of the chamber of commerce, who is also secrettary of the Windsor-Nia-gara highway association, points out the folly of spending thousands of dollars to attract American tourists to this part of Ontario and then by the publication of a silly story, make it appear that Americans are not wanted here. The mayor also is annoyed that such adverse publicity should be given London at a time when American tourists are beginning to visit London in large numbers. Inquiry among leading bankers of the city elicited the information that there is little if any foundation in fact for the statement that the city is "being flooded with American money." There is a small increase in it appear that Americans are "being flooded with oney." There is a small increase in the amount in circulation at this time every year, it was explained, due to the presence of American tourists, whose coming is welcomed by local merchants who have no particular aversion to accepting American money, but are in fact glad to get as it represents business they would

Emigrant Special Is Derailed in Storm Near Easton, Pa.

Associated Press Despatch. Hackettstown, N.J., June 16. -Seventeen persons are known to have lost their lives in the wreck of a Lackawanna special train at Rockport Sag, two miles west of here, early today. Fiftytwo injured are in hospitals.

Many of the injured were brought to the Easton hospital suffering from severe scalds from escaping steam. It was said a number are in a serious condition. The accident occurred during a severe electrical storm. Seven of the ten cars of the train left the tracks and because of the manner in which the roadbed was torn up it was impossible to determine what might have been the cause. Both engineer and fireman were killed. The 185 passengers on the train were to have sailed today from Hoboken for European countries. The first coach was hurled halfway over the top of the over-turned locomotive. Men and turned women fought madly to work their way out of coaches locomotive blew up and filled the air with steam. Passengers said
