CLIMAX OF THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION; THE KILLING OF MADERO

FRANCISCO MADERO, MADERO'S SISTER.

NOVELTIES SEEN IN THE SHOPS

Velvet ribbon a quarter of an inch wide with rhinestones fastened at half inch lengths is now sold by the yard. With this ribbon and one of the large rhinestones ornaments sold for corsage decoration it is possible to fasten elaborate rhinestone trimmings with little effort. The design seen on an imported black net dress could easily be copied. This design showed the low cut corsage outlined with small, sparkling rhinestones. At a little distance the rhinestones stood out from the black of the dress like a long necklace with a bow knot pendant.

Silk artificial flowers for wear at the belt have centres of rhinestones. The green leaves of these flower sprays are covered with shimmering silver net which in artificial light sparkles almost as much as the rhinestones.

A rhinestone bird whose tail is a stiff spray of white maroon is an attractive hair ornament.

Maroon is enjoying well deserved popularity. Not only does it appear alone and in combination with fur, velvet, chiffon and silk for muffs and neckpieces of various sorts and as a trimming for gowns of every material and style, but it has entered the realm of bodice clothes. Negligees of chiffon, crepe de chine and other soft fabrics are edged and belted with bands of it; bodice caps show bands and tufts of the same trimming and silk bodice slips are finished at the ankle with thick, soft white maroon.

A bodice cap that is especially attractive because of the strong contrast between the materials of which it is made, is of the thinnest sort of pink maline, frilled about the edge with a two inch ruffle. A band of emerald covers the joining of the fur to the cap and a tummy tuft of the fur is fastened at one side.

The liking for real lace is evidenced even on the simplest clothes for children. Baby frocks grace small frocks of fine muslin which are otherwise trimmed only with hand run backs. Real Valenciennes is used in combination with hand embroidery on the tiniest of little dresses and dainty and tulle lace appear on children's frocks, coats and caps.

Colored beads are used for embroidering heavy, dull colored silks. For instance, the circle or belt of a gown of heavy grey silk is embroidered in gray, bright blue, bottle green, yellow and ecru beads.

DON'T SCOLD CROSS, IRRITABLE CHILDREN

If Tongue is Coated, Stomach Sour, Breath Fervid, Bowels Clogged, Give "Syrup of Figs."

Mother! look at the tongue! see if it is coated. If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and bowels are clogged up. The best remedy is a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours the foul, decaying, constipated matter, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well and smiling child in a short time.

With Syrup of Figs you are not dragging your children, being composed entirely of delicious figs, senna and licorice is cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mother! should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-up people printed on the package.

"Ask your druggist for the full name, 'Syrup of Figs' and 'Little Boy's Own' as the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered."

SONS OF ENGLAND FAIR WELL OPENED

The fair conducted by the Sons of England Brass Band was opened in Temple Hall, Main street, last night. Nearly 200 persons attended and the games and booths were all well patronized. The Carleton Cornet Band was present and contributed several selections.

The large hall had been nicely decorated for the occasion and particular attention had been given to making the booths attractive. Those who won prizes were: Ladies bean board, Carrie Green; prize, a box of figs; prize, a razor. Ladies hoop-la, Mrs. A. Green; prize, a picture. Men's hoop-la, C. London; prize, a prize pipe. Bowling alley, C. London; prize, a box of figs. Rifle gallery, George Tonge; 20 lb. prize of four; Mrs. C. H. Green, one 24 lb. prize of four. The committee which was in charge of the fair include: B. Chambers, John Mills, F. Freese, Edward Brittain, Frederick Patterson, Charles Stewart.

The residents of Dallas, a small town in Georgia, having become vexed because none of the through trains would stop there, have passed a law requiring all trains to travel at a very slow rate of speed while within the town limits. A constable is constantly on watch to see that the ordinance is observed.

A NEW OVERSHOE IS NEEDED

Now that the slipper and the pump are worn on one's feet, it is not surprising that the need for a new sort of overshoe that will solve an ever present problem for the dweller in the flat is being felt. The top of the ottomans are covered with chintz or tapestries, open on hinges and reveal bags for shoes and slippers or compartments for magazines and odds and ends that women like to hide.

For the benefit of the suburban traveler the leather book covers which are so convenient have been improved. In addition to the handles that permit a book to be carried as if it were a small shopping bag, pockets for carfare and for a tiny vanity case are provided so that the woman who has enjoyed the latest novel while making a brief journey may be quite unhampered by a purse and able to reassess herself that her hat is on straight and her nose carefully powdered.

The revival of the high ottoman of other days has caused upholsterers to take advantage of an opportunity to utilize space for the benefit of the flat dweller. The top of the ottomans are covered with chintz or tapestries, open on hinges and reveal bags for shoes and slippers or compartments for magazines and odds and ends that women like to hide.

Leather photograph frames which would appeal to the man or woman endowed with much sentiment are shown in the shops. These cases contain openings for four photographs and yet fold into a small package much resembling a card case—just big enough to slip conveniently into the waistcoat pocket or into the flap of suit case or traveling bag.

These cases in an inexpensive leather and small size can be had for 50 cents. The larger ones, made of much finer leather, cost more.

