

judicious reviser will be delighted at the transformation which this quontrain has undergone :—

On such a tranquil night she found
Young Eudymion sleeping sound,
So fearing what might befall him,
She hired a man to call him.

"The Day is Done." This poem has never been accused of starting a blush on the cheek of Innocence. No, but the reviser thought that while he had his hand in it might be as well in the interest of a "distinctively American" literature to alter its last verse a bit.—

And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day,
Shall fold up their tents, like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away.

The Arabs be—that is to say, what have we to do with the Arabs? the reviser is understood to inquire as he adapts the amendment.—

And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day,
Shall fold up their tents like our Barnum,
And as silently steal away.

We have exhausted our space. But it is safe to say we have made it clear that the revised Longfellow leaves nothing to be desired—save, possibly, the other edition. It is only to be added that the entire civilized world will unite in the prayer that the day may never come when the Check of Innocence may lack champions.

White men 13, 17, 20, 21, 31, 32.
White to play and win.

SOLUTION.

PROBLEM 187—The end of a game played September 27th between Messrs. Forbes and O'Hearn. As played Mr. O'Hearn won, but at a late stage of the game Forbes might have drawn, Mr. Frank Hamilton at once pointed this position as the one where white might have forced a win. The position was as follows:—black men 2, 4, 10, 17, 28, ; white men 9, 11, 25, 31, 32; white to play and win.

Messrs. Brown, Broon, & Co.
Being very much reduced by sickness and almost given up for a dead man, I commenced taking your PUTTNER'S EMULSION. After taking it a very short time my health began to improve, and the longer I used it the better my health became.
After being laid aside for nearly a year, I last summer performed the hardest summer's work I ever did, having often to go with only one meal a day.
I attribute the saving of my life to PUTTNER'S EMULSION.
