A QUESTION OFTEN RAISED

by persons reminded of the benefits of Life Insurance is this "Suppose after paying premiums for several years I find myself unable to continue, do I lose all I have paid?"

The answer is altogether assuring. In the Great-West Life Assurance Company the most ample provision is made for this and every other contingency. After paying three premiums the Policyholder may, if need arises, either Accept a loan on his Policy more than sufficient to pay the next premium.

Accept a paid-up Policy for an amount stated in the contract.

Extend the Insurance for a given period without the payment of further premiums.

There is no possibility of loss under a Great-West Policy. Rates are low, and the profits to Policyholders remarkably high.
