SUDDEN DEATH

A Young Lady Member of St. Mary's Church Passes Away.

It is with much regret that we have to announce the death of Miss Kate O'Donoghue, daughter of Mr. John O'Donoghue, of this city, which sad event occurred at the General Hospital early Sunday morning. Deceased had been ill only a comparatively short time, and had just undergone an operation at the hospital which it was hoped would restore her to her former health. On Saturday afternoon it was thought she was rapidly recovering, but she suddenly took a change for the worse and expired during the night. The late Miss O'Donoghue was a well-known member of St. Mary's congregation and her untimely death will be mourned by a large circle of friends who will also sympathize deeply with the parents and other members of the bereaved family. The funeral took place yesterday, Requiem High Mass being celebrated at St. Mary's Church and the interment taking place at Fort Rouge. R. I. P.

Newfoundland Fishermen Go Down in the Sea singing the Hymn They Learned in Childhood.

A writer in MacMillan's Magazine gives an interesting description of picturesque St. Malo. He says: It is autumn and the Newfoundland fishing boats are already coming back, one by one. There is a saying here that it is "the wind of St. Francois that brings home the Terre-neuvas," and surely on Oct. 4, the fete of St. Francois d'Assissi, there is a fair strong wind blowing from the west. In many of the villages round St. Malo, and inland where one can no longer catch sight of the sea, there will be those who turn their faces westward to greet the wind that has filled the sails; in many of the cottages the good wife will look to her cider and tell herself it must be ready against the gars comes home. Perhaps the gars is indeed a boy, as the word signifies; perhaps, also, he is a gray-haired man; but to the good wife who waits for him at home he is always the gars, and she brings out the great armchair from the corner, where it has stood unused all the long summer, and sets it by the fire; it is empty still, but she fills it for the present with hope.

Outside the sun shines broadly golden and the trees wave in the wind; one hears the thud of falling apples, and the ground beneath is variously yellow or green or red with them; in the yard there is a scented shining heap of fruit, and the cidemill at work. Everywhere there is the rich, strong smell of apples in the air; it is autumn, and the Terre-neuvas are coming home.

Describing a beautiful religious custom of the place the writer says: Slowly the procession moves on till it reaches an altar built up against the ramparts of St. Malo, a mass of rocks, a boat dashing up against them, the foot draped with long grass-like seaweed, and on the rock the Virgin standing with hands outstretched, as if in greeting. The boat is filled with tiny boys, dressed like the others in white and blue as sailors; and as the crowd presses up, and the procession passes along slowly, the boys in the boat kneel, and lifting up their hands towards the Virgin, they begin to sing: "Ave, Maris Stella, Dei Mater Alma."

The sun shines brilliantly on the white veils of the girls, on the banners, the statuettes, on the tall crucifix; it shines on the upturned faces of the crowd, on the rocks and the boat, on the white Virgin and the little children that kneel and sing to her. And beyond, it shines on the sea, so blue to-day, so infinitely calm.

There was a schooner came home lately bringing with it some men from a goelette wrecked in a storm off the Newfoundland banks. They had been picked up half dead floating on spars; and they said that in the storm, themselves, beyond hope, they had seen another boat sink near them. She had gone down with her crew kneeling on her deck and singing: "Ave, Maris Stella! Hail, Star of the Sea!" The name of her was not known. Only she was lost, she and her crew that sang as these children were singing now, and who, perhaps long ago, when they were little lads, had themselves been chosen to sing and kneel in the boat dashing upon the mimic rocks at the Feast of the Rosary. She was lost, she and her crew. These are the Terre-neuvas, or Newfoundland fishermen, who do not come home.

A MOTHER'S THANKS.

SHE TELLS WHAT PINK PILLS DID FOR HER CHILD.

Suffered From St. Vitus' Dance—Lost the Use of Her Right Side and Almost Lost the Power of Speech—Cured in a Few Weeks.

Aylmer, Quebec Gazette. Of all the discoveries made in medicine in this great age of progress none have done more to alleviate human suffering than have Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. We suppose there is not a hamlet in this broad land in which the remarkable healing power of this favorite medicine has not been put to the test and proved triumphant. It is a great medicine and the good it has accomplished can only be faintly estimated. There are many in Aylmer who speak of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in terms of praise, and among them is the family of Mr. John Smith, the well-known blacksmith and wheelwright. Having heard that his daughter, Miss Minnie, had been cured of St. Vitus' dance by the use of Pink Pills, the Gazette called upon Mr. Smith to learn the particulars. Upon mentioning the matter to him he expressed pleasure in making the facts public, if it was thought that they would benefit any one else, and remarked that he thought Mrs. Smith could probably give the particulars better than himself. Mrs. Smith said that about a year ago Minnie was attacked with St. Vitus' dance, of a rather severe nature, and a number of medicines were tried, but without any effect upon the trouble. An electric battery was also used but had no beneficial effect. The trouble appeared to be getting more severe, and finally Minnie was obliged to discontinue going to school, having lost the power of her right side. Her speech was also so much affected it was with difficulty she could be understood. She was out of school for about six months and all this time she was undergoing treatment, which, however, proved ineffective. One day Mrs. Smith saw in the Gazette the particulars of a case of St. Vitus' dance cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and determined to try them with Minnie. By the time two boxes were used Mrs. Smith was sensible of a great improvement in her daughter's condition, and after the use of four more boxes was satisfied that Minnie was completely cured, as no symptoms of the trouble remained. This was about the end of June last, and since that time there has not been the slightest recurrence of the dreaded disease. While Minnie was taking the pills her weight increased, and her general health was much improved. Mrs. Smith said that her younger daughter showed symptoms of the same trouble, but the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily dissipated it. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are offered with a confidence that they are the only perfect and unailing blood builder and nerve restorer and when given a fair trial disease and suffering must vanish. They make rich, red blood and cure when other medicines fail.

Sold by all dealers or sent by mail, post paid at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y. Beware of imitations or substitutes alleged to be "just as good."
