

OBITUARY.

THE LATE MR. JOHN QUIGLEY, HASTINGS.

The elder generation of Irishmen, whose brawny arms have materially assisted in unloading the varied treasures of Canada, and in dotting its broad face with well-equipped schools, magnificent churches and costly asylums of charity, in the majority of cases—been consigned to the silence of the tomb, and their descendants, one after another, are now commencing to follow them. This week the melancholy task is imposed upon me of recording the demise of Mr. John Quigley, which sad event occurred at his home in the village of Hastings, a few minutes after the clock had tolled the hour of twelve, on the night of Friday, 10th of December last. The first symptoms of the disease which terminated in the death of our lamented friend, manifested themselves during the month of April last, but as they were trivial in character, and as Mr. Quigley, who by nature possessed a vigorous constitution, continued to discharge the daily routine of his duties, they failed to excite any alarm either in his own mind or in that of any member of his family or wide circle of friends. Later on, however, they assumed a more aggravated form, when medical advice was sought, only to realize the startling fact that the treacherous malady had achieved serious proportions, and that its progress was such as to baffle the best efforts of science to arrest it. A rest of a few weeks in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, where the lamented deceased would have the benefit of personal treatment at the hands of the ablest medical staff of that celebrated institution was urged. To St. Michael's Hospital accordingly he went, where in addition to the advantages already enumerated, he had the sad satisfaction of having the almost constant attendance and devoted care of a loving sister who, consecrating herself many years ago to the service of God, is now administering to the afflicted of God's creatures, in the house of pain and suffering already named. But notwithstanding the fact that there was an occasional glimmer of hope, the disease continued to advance, death, the fell-destroyer of all mankind, was plainly on the track of its victim, and Mr. Quigley, still full of hope himself, returned to his home in Hastings. Here the once strong man gradually weakened, and the once robust and powerful constitution was perceptibly losing its vitality, until the middle of the long, cold December nights when, fortified with the sacraments of the Catholic Church, and strong in the hope of a glorious immortality, the manly spirit of John Quigley winged its flight to Him who created it.

Mr. Quigley first saw the light in Oshawa about 48 years ago, and was the son of Malachy Quigley, an Irishman who left his native home at the foot of Silve-na-mon nearly three quarters of a century ago; and who subsequently became well and favorably known to a past generation in the County of Ontario. In early life the subject of this hurried and imperfect memoir learned the art of tanning, at which craft, in after years, he displayed more than ordinary proficiency. Forming a partnership with Mr. John Welsh of Brooklyn, County Ontario, he started business in the village of Cannifton, a suburb of Belleville, and here the new firm of leather manufacturers succeeded in establishing a name for industry and integrity, which appeared to be gaining strength as the years rolled by. The village of Hastings, on the River Trent, offering better manufacturing facilities, John Welsh & Co., the name by which the firm was designated, moved their whole business here, where with the advantages of enlarged premises, and with the aid of the most approved machinery, it has attained a very wide expansion. Agents are constantly on the road purchasing the raw material, thousands of tons of which, in a manufactured state have been exported to foreign countries, principally to England, where, owing to its superior quality, it commands the highest price. At present there are about 60 men employed in this establishment at remunerative wages, the importance of which to Hastings must be palpably seen.

On the 27th of November 1896, Mr. Quigley was united in marriage to Miss Welsh, a sister of Mr. John Welsh, the head of the firm. This estimable woman, together with three boys, the fruit of that happy union, survive him.

In the local affairs of Hastings, Mr. Quigley always took a decided and active interest. He was for some years a village councillor, and the testimony in ungrudgingly borne to his memory; that to his ripe experience and intelligent judgment, are due many of the improvements which have, in recent years been effected within that municipality.

As a devoted member of the Catholic congregation of Hastings, as a law-abiding and useful citizen, as a kind neighbor, a conscientious employer, an affectionate husband and an indulgent father, John Quigley will be long remembered. May he rest in peace.

Court No. 870 held their regular meeting in Dingman's Hall, on Thursday evening, 23rd inst. As the officers for the ensuing year were to be elected at this meeting the members responded to the call in large numbers. On the platform with C.R. J. Cadaret were the Rev. Fathers Hand and McEntee, E.O.R. W. T. Lee and Dr. Brown, M.E. Four propositions were received and two members initiated. In the election of officers it was evident that the members displayed judicious selection of candidates for office, when the names of these were given for voting. In the opening order for election P.O.R. Mitchell was called to preside. He called upon P.O.R. Lee to act as Returning Officer, who was ably assisted by Bros. Fahy and Kerr, visiting Brothers. The election duly opened, formalities began and proceeded to the close with marked attention and harmony peace and good will. When the contest closed the successful candidates were as follows: C.R., J. W. Mogan; vice-O.R., P. Shea; recording secretary, M. Mitchell, D. O.R.; treasurer, W. Brooks; medical examiner, Dr. J. P. Brown; trustees, Bro. Cullison, Murphy and Haffey.

An open meeting will take place on the 27th prox., good talent will furnish the entertainment for the evening. Addresses from the Rev. Clergy were welcomed, they were brief owing to the advanced hour but their words were well chosen. They felt it an honor to address a court of such a magnificent gathering of so truly Catholic and benevolent a society which has flourished so rapidly and notwith... the keen competition with other Catholic societies. The C.O.F. has expelled the others upon the increase of membership in the same period. P.O.R. Lee, our exemplary and efficient officer responded, his explanatory remarks of his successful adventures throughout the province were indeed encouraging to all. He assisted in organizing several new courts during the present year, his true spirit of Forestry has merited for him popularity and success. Dr. Brown, M.E. the last, not the least, fully endorsed all that was said and complimented the court on the judicious way the members select their candidates, being young and physically qualified which warrants the financial standing of such a noble order as the C.O.F. The meeting adjourned exchanging the compliments of the season and requested the correspondent to convey to the editors of The Catholic Record and The Catholic Recorder a happy New Year and the sincere thanks of Court 870 for the attention and publicity of reports during the year. In addition Mr. Editor accept the wish from me of many happy returns of the new year and increase of subscribers and success to your journal which should have the patronage of all Catholics. Respectfully yours, M. J. CANNON, Toronto Dec. 27th, 1897.

