GIFT TO LIBRARY

When Hon. Richard Harcourt, Minister of Education, was in the city recently opening the new library, he suggested that the Mayor of the city and Warden of the County donate thereto Drummond's edition of "Baxter's Second Innings," that Geo. Stephens, M. P., give the Frontenac edition of Parkman and that Chairman Dr. Charteris present a copy of "Sydney Smith."

Mayor McKeough and Warden Robinson have generously acted on the suggestion. They have through W. J. Kenny forward one dozen copies of "Baxter's Second Innings" as a gift to the library.

The essays, as such, are masterpieces; they tell the story of the Grail from the time it was given by Pilate, Rome's Governor, to Joseph of Arimathea, who carried it to Britain and gave it to Amfortas, the Fisher King.

This sacred legend has been sung by bard, glorified by poet and adored immortal by the brush of the greatest masters throughout the centuries, Tennyson embodying it in his Idylls, Wagner, mightiest of dramatists, rendering it immortal in his two grand operas, Lohengrin and Parsifal.

Edwin Abbey, the painter of the celebrated coronation scene, has fifteen panels, idealistic pictures of the Grail, in the library at Boston, Mass.

BAD FALL

Deputy Registrar McKeand has Narrow Escape—Dangerous Practice Which Should be Stopped

T. K. McKeand, Deputy Registrar, met with a very nasty accident on King street last evening about ten minutes to seven. He was on his way to church and was crossing King St. at the Garner House corner when he was run into by a horse and buggy.

Two young men, evidently farmers, were racing horses up and down the street. Mr. McKeand saw them coming towards him at a terrific rate, and jumped to one side to escape. In doing so he jumped in front of another rig which was coming from the other direction and which he did not notice, owing to the fact that it was quite dark around the corner at the time. He fortunately was not struck by the horse, but he was caught between the shaft and the front wheel. He was thrown to the pavement and both wheels passed over his neck and shoulder.

He was taken into the Garner House and Dr. Hall was called. While waiting for the doctor Mr. McKeand was taken with a faint, partly owing to the heated atmosphere in the residence. He was later taken to his home and it was found that his injuries were not serious, although his shoulder and leg were badly bruised. He will be confined to his home for a short time.

Speeding horses should not be allowed on King St. and the authorities should take stringent measures to have it stopped. It is a dangerous practice, and it is a wonder that there are not more accidents.

A TIE GAME

The Chatham Collegiate Institute football team went to Ridgeway on Saturday and played against the Ridgeway C. I. team. The game resulted in a tie, 1-1. Dennis scoring the Chatham goal. Long grass and a high wind made the game much slower than it would otherwise have been. The forward line played well and the backs and goal keeper played perfectly. The following was the Chatham line-up:—

Goal—Russell.
Bucks—Campbell and Rolton.
Half-backs—Liddy, Sissons and Ferguson.
Forwards—Oliver, Martin, Humphrey, Dennis and Baker.

PECULIAR CASE

George M. Swarthout was arraigned at the police court this morning on the charge of getting money under false pretences.

Rumble and Joseph Phair paid Swarthout $275 for the patent right for Elgin County, entitling them to sell a burner attachment for coal oil stoves. The machine could also be used in book stores. Phair and Rumble allege that Swarthout told them that the burner would only use a certain amount of oil per hour and that they are unable to use less than double the quantity in the hour.

Swarthout pleaded not guilty and was remanded till the 28th. O. L. Lewis appeared for defendant.

REHEARSAL AT THE PINES

There will be a full rehearsal to-morrow evening at "The Pines" of the beautiful history of the Kymric Legends, as will be given on Wednesday afternoon in the Academy Hall.

The "Holy Grail" is the subject chosen out of the many grand old legends of the Kymric Cycle. In their essays on this soul inspiring theme the young lady students show not only a thorough acquaintance with their subject but a keen seeking after knowledge which is most admirable.

The essays, as such, are masterpieces; they tell the story of the Grail from the time it was given by Pilate, Rome's Governor, to Joseph of Arimathea, who carried it to Britain and gave it to Amfortas, the Fisher King.

This sacred legend has been sung by bard, glorified by poet and adored immortal by the brush of the greatest masters throughout the centuries, Tennyson embodying it in his Idylls, Wagner, mightiest of dramatists, rendering it immortal in his two grand operas, Lohengrin and Parsifal.

Edwin Abbey, the painter of the celebrated coronation scene, has fifteen panels, idealistic pictures of the Grail, in the library at Boston, Mass.

CHATHAM GIRLS

Several speakers who were present at the graduation paid very high tribute to the new nurses. Miss Wright will return to this city in a short time.

Misses Margaret and Cora Sandison are sisters of Miss Ethel Sandison, stenographer in Houston, Stone & Scane's law offices.

A TRANSLATION

The Minister of Agriculture wrote last year asking the different manufacturers of the Dominion to send articles of their manufacture for exhibition at the World's Fair in Japan.

The Maple City Creamery sent a sample of butter. This butter proved to be the best in the world and the officials of the exhibition sent a diploma. When C. E. Lister got the diploma there was nobody could read it. Warden Robinson is an expert reader so he invited David Fletcher, ex-Reeve of Tilbury, W. C. Sifton and John Vester to go up to the creamery and see him read the diploma. When the Warden found that the diploma was written in Japanese characters and you had to read it backwards, he didn't care. He read it just the same, said he could read it just as easy with both hands tied.

The following is the Warden's translation—"If the King of Japan, after carefully examining and testing the butter from the different factories of the Dominion, pronounce the butter from Chatham the best in the world and have appropriated the whole exhibit to my own use and benefit, and I wish that the Chatham Creamery would send another consignment."
