All's Well.

The clouds, which rise with thunder, shake

Our thirty souls with rain;

The blow most dreaded falls to break

From off our limbs a chain.

And wrongs of man to man but make

The love of God more plain.

As through the shadowy lines of even

The eye looks farther into heaven

On gleams of our sad souls of bliss

The gliding sunshine never knew!

Miss Clay's Career

By Carson Adams

Claribel Clay was returning from college, and her family and friends were in considerable excitement. It was an event of more than surface importance, and the whole town was agog.

"Nothing to tell," the girl muttered, as she brushed her hair.

"Nothing to tell? Good heavens! You've been away for four years in college!"

"Let her alone, Emma!" exclaimed the father. "Can't you see she is tired?"

"I'll bet she will talk enough when Will Harris comes in! If you take my advice you will listen to him. He has got one of the best business brains in town and growing every day. A splendid fellow who would make you a good home. Much better than this writing racket, which never brings in enough to—but you don't seem pleased with what I am saying!"

"No, Aunt Emma, it doesn't quite fit in with my idea," the girl took another slice of bread, and refilled her tumbler.

"I don't see why. You'd travel a long while before you'd come across another man like him. He has just bought that lot opposite the new library. You know a man won't wait for a girl always! That lot opposite the new library is just the pace for a house. You can have it if—"

"Mother!" exclaimed the girl at the table. "I think I have had enough supper."

That evening Claribel was scarcely more communicative with Will Harris than she had been with her parents and her pretty little aunt. The two sat in the parlor together and for a while both were silent. Then he began.

"I suppose you know what I am going to say, Claribel?" he said.

"The girl shook her head. 'I've learned a little forward in my chair, I have been a long while working for you,'" she said.

"I don't encourage you, Will," she said. "I went on just the same. I thought of only you and I have loved only you, just as I did when I was a girl. I have always loved you, Claribel."

"I am very sorry, Will—"

"The man went on as if he had not heard her.

"I have built up the business, and I have bought that lot opposite the new library. I thought you would like it there. You is what I have always done, dear, what I thought you would like. We could make a trip some time to New York or Boston. Can't you love me as much, Claribel? I wouldn't interfere with your writing—"

"I don't do both, Will," the girl replied firmly, and looked down at her folded hands. "It is very nice of you—"

"Nice of me? The man broke out, 'nice of me, when I love you more than all things isn't that something, Claribel, for a man to love you that much?'"

"I don't see what the world will care about what is in you half as much as I care, Claribel!" the girl looked at him, sadly. He went on eagerly. "I don't think it will or can. Do you remember when I carried your school books? I loved you ever then. I have always loved you."

"The old couple nodded.

"But of course, put in the mother, quickly, 'although he has done well, it is nothing to what you will be doing when you are started. But you are a PATRONAGE SOLICITED.'

Boy Had Fits For 6 Years

Druggist advised DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD—Cure complete.

Mrs. J. D. Palmer, of Park St., Annapolis, N. Y., writes: "When six years of age my boy began to have fits. They came on in the night. He would make violent noises, stiffen, and foam at the mouth. His face would turn blue, and he would turn purple. After the fit he would not talk."

"The family physician said all he could do was to keep them down some what. The general physician pronounced it trouble Jeffersonian epilepsy, but could not cure him. He suffered for six years and before being cured the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food had three fits in about five days. Our druggist recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. He has taken seven boxes and he is now well. He has the use of his mind and he is now a healthy boy. We are glad to say we are cured. We consider his cure complete."

Such results are only obtained by the use of the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food—get from imitations or substitutes. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is sold by W. C. Johnson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Her Aunt Emma was not inspiring nor was she encouraging. She had never done anything but doubt her ability.

"Why not?" she had said one day. "Why should I not say what I think? Here's the girl back two months, and what has she done? I don't see any checks coming in! I don't hear of any requests from editors for stories or anything like that! All I can see is a spoiled girl, who does nothing but dream and go into fits, I should call them, when she might be decently married to a decent man and in her own home."

Death After a Scratch.

Morris Quatman, an eleven year old Windsor boy, fell off of his bicycle and scratched his wrist. He thought of the injury, but blood poisoning set in and he is dead.

Such accidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simple illustration, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence or a thorn, scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs, of which the air about us is full. Directly these germs are introduced through the breach in the skin, a royal battle ensues between them, and certain organisms win out.

