The primary teacher placed on the board a drawing intended to represent a worm, and wrote beneath for a reading lesson: 'This is a worm; do not step on it.'

'Now,' she said, 'who will read the story for us?' A dozen pairs of eyes looked intently at the words, some little brows wrinkled momentarily in the struggle, and tiny Mabel's face cleared with a smile as her hand went up; and then she read: 'Thith ith a warm doughnut; thtep on it.'

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic and Cramps

Nearly every one is troubled with bowel complaint during the summer months. But, do they know what to do to cure it. Thousands do, many don't.

WE CAN TELL YOU!
DR. FOWLER'S
Extract of Wild Strawberry
WILL DO IT!

It has been on the market 64 years, and is universally used in thousands of families.

There are many imitations of this sterling remedy, so do not be led into taking something "just as good" which some unscrupulous druggist tries to talk you into taking.

Dr. Fowler's is the original. There are none just as good. It cures Summer Complaint, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Seasickness and all Bowel Complaints.

Price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. M. Burn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

What is the reason for the Percheron's popularity? There is no doubt it is on account of their general adaptability for other climates. They are especially uniform in type, and are consistently dark greys and blacks, not 1 per cent. being of other colors. Their chief characteristics are that they are possessed of great hardness of constitution, with a manageable disposition, are easily handled, have big, blue, hard feet, plenty of bone, are devoid of grease and all superfluous hair, and big of muscle. For weight they are most deceptive, sealing much more than appearances would suggest, and moreover they are of inherent soundness.

In other parts of France there are other breeds of draft horses, such as the Boullanaise, the Nevenais, and the Old Norman or grey stallion, the latter being popular years ago, but his day has gone on account of his lightness of color. These breeds are not exported to any extent nowadays, although they had their day of prosperity, and each has its separate stud book. They have none of them the neatness of formation of the Percheron.

An express run of about four and a half hours takes one from Paris to Brussels, and into the country of the Belgian horse, a more scattered area than that of La Perche, and the animals are not so easy of access. Belgians are bred practically throughout the whole of Belgium and parts of Flanders, and an up-to-date horse of this class shows more of the characteristics of the Shire, in the way of color, formation, and disposition. Yet here again we find him more popular with the foreign buyer, because one discovers in him a weighty horse, big-boned, active, with enormous breechings, and devoid of hair on the legs. The grandest lot of draft horses, and suitable for any country or climate, which our informant has seen together was to be held at the recent Brussels Show. About 700 were catalogued, all of a uniform type, scores of aged stallions weighing over an English ton with easily a foot or more of bone, and legs showing none of the characteristics of malindars and grease, which is the foreigners' bete noir.

It is not too much to reiterate that breeders of draught horses must study quality and hair before they can expect to attract the foreigner to any extent, and when we can get limbs as devoid of hair as a Percheron or a Belgian, we may look forward to being in the same happy position which the breeders of those two countries occupy. Not with a stinted market, but with a demand which almost exceeds the supply, and which must of necessity enhance prices. Let the scientist take a trip into the breeding districts of the Percheron and Belgian horse, and he will get an eye-opener as to what the American demand alone is worth for a popular horse.

MILLET SMUT

During the past year a fungous disease of millet appeared at various places in Iowa. The botanical section of the Iowa Experiment Station found upon investigation that the disease was millet smut, a trouble very common in the millet-growing sections of Europe. It was probably imported to this country in seed brought from Germany. Professor Pammel finds that the disease can be prevented by soaking the seed for two hours in a solution of one pound of formalin to forty-five gallons of water.

A full account of this disease, together with other fungous diseases affecting millet, wheat, oats, beans and melons is given in Bulletin No. 101, of the Iowa Experiment Station.

PROTECTION FROM LIGHTNING

As many people are killed or injured, and an immense amount of property destroyed by lightning every year, Professor Henry, of the United States Weather Bureau, thinks more attention should be given to protection from lightning. The professor has recently prepared a paper on this subject, and it has been published as Farmers' Bulletin No. 367, of the United States Department of Agriculture. In explaining what lightning is and how to prevent buildings from
