 cents off, and so far as could be learned from the earlier morning sales, indicate that their later movements would not be on any improved basis.

Northwest cars were received to the amount of 373; Minn. 143, Duluth 230. This is in excess of the 175 of last week.

Shortly after noon the market brightened and prices of wheat in 20 minutes leaped up 1 cent. On word of 90 car loads, (i.e.) 720,000 bushels having been sold for export
