

general direction the tunnel is taking, keeps back to report; and is instructed to carry the news to the trench he has left.

The news is told to a responsible officer; and the natural result is a counter-mine, designed to tap the enemy's tunnel, and either blow it up or else use it as an entrance to the trench, under which circumstances the bomb-throwers will have a safe half-hour to themselves later.

BOMB CARRYING LISTENERS. There is another kind of listening-post. It sometimes happens that when two trench lines are very close together—and in some sectors of the long Western line British and German trenches are very close—a narrow sap is stealthily dug outward to the enemy lines, and at the end of this sap a post is established, not only to listen but also to act.

That is to say, the listeners are provided with bombs, and in addition to being note of every sound and reporting it to the proper quarter, they are free, within limits, to leave the bombs to such points as promise effective results.

For instance, such a listener, crouching behind his breastwork of earth, hears a mutter of voices; he decides in his own mind that a small party of men are assembled at some definite spot; by dint of straining his ears he can tell almost to a foot where they are. Having satisfied himself of this, he lights the fuse of a bomb and looks in the direction of the sound, covering down immediately it is thrown, lest the ensuing flash disclose his presence to a sentry of the other side.

If in any case you are discovered by an enemy patrol of scouts nosing around in search of game, you can do one thing or the other: either you can die as you crouch or you can make a fight with the bayonet, and hope that the patrol will hurry up in time, a remote possibility under the circumstances.

It is, however, a point of honour to make as little noise as possible when you are killing or being killed; just as some listening-posts, with a high sporting instinct, never attack an enemy listening-post, no matter how tempting the opportunity might be.

It has been known for two opposing posts to lie throughout the best part of an entire night within a yard of one another, without either detecting the other.

Deadly dangerous work it is, out on listening post, and perhaps that is why our officers are always inundated with requests from volunteers to be allowed to undertake the job.

It has that smack of the adventurous, of an unknown treading with possibilities which has ever had a strong appeal for men of our blood!

CARVELL REVERTS TO HAY CONTRACT
Seeks to Explain Penalty Provision Against More Than $8 a Ton.

Ottawa, March 4.—The House spent a dull, but businesslike day in committee. Agricultural estimates formed the subject matter of discussion all afternoon and again in the evening. A number of important bills, including three million dollars, were passed during the intervals of Opposition criticism which, as usual, was conducted largely by a small group of Maritime Province Liberals.
Mr. F. B. Carvell endeavored to utilize the occasion to explain the now famous hay contract to which, as secretary-treasurer of the New Brunswick Hay Company, during the party and which forbade under pain of penalties, sub-contractors to pay more than $8 per ton for the farmer's hay.
Mr. Carvell admitted responsibility for the contract, but claimed the price restriction was inserted at the request of one of the sub-contractors to protect him against members of the company who themselves engaged in purchasing hay from the farmers. The statement was also made by Mr. Carvell and Mr. J. G. Turritt that a report by the Dairy Commissioner of Canada, which had been printed, had been recalled and altered because it contained the assertion that purchases for the War Office were being made under the same satisfactory methods as during the South African War.
The Acting Minister of Agriculture, Hon. J. D. A. Macdonald, stated that any alteration which had been made had been for the detention of information of which it was not in the interest of the public to circulate and that nothing of the kind had been eliminated referred to hay contracts or anything of the kind. As for Carvell's hay contract, Mr. Hazen reminded the Minister of Agriculture had already discussed that matter in the House, and had shown the would-be champion of the New Brunswick farmers in a light which was making him extremely unpopular in his own constituency.

TEN THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED FOR FARMS OF WESTERN CANADA.
The Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta require ten thousand men from Eastern Canada and the United States for spring and Summer farm work this year. There will be an abundance of employment for all men willing to work on the land. Owing to the big task of gathering in the record harvest, much work was left undone last fall and even with the aid of modern farm machinery, now in general use throughout the West this year will call for a large army of men. It will be well to take care of this demand and induce desirable people to settle in Western Canada to do the work on Tuesday, March 7th, and on each Tuesday thereafter until the end of October special home-seekers' excursions from all points in Canada. Full information can be obtained from any Grand Trunk Agent.