The way to avoid serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful, yet painless germ killer, and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and inflammation.

As soon as applied to a sore or a cut Zam-Buk stops the pain and the smarting. That is why it is so popular with children.

The flesh thus soothed and purified the wound is made perfectly healthy, and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the sore or sore, and a new healthy tissue is built up in a quick, painless and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing anti-septic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but it is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworm, etc. it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at fifty cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Hazardous imitations should be always refused.

The Apple As a Money Coiner

Apple orchards in Virginia are now producing at the rate of from $10 to $500 per acre, and as a money coiner are taking first rank in that state.

Apples are the principal fruit crop of the state. They are extensively grown and every year more trees are planted. In one of the valley counties a 17 year old orchard of 1,150 trees produced a crop which the farmer sold for $70,000, or nearly $100 a tree.

Twenty-two counties have each more than 100,000 apple trees. Yet Virginia ranks fourth among the apple growing states of the union.

The buyers usually buy the apples on the trees, paying cash and doing their own picking, unless the seller prefers some other arrangement. As much as $600 an acre has been paid for apples on the trees.

When our own peerless Annapolis Valley is fully developed and has all its suitable areas covered with well cared for orchards, yielding such golden harvests as above, which doubtless is being done now in many instances in favorable years there will be a golden stream of British money flowing annually into our land, spreading prosperity in its wake.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by Band's Drug Store.

You wouldn't move into a store so small that you couldn't display half your stock—so don't try to advertise in half enough space either.

Tonic or Stimulant?

There is an immense difference between a tonic and a stimulant. One day, way back the next, that's a stimulant. Steady progress day by day toward perfect health; that's a tonic. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic, a strong tonic. The only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. Do not stimulate unless your doctor says so. He knows. Ask him. Do as he says. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Continued by the one great cause of skin diseases, it is a tonic, healthy, refreshing. Use your doctor or recommended Ayer's Pills to you!

A Hint to Farmers.

(From the Bridgemen Monitor.)

The present season seems an opportune time to impress upon the agriculturists of the Valley, the danger and folly of making horticulture a hobby to the extent of neglecting all other departments of agriculture.

Specialization to a certain extent may be desirable and there is doubtless a temptation to follow a branch of farming which yields such remarkable value for the work expended, as does fruit culture in our Valley, but fortunately, there comes an exceptional year, like the present, when the conviction is severely forced upon us that unless more effort is expended in other directions disaster must result to our agricultural interests and consequently to the general commercial interests of the province which are greatly affected by the success or failure of our crops.

In such a year as this when climatic conditions have so affected fruit culture, it is the general farmer who comes to the rescue—the man who has looked beyond the present and who has not failed to realize that the splendid fertility of our soil cannot last indefinitely and that unless means are used to supply the humus necessary to sustain it complete exhaustion and sterility will follow.

This is the farmer—and it is to be feared he is more exceptional than should be—who does not expend all his energy in the care of his trees but devotes some thought and care to the condition and productiveness of his live stock, and instead of turning all his tillable soil into orchards, reserves a suitable acreage for the raising of grain and food crops.

Thus he is able to return to the soil the humus that it requires and which commercial fertilizers cannot supply, and he is amply repaid in the present year, by bountiful crops, the surplus of which his live stock will turn into food products, without drain up on the farmer's pocket nor depletion of his soil.

Best Treatment for a Burn.

If for no other reason, Chamberlain's Salve should be kept in every household on account of its great value in the treatment of burns. It allays the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a severe one, heals the parts without leaving a scar. This salve is also unequalled for chapped hands, sore nipples and diseases of the skin. Price, 25 cents. For sale by Band's Drug Store.

Prophecies that Have Come True.

Some curious forecasts are made by Sheikh Mahmood, an Egyptian astrologer, who predicted in his review, Tevalch el Malouk the murderer of Premier Boutros Pasha, and the appointment of said Pasha as his successor, and also prophesied (writes the Cairo correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette) the death of King Edward for the month of May.

Among coming events Sheikh Mahmood predicts the early death of the present Sultan and the perpetration of murder by the Nationalist party during the coming year. He declares that King George will annex three Moslem cities, but that Egypt will not receive a constitution during his reign. France will increase its importance during the next few years, while the Turkish influence will wane in Arabia, a large portion of which is to fall into the hands of Great Britain. In addition, Sir Hildon Gorst will in the near future be raised to a peerage.
