Mrs. Nelson said that 158 boys had passed thru the home during the year. Thirty-four had been admitted, fifty-six removed and this left 102 boys at the home on September 30.

There had been an outbreak of diphtherfa and scarlet fever which had mecessitated the removal of the boys to a farm until the home could be disinfected. The home was indebted to the social service commission for their and advice given.

Big Expenditure.

J. W. Flavelle, treasurer, reported that during the year $10,894.72 had been expended and in order to supply the money it had been necessary to borrow from the investment fund. The sum of $1165.19 would have to be placed in the treasury before the fund would be raised to its original strength.

Rev. Dr. Strachan reported on the welfare of the home and stated that they were waiting for the government to make a change in the placing of to make a change in the placing of boys with farmers as this method was NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 28.—(Can. Press.)—On her one hundredth birthday today, Mrs. Margaret Kidney received from Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale University, a letter asking her to inform him to what habits and circumstances she ascribed her longevity.

"How foolish it is," exclaimed Mrs. Kidney. "I'm not responsible for living so long. It is God who has made me live so long."

Mrs. Kidney prepared yesterday, with the aid of her sister. Mrs. Grant of the institution, with one acception, had engaged in work of atther the home or foreign mission.

SPARKLING EYES

THE BIRTHRIGHT OF EVERY GIRL WITH RICH, RED BLOOD.

The sad eye that goes with blood-lessness is a sure sign of misery and weakness. Anaemic—that is blood-less—girls and women have dull, heavy eyes, with dark lines underneath. Th eyelid is pulled down looks pale and bloodshot inside. This is not all. Anaemia works havoc all through the system; girls grow painfully weak and irritable; they are breathless and incapable of much exertion, while oldwomen who are anaemic complain of being "never really well."

There is only one way to brighter, better health for pale, pining girls and women. That way is to invigorate the body with new blood—the ate the body with new blood—the rich, healthy blood that imparts strength, cleanses the system of all impurities, and restores the bright eyes and red lips of perfect health. Thousands of girls and women know that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People make this new, rich red blood and so restore health and strength known. There would not be an anaenic woman or girl in the land if those suffering from this condition would give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. That is why so many recom-That is why so many recommend these pills to their suffering sisters. Mrs. R. B. Keith, Steeves Settlement, N. B., says: "At the age of 18 my daughter Sadie began to complain of constant headaches, and did not have her usual good appetite. I went to a doctor and got some medielne, but it did not help her, and finally she had to discontinue going to school. She seemed to be weaker every day and wanted to lie down all the time, and would continually complain of being tired. The doctor gave her another bottle of medicine, but with no better results. There was not a bit of color in her face or lips, and I was afraid she was going into a decline. A friend who was in to see her said. Terrapin a la Maryland

ERRAPIN are much esteemed and those caught along the shores of Chesapeake Bay bring the highest price. There are thousands of little creeks and runs penetrating the Atlantic coast, and men well acquainted with the cunning habits of the Diamond-back arm themselves with two-pronged tongs and probe the marshy channels searching for them. The season is from November to May; terrapin are at their best in December, tho until a few years ago, when stringent laws were passed to protect them, they could be had at any season except in very hot weather. Before 1870 the market value of this dainty was so small as to render terrapin almost worthless for shipping, and in consequence thousands were fed to swine or cooked and, used to fatten poultry. At present diamond-backed terrapin sell at about $47 a dozen. They average about three pounds each, and dealers select them with the greatest care, measuring the little creatures with an inch rule and computing the weight of flesh and shell to the fraction of an ounce. The ordinary way of killing terrapin used to be to plunge them alive into boiling water, but vegetarians revolted so earnestly against this method of treating creatures that furnish us with food that they are now decapitated with a single stroke of a heavy, sharp knife. Plunge the terrapin into boiling salted water, cover and cook 15 min-Then remove the shell, the nails from the claws, the gall; everything in fact, but preserve the liver, and the eggs, if there are any. Cut the meat in small cubes and place in a saucepan with just enough water to Season with salt, black pepper and a little cayenne. Let this boil

Beat three eggs light, add one cup of cream containing one rounded tablespoon of cornstarch; pour into the hot stew and at once sprinkle in the grated yolk of two hard-boiled eggs. Stir gently so the mixture will

Be always particular that the terrapin is served hot. The best way to compass this is to bring it to the table in a steam-heated dish or in a chafer with the alcohol lamp burning. These directions also apply to all varieties of fresh and salt water

A Pot of Bulbs for Christmas

The unpleasant habit of facial distortion is becoming more general every day. If you have not yourself realized this, observe, on any well-filled street car, the women and girls as they talk. One, at least, you will probably find among them who is shoving her eyebrows up and down together and apart in a way that would be laughable were it not for its realized serious results; or perhaps she is puckering her face to a most unnecessary degree as she laughs, or shirring it until her eyes are partly closed.
