Fold ve the ice-cold hands,

Smooth ye the soft brown hair, Still on the marble brow; No earthly cloud doth linger there, To mar its beauty now, But brow, and life and darken'd eye, Bear a shade of deep repose, As twilight shadows softly lie, On the wide winter snows

No voice of discord wakes The silence, still and deep, And the far off sounds of worldly strife, And the far off sounds of worldly strife, cannot break the dreamless sleep.

Then tenderly, tenderly, fold the hands, in peace on the pulseless break, For the evening shadows come quickly on And sweet is the Christian's rest.

At Bay du Vin, Oct. 29th., Betay, beloved wife Samuel Kingston, in the 74th year of her aglesting a husband and five children to mourn the loss.

O, now we have no mother, From us she has gone away, We hope she gained her crown of gold. And never can go astray. The angels have surrounded her, And led her far away, Her soul in heaven doth shine, Her body is in the clay.