The activity displayed by the members of St. Leo Court, No. 561, is having good results as all meetings are well attended and new members are introduced at nearly every meeting. At the last meeting J. Johns, Ag. Robillard, J. O'Donnell, J. Egan and M. Lottin was initiated and welcomed to the Court. Several applications were also received and placed in the hands of the investigating committee. The contest for the securing of new members which has been going on for some time between the sides chosen by the O.R. and V.O.R. has been won by the O.R., and on next Wednesday evening the members will be treated to an oyster supper by the losing side, and all arrangements for the same is now complete and a most enjoyable evening can be looked forward to. J. J. NIGHTINGALE, O.R.

At a regular meeting of Penetanguishene Branch No. 76 of C.M.B.A., held on the 6th inst., it was unanimously adopted: That whereas it has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to call to His eternal reward our Brother Harry Maloney and who was a former citizen of Penetanguishene, and whereas the death of Brother Maloney leaves a void in the family circle—Be it resolved that henceforth we the members of Branch No. 76 tender to his wife and other members of the family of deceased, our most heartfelt sympathy in this hour of their affliction. Resolved that in token of our deep sympathy that the charter of our branch be changed in mourning for the space of thirty days. And, further, that a copy of these resolutions be noted on the minutes and forwarded to the Catholic Record, CATHOLIC REGISTER and to the family. M. DONALD, Rec. Sec'y.

The Raphael Tapestries.

It is said that the Pope has ordered all the Raphael tapestries in the Vatican to be placed under glass in order to preserve them. Cavalieri Gentili, however, who is an authority on the subject and head of the tapestry department at the Vatican, declares that those which have for some time past been covered in this way are being damaged rather than preserved. Other artists hold a contrary opinion, and the final decision with regard to these treasures will be awaited with no little anxiety throughout Europe. That some steps must be taken for their preservation is a matter of urgency; but at the moment it does not seem clear, among so many conflicting opinions, how the best method will be discovered.

FIRESIDE FUN.

Hopper: "How is your daughter getting along with her piano?" Popper: "First-rate. She can play with both hands now. She says she will be able to play with her ear in six months."

The Worrier: "Does your husband worry about the grocery bills?" asked the nagged-looking lady. "Law, no!" said the lady with the new silk skirt and the russet shoes. "We let the grocer do all that."

"I am afraid," said the Arctic explorer, "we won't find the North Pole this trip." "Guess not," replied his shivering companion. "We'll have to state that the discovery has been postponed on account of the weather."

Mean Thing—Miss Chatter: "I know you would be here to-day to see sister." Mr. Cadler (interrogatively): "Intuition?" Miss Chatter: "No—observation. You always appear on the same day that Ethel refuses onions at dinner."

A Western editor thus advertises his missing hat: "The gentleman who inadvertently took our new beaver and left an inferior article in its stead will do us a kindness by returning the same, and he shall receive our warmest thanks and two apologies, an apology for the trouble we have given him and the apology for a hat he has left us."

Had No Right to Talk.—Judge (to prisoner): "You have been behaving very badly. You not only got drunk, but you assaulted the officers who tried to restrain you." Prisoner: "I say, Judge, did you ever get drunk, and, just about the time you felt tired and wanted to sleep, have a policeman come pawing you around in your own green watermelon?" Judge: "No, I never was drunk." Prisoner: "Then don't talk."

A good many hundreds and even thousands of long-suffering husbands can bear sorrowful testimony to the fact that the loss of their boots subject them to every time they put on their hats to go out in the evening: "Where are you going?" "O, I'm going out for a few minutes." "Where?" "O, nowhere in particular." "What for?" "O, nothing." "Why do you go, then?" "Well, I want to go; that's why." "Do you have to go?" "I don't know that I do." "Why do you go then?" "Because." "Because what?" "Well, simply because." "Going to be gone long?" "No." "How long?" "I don't know." "Anybody going with you?" "No." "Well, it's strange that you can't be content to stay at home a few minutes. Don't be gone long, will you?" "This is why so many marriages are dead flat fizze and failure."

When a man neglects his health for a day he marks two days of the calendar of his life. When he neglects his health for two consecutive days he marks four days of his life. And so on. That's about the ratio, and it doesn't take many days to cross off an entire year. And yet men recklessly neglect their health for weeks at a time. It is the easiest thing in the world for the average man or woman to get good health and keep it. It only needs a little stick here and there. The big, dangerous maladies that threaten life are only the culmination of the little illnesses that are neglected. If when a man feels "knocked out," "out of humor," "run-down," overworked or overwinded he will resort to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, he will soon feel better, and be able to combat all the big maladies in the doctor's books. Moreover the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sure and speedy cure for some of the most dangerous diseases. It cures 90 per cent of all cases of consumption, it cures nervous prostration and exhaustion. These are not mere assertions. Thousands of grateful men and women have testified to the fact, and printed in the names, addresses, and photographs are printed in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Discovery.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Discovery has had a larger sale than any other book of this kind ever offered to the public. This book of 100 pages with 300 illustrations, is full from cover to cover, of practical advice on health matters, is now offered FREE to whoever will send a one-cent stamp to pay for customs and handling only. It is a clear French cloth binding, is desired, send for stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.
