MORNING LOCALS

The Lord Carriers and Builders' Laborers' Union held a meeting last night in the Presmen's hall, Opera House, and decided to ask for two dollars a day to take effect after May 1. There were about 200 present and the meeting was a very enthusiastic one.

The fourth evening of the "Prestige Boys' Fair" at their hall, Guilford Street, Carleton, saw another large attendance. The prize winners were: Bean tow, Mr. Nicholas; air gun, C. McGuire; excelsior, M. Joyce; door prize, M. Joyce; 2nd door prize, Miss Marquay; ladies' bean toss, Mrs. Moody. The Carleton pipe band was present and rendered selections.

The Philanthropic Class of German street Baptist church last evening held a delightful entertainment in aid of the Seamen's Mission work. Those taking part were: A mandolin orchestra, members of the class; Misses Estabrooks, Short, McDiarmid, Haywood, Cookson, Dickson and Catbush.

Rev. G. Dickie last night returned after the Presbyterian Home Mission conference in Halifax. Mr. Dickie said he feared that supply would be difficult in some of the churches of this province, as the number of applications granted to New Brunswick had not been sufficient. Rev. M. S. McKay, of Springfield, was appointed to Waveig.

How to Tell if Your Hair is Diseased

Even if you have a luxuriant head of hair you may want to know whether it is in a healthy condition or not. 68 per cent of the people need a hair tonic. Pull a hair out of your head; if the bulb at the end of the root is white and shriveled, it proves that the hair is diseased, and requires prompt treatment. Its loss would be avoided. If the bulb is pink and full, the hair is healthy.

I want every one to know the hair requires treatment to prevent "30" Hair Tonic. I promise that I shall not say anything if it does not give satisfactory results. It is designed to overcome dandruff, relieve scalp irritation, to stimulate the hair roots, tighten the hair follicles in the head, grow hair and cure baldness.

It is because of that "30" Hair Tonic has done and my sincere faith in its goodness that I want you to try it at my risk. The sizes, 50c and $1.00. Sold only at my store—The Rexall Store, Chas. R. Wasson, 109 King Street.

A young lady living in El Paso, Tex., wrote to a friend in Richmond and addressed the letter to "307 West Grace Street, El Paso, Tex." The letter was delivered promptly to its proper destination in Richmond, Va., there being only one Grace Street in the city.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"You may carve it on his tombstone
You may cut it on his card
That a young man married
Is a young man married."

—Kipling.

THERE is a very well known business man in this country—so well known that if I should name him you would instantly recognize him—who goes about preaching the doctrine that there is nothing in the world hampers a man's success like marriage.

His father, he says, would have been a successful capitalist, instead of a poor man, if he hadn't gone and hampered himself by marrying.

(Where he would have been under these circumstances, this misogynist incidentally neglects to say.)

His favorite quotation is "He travels fastest who travels alone."

Now if this great man were the only man who felt and talked this way, no harm would be done.

But unfortunately, he is only a type—one of many. Every where young business men are hearing the cynical warning "Don't hamper yourself by marrying young."

If I were a minister, I think I should preach a sermon on that subject with that line for my anti-text—"He travels fastest who travels alone."

Perhaps he does. I'm not so sure myself, but I won't try to dispute that now.

But stop a minute and think—he may travel fastest who travels alone, but how much interest and amusement does he get out of the journey, compared with the man who is content to retard his headlong speed by a companion.

Fast travel is the obsession of the twentieth century. And fast travel, not only for the sake of getting anywhere quickly and of saving time, but for its own sake.

People seem to have somehow gotten the notion that the only way to find happiness is to run her down in some high speed outfit—a seventy-horsepower automobile or a Mauretania, or a mile-a-minute limited or an airship.

That happiness should ever elude him the old-fashioned "buggy" or slip out of the lugged and grasping hands with the footgear, and trudge along with him to the journey's end, seems an impossibility to the typical twentieth century.

Personally, I have a kind of notion—of course, it may be quite unfounded—that happiness doesn't like to be hurried too much and that she rather fancies dwelling with people who know the meaning of such grand old-fashioned words as "serenity" and "tranquility."

"He travels fastest who travels alone"—yes, if there is nothing that you care about on this journey but thundering along at a mile a minute rate, with a cloud of dust behind, that may be an unanswerable argument against matrimony, young man.

But if by any chance you are one who cares something for the beauties by the way, remember that even slacker speed may be compensated by having someone to enjoy these beauties with you, to listen with you to the robin's song in the spring and love the richness of the harvest and the scarlet of the maple in the fall when fall must come, to exult in the freshness of the morning and to understand the grandeur of the setting sun when it must be crested.

Of course, I do not like to see young people rush into foolish marriages which they will soon be persading some judge to untie.

But quite as little do I like to hear too much of this talk about putting off matrimony until the man is thirty or thirty-five, until he can supply his wife with all the luxury her father's home has gradually acquired, until marriage means no sacrifice at all.

If I had a son, I should pray that he might meet the right girl and be married, at least, by the time he was twenty-five.

Perhaps he might not travel so fast as if he travelled alone, but I'd be willing to risk that for him.

HUNDRED THOUSAND CHILDREN TO BE THE GUESTS OF KING GEORGE

Queen Mary Joins Heartily in Project for Entertaining Little Ones at Crystal Palace Fete

London, March 23.—The king has announced his intention of entertaining 100,000 of the London children at a fete to be held at the Crystal Palace on Friday, June 30, in celebration of the coronation. It is said that the king formed the idea several years ago, when the court was at Windsor.

The queen is much interested in the proposal, and is giving the scheme her enthusiastic support. A thoroughly representative and capable committee has already been formed, but no details have as yet been so much as outlined.

The king has decided to present to each child a special souvenir of the occasion in the shape of a coronation heeler. These will be made by the Royal Doulton Pottery, Burslem, of the same design as those provided on the occasion of Queen Victoria's jubilee. A special portrait of his majesty in his admiral's uniform will be reproduced on the heeler.

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches broke out over my skin. I tried medicine for some time, but without satisfactory results. At last I was told that I should use Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, and I looked them up for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were found. They were the best I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, and my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box.

TO START HEAD OF BUFFALO IN PERU

Sunapee, N. H., March 23.—Three buffalo—a bull and two cows—have been shipped to New York, where they will be placed aboard a steamer for Callao, Peru. The buffalo were purchased from the late Austin Corbin's Blue Mountain reservation by the Peruvian government and will become the nucleus of the first herd of bison in South America.

The buffalo were selected from the Corbin herd, which is said to be the largest and finest of any in the world, by an old Mountaine hunter, who manages the Blue Mountain preserve. The animals were run down in the deep snow and easily roped and removed for shipment.

The Corbin herd of buffalo is pronounced by naturalists to be the best in captivity. In numbers it is probably the largest in the world. Austin Corbin, son of the founder of the great preserve, says that the present thinning out of the herd is not working any material injury, as in most cases where shipments are made only bulls are sold, leaving the cows and calves to increase the productivity.

In Cape Town, South Africa, the power in the central station is switched off for an instant every evening, causing the electric lights to blink. This is done for the purpose of letting the residents know the correct time.
