

solicitation. These however, only represent a small percentage of the total subscription list.

In placing the NEW BRUNSWICK MAGAZINE before the people again, it is with the firm conviction that there is room for such a publication. The history of its first year amply demonstrated that there was a field, and had Mr. Reynolds been able to continue to give it his undivided attention the MAGAZINE would have grown in influence and circulation, as it grew in years. As will be seen by the current number several contributors have already been secured, and others whose names will be announced later have signified their willingness to furnish articles for future numbers. A entirely new dress of type has been procured, and arrangements made to secure the permanency of the publication. It is not well to make promises in the initial number of a publication as to what the future may bring forth. The present issue has been prepared somewhat hurriedly and does not represent the ideal of its rmanager, but every effort will be made to make each more interesting than its predecessor. The present number makes its appearance about the first of September, but future numbers will appear between the 20th and 25th of the preceding month—that for October will be published before the end of September. The MAGAZINE will contain a minimum of 64 pages in each issue.
