Work of Last Year Reviewed—Assistance Given to Good Objects

The Duke of Rothesay Chapter of the I. O. D. E. held its annual meeting yesterday and received gratifying reports of the year's activities. Officers were elected and the year's work reviewed. The meeting was held at the residence of the retiring regent, Miss E. R. Pitcher, and was presided over by the retiring regent, Mrs. Hugh Connell. Miss Pitcher's excellent report reviewed the work of the year.

CHAPTER ACTIVITIES.

The chapter contributed $181.61 to the National War Memorial, bringing its total contribution to $123,61 or $45.00 per capita. It added to its war memorial fund $600, bringing that fund to $2,898.46.

It gave to local educational work $65. Six prizes were donated, four to the Rothesay Consolidated and two to the Golden Grove schools. Educational slides were shown, lanterns on "ways dear to Canadians" displayed and calendars presented to the three Rothesay schools, and to the one in Golden Grove; to the latter a collection of 47 books was sent. It donated $80 towards the purchase of a car for soldier patients at Glen Glade and $25 towards the installation of a radio set in the Lancaster Military Hospital.

A small donation was made towards the expenses of a soldier student in the U. N. B. and the usual share of the I. O. D. E. prize in that university was contributed.

The chapter made itself a corporate member of the Society of the League of Nations in Canada, and the principal of the Rothesay Consolidated school an associate member. Tagging was done on Poppy Day and books and magazines were sent as heretofore to the wives of soldier settlers in the province.

The total earnings for the year were $936.68. Money was raised by two rummage sales, a pantry sale, tagging on Poppy Day, making wreaths for Christmas decoration, a bridge, talent money and a tea and candy sale.

Go To Malay Women For Fashion

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

IF YOU really want to learn distinction in dress and perfection in line, don't go to Paris, go to Malay, urges Mrs. Carveth Wells, wife of the English lecturer and explorer who is now in the United States.

"I have been in practically every country and have seen the native costumes of every land, but never have I seen women who had so mastered the art of extreme simplicity and extreme sophistication as have the women of Malay," she told me.

"They have convinced me that we are all wrong in changing our styles from season to season. They have been wearing precisely the same cut of costume for hundreds of years, and they have mastered it."

"A simple straight coat, and a length of cloth that ties in front with a particular knot and becomes a skirt—a sarong and budi—constitute their uniform, but they make it more distinctive than Paris's most extreme models."

"And despite the fact that all women wear gowns of the same cut, they still achieve an originality we of New York and Paris yearn for."

The monotony of cut is quite offset by the marvelous colors and fabrics they use, the colorful embroidery batik work, and the intricate jewelry they use, she explained.

Mrs. Wells spent six years in the jungles of Malay, accompanying her husband on an engineering trip, and she penetrated many of the dense portions of the interior of that peninsula where a woman had never before ventured.

"I went there with a certain timidity about snakes, and after six years in the jungle, I became so adept at killing them, that now there is no sport I enjoy more than killing snakes. I even had a tilt once with a king cobra, in which I came out the victor."

Though we might learn about clothes from the Malay lady, we could teach her something about make-up and cosmetics, Mrs. Wells believes.

"The Malay women use more make-up than any women in the world—except Americans," she laughed, "and if they could get hold of the fingernail enamel, the conventional lipstick and the varieties of paints and pomades that are available in American shops, they would probably be the happiest women in the world."

plendid work. The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:

Hibbard; educational secretary, Miss Anne Uddington; treasurer, Mrs. P. Roach; standard bearer, Mrs. Hugh Connell; councillors, Mrs. Harold Ellis, Miss L. Thomson, Mrs. Mavers, Mrs. DeB. Carveth and Mrs. J. Henderson.

STREET ALLOTMENT DEEPLY DENTED

Heavy Snow Fall Calls For Large Expenditure to Keep Streets Clear

The recent heavy snowfalls have cut heavily into the appropriation for street cleaning. During the last two days 52 teams and 190 men have been on the job making the city streets as safe and convenient for pedestrians and traffic as possible.

King, Charlotte and other leading thoroughfares have been cleared and work is also being done in other less used streets, some of which required considerable attention before they were passable. In addition road-breaking work has been done on the Millidgeville and Sand Point roads and in other places where the snow had drifted badly.

PRECIPITATION HEAVY.

The precipitation to date has been very heavy, almost as much snow having fallen as during the whole of last winter. As each storm means that the work of grading, clearing and hauling the snow and sanding the streets has to be done over again, the demand on the appropriation for the purpose has been severe.
