

For Ladies Only!

Women need Zam-Buk even more than men. For chafed places, inflamed surfaces, skin sore from friction from clothing, rough, red hands, unsightly face sores—for all these and a hundred-and-one needs that are peculiar to women, Zam-Buk is a boon.

Then there are the children! For their little cuts and burns and knocks—for skin rashes and skin sores, Zam-Buk is far the best. Why?

Best because it is pure. Best because it contains not one grain of mineral matter or poisonous coloring, not one bit of animal fat. It is antiseptic, soothing and healing.

A WIFE'S EXPERIENCE.

Mrs. Joseph Carr, who keeps a grocery store at 261 Hamburg Ave., Toronto, says: "In all my years of housekeeping I have never yet used a preparation equal to Zam-Buk. It is nothing short of a wonder—a miracle. Indeed, I cannot speak in terms too praiseworthy of its wonderful healing properties, and would not be without this remedy in my home at any cost. I have used it for sores, cuts, bruises and other skin injuries, and consider it a household necessity, especially where there are children, as it heals all wounds and bruises in almost incredibly short time. My eldest son had occasion to use Zam-Buk for a badly inflamed toe, caused by an ingrowing toe nail. A few applications were all that was necessary to draw out the soreness and inflammation, and he had no trouble with the toe since. Every mother and every woman in charge of a household should keep Zam-Buk handy."

Some cure for: eczema, chafed skin, hemorrhoids, itching, sore throat, inflamed surfaces, skin sores, cuts, burns, and all skin injuries and diseases. 60c box, 12c each. Sold everywhere or by post from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

LONDON MAN OWNED THIS FAMOUS PROPERTY

Interesting Story of Land at the Corners of King and Yonge Street, Toronto.

1868—$121.50.
1874—$1,944.00.
1887—$75,921.16.
1910—$740,000.00.

These first figures were the prices received for the whole of town lot 1, of which the James lot is only a fraction.

Toronto Telegram: Talk about increasing value—well $689,000 is the fortune that the James lot made for its owner in 23 years. Sounds like a fairy tale, but it's a fact. Along with many other important records, the vaults of the registry office contain the faded deeds showing the various conveyances of this immensely valuable property at the northeast corner of King and Yonge streets. Yellow with age and inscribing the names of men long dead and forgotten, the copper-plate of the first documents writes an interesting chapter in the early history of Toronto real estate.

Granted by George III. One hundred and nine years ago, on the 20th May, 1801, his majesty, King George the Third, was graciously pleased to grant to Charles Field the whole of town lot No. 1, being the north side of King street, from Yonge to the Victoria, and half-way north to Adelaide.

Field, however, did not seem to appreciate very highly the gift which the king made to him. On August 27, 1802, he transferred his property to one Thomas King, of Montreal, who is described in the quaint legal phraseology of the time as a yeoman. No consideration was named.

Ship's Carpenter Got It. On May 6, 1808, Thomas King and Duncan Cameron, his attorneys, sold to Joshua Leach, of New York, a portion of the property 208 feet along the north side of King, with a depth of 104 feet. This included the James lot at the corner, which he held on all through the war of 1812, feeling no doubt when the Americans landed here and burned the parliament buildings and the fort that he had been very foolish to invest his good English gold in a dirty little town like York. But on June 1814, he saw a chance to get out right; and when a ship's carpenter by the name of John Dennis offered him $2,400, about $1,944 for his property, he took it quick.

Getting Valuable. John Dennis died, but his son, Joseph, hung on to the lot till June 18, 1856. By that time Toronto had a population of over 10,000, had been incorporated as a city for two years, and the value of a good corner lot such as he possessed was recognized. Dennis didn't care to part with the corner, but when a buyer, Thomas Bell, Jun., offered him $44 for a small piece of it he sold. The lot was 80 feet north of King street, and had a frontage on Yonge of 33 feet by a depth of 80 feet. It comprised a part of the present corner lot.

Some three years later, however, Bell re-granted the property to Joseph Dennis who died, leaving his grandson, Stewart D. Mulkins, as one of the heirs.

If They Had Only Known. This heir subsequently in 1879 granted to Mary S. English, wife of Edward S. English, of London, Ontario, his 1/12th interest in the estate on King street, at that time included four lots. One of these pieces of property, which was 80 feet wide and 104 feet long, was the present James lot. The King street of 80 feet and about one-third of the present James lot. The King street of 112.5 feet, was the present James lot. Mulkins only received $2,400 for his share.

Mrs. English left her property to John and Henry Dennis, and on Nov. 1, 1887, they sold the corner to Simon H. James for $75,921.16. Details of the last sale of the property, the biggest real estate deal ever put through in Toronto, were published exclusively in The Telegram. On Feb. 28, 1910, when Simon H. James sold the northeast corner of King and Yonge streets to H. S. Osler for $340,000, subject also to a mortgage of $200,000, making the total consideration $740,000.

