The opening of Parliament took place on the The event was attended with favourable circumstances. The weather was fine, the sttendance brilliant, and the people enthusinste in their expressions of loyalty to the Queen. The Speech is of the usual stump. Her Majesty continues to maintain the most friendly relations with foreign powers.

In the Lords, the Address was moved by the Earl of Albermarle and seconded by Lord Leigh. The Address in the Commons was moved by Sir R. W. Bulkeley, and seconded by Mr. Bonham Caster. A long debate took place in the house on the resignation of Lord Palmerston. European Times says the explanation of the Pretary have added little to what was previously known of the causes which led to that extraordimary rupture. But the rupture is complete.

It is worthy of remark that about the facts of this extraordinary movement there are no diserepencies. In levery respect the two versions of the same transaction agree But it peeps out, incidentally, that previous misunderstandings had occurred, arising out of Palmerston's rejuctance to submit the coutine of his department to the supervision of the Crown or the Prime

Lord Palmerston at the close of his defence recounts, with honourable pride, the pirt which he has played in the great game of nations. A VILLAGE SWEPT AWAY -ONE HUNDRED PERSONS MISSING .- The heavy rains which fell on Tuesday and Wednesday fast have produced a most alarming destruction of property in Yorkshire, Lancashire, Cheshire, and Derbyshire. One truly awful calamity has occurred at the village of Holmfirth, near Huddersfield, by the overflow of a reservoir used for supplying the iles mills and a number of the dwellings in the neighbourhood with water, and known as the Holme Reservoir. On Thursday morning, about one o'clock, it burst with a tremendous roar, and the water rushed down the valley with terrific force, carrying away an immense mill, built of with all its heavy machinery, &c. several outbuildings, two rows of new buildings at Holmfirth, and part of the village of Hinchcieffe Mills. Nearly all the inhabitants we e asleep at the time, and were swept to a considerable distince, a number of bodies having been taken fon the river 15 miles from the spot. One hun dred persons are missing, and more than sixty dead bodies are said to be lying at the inns.

The most remarkable indication of the state of trade in Birmingham during the past year is to be derived from the savings of the working These are shown in various ways. The accounts of the savings bank for the year 1851, although not yet published, are made up; and it appears that during the last 12 months, there has been an increase of 1025 depositors, and of upwards of £29,000 in deposits. The aggregate amount of depos ts, as will be shown report when it appears, is close upon £400,000. There are numerous freehold land and building societies in Birmingham, and not less than £70,000 has been paid by the artisans of that town into their various treasurers.
