

In conclusion, I would say -- and I agree entirely with the representative of the United Kingdom on this -- that the Council should not -- it dare not -- let this opportunity slip to bring the healing influence of a United Nations intermediary to bear upon the troubled scene in the Middle East, and thus begin the process of reconciliation, reconciliation among the States of the Middle East.