in degree. It is well that the world and the things of the world should have a due regard. The great Creator has given it to man for that purpose. But let us keep a watchful guard upon ourselves. Let the farmer attend to his farm, and the merchant to his merchandize, but let then attend also to the one thing needful. Let them reflect that life is but a vapor, that this world is but a scene of probation, of preparation for another. Let them keep steadily and constantly before their mind that there is a God who ruleth over all, that the gospel is a reality and not a myth-! that there is a future world-a life beyond the grave whose duration is eternity. Let being: them examine themselves at stated periodsand what period more appropriate or more solemn than the threshold of a new year. make them the subject of prayerful thoughts, and rise up with a mind cleansed from the a sense of its own weakness, but with a spi- and the groaning board rich with every rit strengthened and refreshed with virtuous resolution, and full of love to God and humanity. Laying aside a l pride and self-sufficiency-putting on the garment of repentance, trusting in the sacrifice of a risen Saviour-enter upon a fresh course, keeping the goal of salvation ever in view.

Are you yourg? Remember that age is not promised you, he therefore ever on the ber thy Creator in the days of thy youth."

Have you reached the full vigor of manhood? Then let your watchfulness be doubled, for your responsibilities are greater, or deed; have you neglected duty; have you while your dangers are not less. To the aged, to the man of hoary hairs, we would Say, watch on. Be not weary of being a dis-Though thy limbs tremble ciple of Jesus. and thy speech fail, let your heart and soul be young, and pure and hopeful. The time is drawing mgh, the hour is at hand, live so that you may be able to welcome it as a friend, ; and embrace thy Saviour with joy unspeak-

We have spoken only of those who have misspent their time, who have mistaken the true path and rushed blindty and wildly into that which leadeth to destruction. We ought now to devote a few paragraphs to the deliberately wicked, to those who shut their eyes to all that is good and noble in the world; who scorn God, his laws and his creatures; who give themselves up to their own evil lating God's laws and in breaking his com-

desire, and to be washe if nd made clean in the blood of Christ, leaning on His gracious promise that there is forgiveness even for the chief of sinners? Close with the precious offer, fully and finally, and all will yet be well, both here and hereafter.

To the thoughtless and unconcerned, the devotee of idle gaiety and of what is mis-named pleasure, we would say, be wise in time, this is the hour to banish for ever from your heart the love of frivolous amusement and barren vanity. Dash to pieces the idols you have set up to folly, and henceforth live a life worthy of an immortal and accountable

Examine vourselves: purge away the dross which hangs about you, and is made up of vain show, of empty pride, of barren profes-Call up forgotten duties and past follies, and siow, of love of dress and idle ostentation, which steal the precious hours of time and give them to gauds and vanities, to the errors of the past, with a heart subdued from | song and dance which bring no happiness, delicacy, but without genuine hospitality. Turn your back to this idle glare, and instead thereof open your eyes and your heart to the poverty and misfortune around you, feed the hungry, relieve the needy, clothe the naked, quietly, gratefully, secretely, letting not your right hand know what your left hand doeth, thanking God that he has made you his almoner. Examine yourselves, and see whether watch, never from your post; keep in sub- there is any hidden vice, any lurking weakjection the passions and temptations which ness, any darling morsel, beneath your tongue. will daily and hourly assault you; "remem-, and away with it. Has envy poisoned your better feeling; have you slandered your neighbor; have you taken what was not your own; have you been guilty of deception in word starved your church, by giving it the mere shreds and husks of your ablity? If you have, spread them fully before your conscience, and in your closest, and before your God abjure them all, and henceforth live as becomes a follower of the Lamb, full of love to God, and love to man. Welcome this New Year as a harbinger of glorious hopes for the future, as the child of virtuous and holy resolves, as the foundation of lofty principles and unlying faith, resting on the everlasting truths of a blessed gospel.

> STRAY WAIFS FROM A WAGGON. ENUCATION, COLLEGES, NORMAL SCHOOLS, PREACHING, UNION.

In the human family, youth, maturity, and old age, are the three divisions of earthly desires; in whose hearts are found all matice old age, are the three divisions of earthly and wickedness; who rejoice in evil—in vio- life. Each has thoughts, affections, sorrows and enjoyments peculiar to itself. In the mrndments; whose course leadeth down to first of these, a great amount of knowledgo hell. Is not a new year—is not its virgin is acquired with marvellous rapidity, because threshold a meet and solemn altar on the application of the child is intense, and its which to lay the solemn vow of repentance, mind is impressible. A whole language is before which to kneel and pour out the earnest learned word by word with wonderful facility, prayer for a better heart, to tread out every avil A power of discriminating sounds, colors.