

enough to cover, say one-third of the circumference of the trunk, is laid on the back. A sheet of absorbent cotton having been placed over this, a cheese-cloth bandage six inches wide and several yards long, with the meshes carefully filled with plaster-of-Paris, is dipped in water and folded length-wise over the whole. When rubbed smooth with the hand so that it is perfectly adapted to the contour of the parts, a bandage is applied around the trunk, with figure-of-eight turns about the shoulders and pelvis, and the plaster allowed to set. The jacket thus constructed is in the form of a splint, and can be removed every night for the purpose of permitting massage.
