Coroner's Inquest at Vancouver Will Be Resumed on December 28

Vancouver, Dec. 14.—The inquest on the body of George Edward Black, the unfortunate victim of the supposed poisoned supper given in his rooms at 892 Granville strict on Saturday night, was commenced Monday afternoon. After a sitting which lasted upwards of two hours, during which time four witnesses were examined, the inquiry was adjourned till 8 o'clock in the evening of Wednesday, December 28. By that time the analysis of the contents of the stomach and other organs of the body which were preserved after the postmortem, will have been concluded and further light will be thrown on the actual cause of death.

FALL PROVES FATAL.

Vancouver, Dec. 16.-A very sad accident happened here which resulted in the death of Mrs. Annie Hill of 818 Eighteenth avenue west the following day. While her husband and son were sitting at the supper table, Mrs. Hill stepped out to the porch to take something into the house. She had not been feeling very well for a few days and suddenly took a fainting spell, slipping down the steps and falling on her head. Port Alberni, was returning home after a trip over the muddy roads to Cameron lake, with two passengers. Tom Costen, of the new town, and a stranger from one of the railway construction camps. When the driver reached the creek he decided to put his horses through the stream to wash them off. Cause of death.

At the inquest Dr. George F. Curtis, who made the post-mortem examination of the remains, read his report. In reply to a last question from the coroner he stated that in his opinion the condition of the organs which he had examined went to show that there was poison of some kind in the stomach, although, as he had said previously, he could not point to any one particular thing or concentration of things which would cause the man's least.

APPEAL BY HINDU AGAINST SENTENCE

Special Sitting of Court Yesterday Heard Arguments in Vancouver Assault Case

(From Wednesday's Daily.) Arguments were concluded and judgment reserved in the Court of Appeal yesterday afternoon in the stated case of Inman Din, who appealed from a conviction and sentence of ten years received in the county court judge's criminal court in Vancouver for an assault on a boy of tender years.

The conviction was based on evidence of the lad, 9 years of age, and his brother, 6 years of age, and as there was no corroboration of the boys' evidence the appellant applied for a stated case. The appeal is based the younger boy was inadmissible and that Judge McInnis heard one charge and, without disposing of it, heard a second against the same accused.
