

Torture of the InquisitionA Modern Example of Suffering

People suffer—suffer torments—with help at hand. GIN PILLS can overcome pain in the most marvellous way—all the suffering which follows in the wake of weak or diseased kidneys, such as rheumatism, sciatic neuralgia, stone in the bladder, excruciating backache, stiff and swollen joints and ankles, yields quickly to the soothing, healing, strengthening power of GIN PILLS, which contain Jumper and seven other valuable diuretics and antiseptics.

Mr. Arnold McAshall, of Haas, N.S., writes as follows:

"For a long time I suffered from a pain in my back and could not move without agony. I grew worse until confined to bed. A friend advised me to use GIN PILLS. Before I had used one box I began to feel better. By the time I had finished two, I was completely cured. I cannot say too much in favor of these pills and I recommend them strongly to anyone suffering from kidney trouble."

At the first suggestion of pain in the back get GIN PILLS from your druggist or dealer. Each box is guaranteed to relieve—or money back. 50¢ a box. Free sample, sufficient to show its value, sent on request.

Obituary.WILLIAM H. DAVIDSON.

There passed away yesterday morning, after a short illness, William H. Davidson in the 76th year of his age. The deceased was a well known figure in the city, his connection with the commercial life thereof, extending over a period of fifty years, and his passing will be felt in business circles for years to come. A Scot of Scots, the late W. H. Davidson was one who was a living exemplification of worth and integrity, a keen student, and to quote from an "In Memoriam" in this morning's News, one "to whom mankind was an open book."

From the same source we take the appended biographical sketch, and beg to offer to the bereaved family that sympathy which friends feel for each other in times of grief and trouble. William H. Davidson was born at Aberdeen, Scotland, on December 21, 1843. He was educated at the Grammar School there, and subsequently, entered College. At the age of 21 he came to St. John's to the firm of J. & W. Stewart. From 1869 to 1888 he was the buyer for the firm. In 1888 he commenced business as wholesaler and retail family grocer, introducing the marketing of local fruits and preserves. In the nineties he opened business as a Commission Merchant, representing some of the largest and most prosperous Scottish firms. The grounds surrounding his residence, "Bon Accord," he transformed by dint of personal initiative and effort into a marvel of productivity and beauty. About two years ago he celebrated his golden wedding, and is survived by his partner of two and fifty years, formerly Miss Maggie Scrymgeour, of Greencastle, Scotland. With her are left to mourn the loss of husband and father beloved, one son, Mr. Malcolm Davidson, two daughters, Mrs. J. Gunn and Mrs. P. K. McLeod, all of this city, and nine grandchildren. The funeral will take place Wednesday at 3 o'clock.

Another Revelation.WHO PROMISED $2000 GRATUITY?

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir—Some time ago the returned soldiers and sailors were cheered up by hearing that they were going to receive a gratuity of $2000.00 dollars for services rendered during the Great War. The report was current that they would be paid this amount about the first of the present month and this was endorsed by one of our officers in the Militia Department I think.

This money has not been paid yet. Why? Is it because Canada never paid her men, that our returned soldiers and sailors are not going to get it? The way things are now I think it is just as well for this country to have Confederation. The first thing asked you, if you make application for anything to the authorities is: "What is Canada doing in this matter for her men?" "Now the question I would like answered by the authorities is: Is Newfoundland, Newfoundland, or is it Canada?" If it is Newfoundland, then let the authorities get down to business and leave Canada out of the matter and do their duty, by looking after the men of Newfoundland.

Yours truly,
303 BRITISH.

Get a 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter to freshen your scalp; check dandruff and falling hair. Your hair needs this stimulating tonic; then its life, color, brightness and abundance will return—Hurry!

A Soldier's Opinion.

DOPE! THAT DEADLY POISON.
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—Again the question arises: "What is causing the rapid downfall of our young men in St. John's?" You will always find the same answer, Dope! But again we have the question confronting us: "Who imports this deadly poison? Is it the small shop-keeper on New Gower Street? No. It is the men whom you generally see going to church three times on Sundays, and who are generally termed—Christian men. I do not class church going Christians with these people; I mean the so-called men who are killing hundreds of the young men of this town. The well known importers of Vanilla and Essence of Lemon, import this dope and sell it to the small shops on New Gower Street; thereby making a fortune on it. It is time for our young men in this town to despise these men, and save their own constitutions. In closing, I remain,

Yours truly,
NO DOPE.

