

- Current efforts to improve early warning and informed analysis of potential future crises should be strengthened.
- Efforts to establish a trained, highly professional standing military and civilian rapid deployment capacity, organized as a spearhead to deal with the current intrastate situations that the UN is now mostly called on to deal with, should be intensified.