THE COMET HIT 'EM, BERMUDANS DECLARE

Came in Cloudburst and Covered Island With Deluge of Ink.

Hamilton, Bermuda, April 19.—Have we been struck by the comet? That is the question uppermost all over Bermuda, and everybody is discussing it. Scientists who think that a swish of the comet's tail implies the surcharge of the atmosphere with laughing gas, which precipitates a sea of silly giggles, are in the majority. The negative side of the debate, We have had a rain of ink, and that is no laughing matter. The community feels much cheered and rather doleful over it, and impatiently awaits the results of analyses at Cambridge University and Washington.

Last Monday evening happened. The worst thunderstorm of the season broke loose. While the rain fell in sheets there was a sudden cloudburst, and with it came a black deluge that overpowered all the water tanks with ink. Cataclysm of the same color poured from the roofs. Some of the curious set out pails under the eaves and spouts and soon got them full.

Since then filters have been working double time, for one rinsing is not enough to cleanse the water. Indeed, Water as a beverage, indeed, is just now tabooed. City Chemist Huyl has gathered together a lot of the sediment from the filters, and doesn't assume to say what it is, nor does any of the other scientific officials on the island. Volcanic eruption might explain it, but in the absence of report of any such occurrence, the theory that that supposition is not entertained. The filtered sediment looks volcanic and some have surmised that the celestial artillery may have shot through a passing meteor and pulverized it. Comet talk is the favorite topic, however, and if that theory should be confirmed, the analysis of scientists in the outer world will have added to their knowledge the item that this particular comet at any rate moults ink essence.

CROTHERS COMPELLED TO TAKE IT BACK

Makes an Attack On Minister of Justice and is Forced to Retract.

Ottawa, April 19.—In the House yesterday on a question of privilege, Mr. T. W. Crothers, of West Eglin, complained of the Globe's report of a day last of his animadversions upon chief justices appointed by the present Government. In that report it was stated that Mr. Crothers said he had not more than a faint recollection of the names of the chief justices appointed under this Administration. This morning Mr. Crothers said that the report was presumably based upon an attack made on him by the Minister of Justice, "an attack unworthy of the position he holds in turning the words I used." (Cries of order.)

Sir Wilfrid insisted upon a retraction of the expression "unworthy of the position he holds," and Mr. Crothers substituted "with an unfairness unworthy of his position," but this was not satisfactory, and Mr. Crothers withdrew his statement. He could not attack another member in the guise of a personal explanation.

Mr. Crothers retracted by saying: "I leave it at that point, and proceeded to say that his words applied to the present chief justice of Ontario. He said his declaration was brought under the highest of influences of the system of partisanship, and I meant just what I said," he concluded.

Hansard quotes Mr. Crothers as speaking on Thursday night as follows: "The Minister of the Interior tries to shelter himself behind Chief Justice Howell, of Manitoba. Well, I am not much concerned about Chief Justice Howell. I have no quarrel with the advantage or disadvantage of an acquaintance with him. But I have lived long enough to know that a chief justice who is not a member of the government carries no authority, partnership, or no guarantee for wisdom, humanity, or common, every-day honesty."

While disagreeable to the man whose voice calls him out on the street, the day's rain will be of untold benefit to farmers in the country around London.

In consequence of the wet, drizzly rain, which fell all night, there was a small market, practically deserted streets and very little business in any line.

Farmers who came into market this morning expressed their delight at the rain. More benefit will accrue to the farmers from today's rain than from any previous rain, as the ground is so dry that the water will be absorbed by the soil.

The indication of the weather of cool weather which the west has been experiencing for the past few days, although not at all unusual in the west and the west now have fine and considerably warmer weather, while all Eastern Canada has the cool and showery variety.

Following so closely on the Fairbanks and Roosevelt incidents at Rome the incident is likely to attract attention.

INDIAN LISTERS GET DRUNK VERY EASILY

Liquor Appears No Tronble to Secure in This City—Outside Case To Be Looked Into.

Robert McMaster was dozing peacefully on a bench at the police court this morning when his name was called, and he had to be awakened. McMaster was trying to move to a good deal of sleep that he lost last night, as a result of imbibing too freely. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly, the latter being for furious driving. McMaster pleaded guilty to everything, and as he is on the Indian list he was fined $10 and $20 costs or 21 days. He will sojourn for the next three weeks with Governor Carter.

Asked where he bought the liquor, McMaster said he got it at the Palmer Hotel, at Port Huron, and McMaster Love directed the police to take the matter up with License Inspector Galpin.

