HOME SAVINGS BANI

The World, of Wednesday, published the 'bllowing aditorial;—Officials of at least one bank in this oity lave had no cause for fear at the hands of the elever Mr. Winton. I or nearly a year now the Home Savings & Loan Company thave had as use a device, simple, but "hereby effective, to prevent the rassing of cheques from their proper amount. On the left hand of the kheque is printed a red list of amounts ranging from So to $1,000, and under this the words, "Not to gxeed the amount struck out." The intention is that the drawer of the cheque shall strike out with his penthal bum praisted in red nearest equal to the amount of the cheque. If he doesn't strike it out, the ledger-keeper does, which safeguards the paying teller. 'As a further precrution, the cheque is also made of sensitive paper, which shows at once, planny and unsatskably, "the application of any cheque is also made of sensitive paper, which shows at once, plainly and unmistickably, the application of any acid. GOLDWIN SMITH'S OPINION.

"The question about the King's Coronation Oath has led to the digging up of a curious store of antiquities. The Coronation ceremony itself is a relic of the time when the Crown was nominally, and even to some extent really, elective. Henry I. proclaimed himself "elected by the clergy and the recople," and at the coronation of John, if we may trust the chronicler, the threibishop of Canterbury asserted the privilege of election in the most decisive terms. The Champion ROYAL Baking Powder is indispensable to the preparation of the finest cake, hot-breads, rolls and muffins.

Housekeepers are sometimes importuned to buy other powders because they are "cheap." Housekeepers should stop and think. If such powders are lower priced, are they not inferior? Is it economy to spoil your digestion to save a few pennies?

Alum is used in some baking pow-ders and in most of the so-called phosphate powders, because it is cheap, and makes a cheaper powder. But alum is a corrosive poison which, taken in food, acts injuriously upon-the stomach, liver and kidneys.

who challenges gainsayers 'o judicial combat is a curious relic of the Middle Ages; as the anoming is of the functions of the mediaeval priesthood. The title, Defender of the Faith, was bestowed on Henry VIII. by the Pope for defending the faith which Henry's Protestant Buccessors so offensively abjure. The objuration is a relic of the struggle against the Papal and despotic aggressions of James II. The term "sacred Majesty," if it is ever now Mised, is a legacy of the Roman Emperors, who invested themselves, with "hivinity and set up their statues to be worshipped. "Our Most religious and gracious King" was the style, in acts of Parliament, of Chas. II. If the King at his accession had rafused the offensive declaration, what would have happened? His succession depending on the Act of Parliament, which required the declaration, he could not have accended the throne, the passant to the Act. It might have been impossible because there would have been no one to give the Royal assent to the Act. It might have been accessary to have recourse to a convention such as that which gave the crown to William and Mary. Nor will it be easy to perform the task intrusted to a c. titee of framing a new Protestant test. Any Protestant test that can be devised will give offence, to Catholics, while religious tests for civil offices are altogether things of the past."

London, March 26.—Mr. J. M.