Beating the Times a Wee Bit!

Now don't worry, be calm, follow use seriously. Some complain of the high cost of living experiencing daily advances in food and wearing apparel; don't blame them in the least.

Some, never for a moment stop and think to try beating time a wee bit. Others are doing it, why not you.

Now let us take wearing apparel, you admit every day finds the market advancing, on account of which let's hit the nail right here, and hint if we do not wish to say it right out. There is an advertisement in this paper of the store which offers a suggestion for beating the times a wee bit.

A Samson of the Hills.

By DAN CARROLL.

In a far land, and deep amid the hills, A lone lake spread in peace its silvery arms, And guileless of the tolling world's alarms, It dreamed its dreams and fed a thousand rills. Those were the laughing children of its heart, And down the glens and through the vales all day They sang, till on the plain with aimless art, Mingling with waters wild, they lost their way.

A teeming city sent its brood abroad Into the waiting acres of the West, And though its vastness oft their senses awed, Yet sturdy homes arose by labor blest. And soon the village to a town had grown, And soon the townsmen proud essayed to build The Civic Temple, and they said: We'll own In this our city, all the Arts can yield.

And so the sculptor wrought, the painter drew, The architect elaborated, planned; The builders toiled till many a structure grew. Massive and chaste and fair, on either hand. And then they sought an engineer of skill From out a college famed, and had him build A reservoir gigantic on the hill. From that lone lake's long dreaming waters filled.

Soon hummed the trolly thro' the busy street— Swift spun the loom—in factories and mills; The happy worker, happy worker greets, And says, "God's bounty bless us from the hills!" All day industry reigned monarch there, With Peace and Love and Honour in its train: And when the night came down, the city fair Shone like a star of splendour on the plain.

And now that city in its proudest hour Makes jubilee beneath a cloudless sky, A thousand coloured lights from dome and tower Blaze forth and dim the very stars on high. And white-haired citizens and manhood's prime, And Youth and Love and Beauty— The night is rich with forces that combine To stir the patriot's soul with thrills of victory.

But suddenly, an awful mystic hush! The very breeze seems listening, chilled in dread— And then that proud, fair city felt the rush Of deluge. Oh! as thro' the night they fled In terror, half the truth as yet ungrasped, Trampled are men and women, young and aged— Mother and babe the frantic father clasped. While o'er their forms the fierce, wild waters raged.

At dawn an aged sire, like Lot of old, Shorn of his strength, his children and his home, Looked towards the plain, where yet the deluge rolled, And wrapt the ruins in snowy shrouds of foam. Then turned him towards the heights, where far away Spreading its silvery arms amongst the hills, The lone lake, lit with morning's lustre, lay Dreaming its dreams, whilst sang its thousand rills.

The moral here is this: Union is Strength. And potent is its power for good or ill.

When Wisdom guides, its forces can be spent As were the guarded waters of the hill— Lightning the toll in factory and mill, And comfort bringing to the toiler's board.

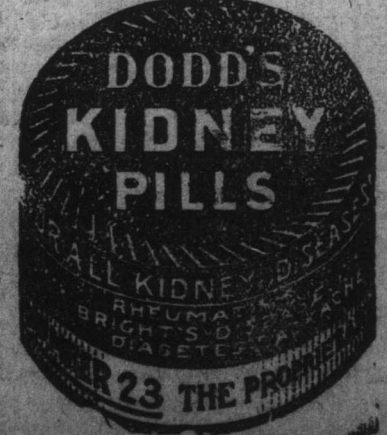

And many a dream of brotherhood fulfilled, And guard with power whose might shall shame the sword. UNION! in peace thou art a daughter of the Lord.

But, when the frenzied passions sway debate, When Wisdom, Reason, Prudence, set aside— Or pleading 'till to save the threatened State— View with alarm blind fate essay to guide:

When stung with fancied wrongs or wounded pride The millions mass, and trampling Order down, Fling to the winds restraint, and far and wide in anarchy rejoice; 'Tis then a menace dread to home and Crown,

As baleful as the flood which wrecked that stately town.