"These sort of hotels have no right whatever to supply Indian listers with whiskey," said the court, and I want this case looked into."

John Donohue, another Indian lister, told the court that he found a bottle of whiskey at the corner of Pall Mall and Waterloo streets yesterday afternoon. He drank some, and a friend of his had some, and they both got drunk. The court fined Donohue $10 and 2 costs, and his friend $3.

James Riley, a drunk, who said he was going out to work and out to Brockton, Mass., was asked to pay $2, as he had been up several times before.

An Indian who "fell off the wagon" was let go, as it was his first appearance. The court tried to get him to remember the name of the man who he had been drinking with, but the redman could not think of it.

William Mulligan, Theodore Morris, Richard Hobbs, Herbert Wilson, Helen Starr, Reginald Kennedy and Fred Wilson appeared before Magistrate T. Beer, for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk, paid $1.

John Donohue, an aged man, arrested for being drunk, asked to go to the home, and his request was complied with.

Frank Webb, another drunk, told the court he had not been up for a year. The magistrate thought he should be placed on the Indian list, but Webb pleaded so hard that the court finally allowed him to go on the condition that if he comes up again he is to be placed on the pink sheet.

CHAUFFEUR ILL WITH BLOOD POISONING
Mr. S. W. Thomas Has Been in Dangerous Condition, But Is Now Recovering.

Mr. Samuel W. Thomas, Mr. John McCarry's chauffeur, is seriously ill with blood-poisoning, at his home, 102 High street, as a result of scratching his chin on the radiator of the car some time ago. He is being treated by Dr. Hugh A. Stevenson and his recovery is looked for.

Mr. Thomas was cranking the car some weeks ago, when he slipped, his chin striking the radiator. He paid no attention to the scratch, until blood-poisoning developed, a short time ago. For a time it was feared that serious results would follow, but his condition was reported as somewhat improved today.

LOAD OF HAY WAS LOPSIDED
Tipped Over on Two Occasions, and Made Much Trouble for a Farmer.

Spectators, waterproofed with umbrellas, enjoyed a little session on King street this morning. But for the parties directly interested, it was very far from a matter of enjoyment.

A load of hay, preceding east on King street, when near the weigh scales, tipped over, depositing part of the load on the road.

The owner, with the aid of several bystanders, got busy, and forked the hay back on the truck, a fair mistake, however, and threw it all over on the other side.

Seats have been reserved for the visitors in St. Peter's.

had not been, and was not now, he said the Premier had no bargain with Mr. Redmond, whom he had sized up at his true political value, as a man without an ounce of political backbone. (Laughter.) The least they could have expected of the master of seventy Irish votes on the question of the hand-grenade was that he should hold his foolish tongue. (Laughter.) The Premier, if unable to get guaranteed to go to the country, not only against the Lords, but against the most popular man in England—the King. (Opposition cheers.)

A MUDDY MARATHON

Two Hundred Starters in the Annual Run of Boston Athletic Association.

Ashtabud, Mass., April 19.—Ready for a hard run over 25 miles of muddy roads between this town and Boston, nearly 200 competitors started in today's 24th annual Marathon run of the Boston Athletic Association.

The conditions were the wettest and muddiest experienced since 1889, and the going was of the heaviest kind. It was estimated that at least 200,000 people saw the runners pass the different parts of the course.

Because of weather and road conditions, L. J. Piliavay, of Chicago, was widely picked as the probable winner. Others of whom much was expected were James A. Reilly, of Montreal, and J. C. Coker, of Toronto. Samuel Miller, a winner in 1902, and Dan Sheridan, of Toronto.

A PUGILIST KILLED

Negro Bruiser Dies of Fall Received While in the Ring.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 19.—Frank Cole, a lightweight negro pugilist, of this city, died in a hospital today from injuries received last night in a boxing bout with Stanley Rodgers at the Boxing Club managed by "Jack" O'Brien. Rodgers was held without bail by the police, having the action of the coroner. The referee and several witnesses were also held.

Cole was injured in the third round. He received a solar plexus blow, which sent him to the mat, his head striking with terrific force. The crowd began cheering at the apparent knockout, but when a physician failed to bring Cole back to consciousness, the spectators were dismissed, and the fighter was removed to the hospital, where it was found he had sustained a fracture of the skull. He never regained consciousness.

TO FIGHT FIGHTS.

Los Angeles, April 19.—The Methodist Preachers' Association has adopted a resolution calling on all ministerial associations of the state to join a movement against prize-fighting. Part of the resolution reads: "To become a divorce clearing house for the state, like Nevada, and some other states is bad enough, but for the great State of California to be made an ostensible coliseum for the exhibition of this most brutal sport is a disgrace and degradation to which we ought not longer to submit."