Celluloid hair brushes in white or colors can now be had made with heavy bristles set in rubber. The objection of many women to celluloid, ivory or silver hair brushes has often been that the strong, heavy bristles which really invigorate the scalp and add lustre to the hair seldom have decorative backs. The result has been that many women have one hair brush for the top of the dressing table; another for use. These new ivory brushes answer every requirement.

Small celluloid pocket mirrors shaped like hand glasses have little powder puffs hidden under the mirrors. These diminutive hand glasses are only three inches long from end to end. Some of the little celluloid desk or dressing table clocks show a band of rhinestones about the face of the clock. Others are banded with pink or blue.

"MY CLUB" IN METROPOLIS

London Has Many for Those Who Can Afford

OLDEST STARTED IN 1698

Garick, Founded for Actors, Now Bars Them Out—Royal Automobile is Largest and Army & Navy and Carlton Most Expensive

(London Express) The blackballing of Baron de Forest at the Reform Club draws attention to the fact that Radicals are very badly off for London clubs as compared with the Conservatives and Unionists. Since the home rule split in 1886, the Reform has very largely lost its political character, and many more men become members for the sake of the admirable chef and the excellent wine cellar than from any devotion to the principles of Gladstone and Bright. The Devonshire, also nominally Liberal, is even more non-political nowadays. It need not be a Liberal to be eligible. You simply say you are a "reformer," and in Brook's was for generations a Liberal club, but it is no longer associated with any party, though Mr. Asquith is a member and a frequent attendant.

The National Liberal Club is practically the only exclusively Radical Club in the West End (and its membership has been lowered by a certain number of Tories who find its library useful), with the City Liberal and the New Reform as chapels of ease.

The strictly political movement clubs are the Carlton, the Junior Carlton, the Constitutional, the Junior Constitutional, the Conservative, the Junior Conservative and the City Carlton.

The Carlton is the official Conservative club, and Conservative M. P.s and peers are elected if they so desire. Ordinary candidates for the Carlton have to be put up for membership when they are born, in order to reach election at twenty-eight. Gentlemen of middle age have no chance. But a few are carefully "selected" each year by the committee, without having to undergo the long waiting term.

London's Oldest Club The oldest club in London is White's. It was originally established in 1680 as White's Chocolate House, and it was for generations the Tory headquarters. The Cocoa Tree was founded in 1746, Roodle's in 1782, Brook's in 1794, Arthur's in 1795, the Guards' in 1813, the United Service in 1815, the Travellers' in 1818, the Union in 1822, Lord Byron's in 1824, the Dilettanti in 1824, the Oxford and Cambridge in 1830, the Carlton in 1832, the Reform in 1837, the Savage and the St. James's in 1837.

The oldest ladies' club is the Alexandra, founded in 1884. The Locum was established twenty years later. The Albermarle and the Seaside are the most successful clubs with both men and women members.

The Athenaeum was founded by Sir Walter Scott and Thomas Moore "for the association of individuals known for their scientific or literary attainments, artists of eminence in any class of the fine arts, and noblemen and gentlemen of letters, science, literature, and the arts."

Every year the Athenaeum elects nine members "of distinguished eminence in science, literature, or the arts, or for public services," and princes of the blood, Cabinet Ministers, bishops, and the judges are elected without ballot.

No Actors Need Apply The Garrick was established "for the general patronage of the drama, for bringing before the supporters of the drama, and for the formation of a theatrical library, with works on costume." Novels, plays, and other literary works are sent through the eye of a needle than for an actor to be elected to the Garrick. Donors are seven service clubs in London and four clubs connected with the universities. The Oxford and Cambridge in Pall Mall is distinguished by the possession of an almost unrivalled wine-cellar.

The Portland (founded in 1816) is the M. C. C. of all card games, establishing rules and settling custom. In recent times a horde of bridge clubs have come into being, most of them open to ladies, and "mixed" in more senses than one.

Travelers and Diplomats

A candidate for the Travelers' must have "traveled out of the British Isles for a distance of at least 500 miles from London in a direct line." The St. James' is the diplomats' club, and there are special clubs for mountaineers, Scotchmen, retired Anglo-Indians, lady doctors, Protestants, teetotalers, variety performers and others.

The Royal Automobile Club is the largest and best equipped club in London. The National Liberal and the Constitutional have over 6,000 members. The Beefeater is one of the smallest and most difficult to enter. The Athenaeum, the Carlton, the Guards' Turf, and the Beefeater admit no visitors within their portals.

Baron de Forest will be able to forget his disappointment at not being elected to the Reform in democratic gossip at the National Liberal or aristocratic association at the Marlborough, and the chancellor will still have the Athenaeum and the National Liberal.

The most expensive London clubs are the Army and Navy and the Carlton, of which the entrance fees are forty guineas and the subscription ten guineas. The entrance fees of other West End clubs vary from ten guineas to thirty, but the ordinary subscription is ten guineas.

Clubs began with the meeting of a few men of similar tastes at a tavern in drama and talk. Sir Walter Raleigh was a member of such a club called the Friday Street, which met the Mervyn Taverer and among his fellow members Shakespeare, Beaumont, Fletcher, and Donne. The Literary Club of which Joshua Reynolds and Doctor Johnson were the leading members, was on almost the same lines as its seventeenth century prototype, and the tradition is carried on today, by dozens of dining clubs, of which Ye Sette of Old Volunteers is perhaps the most individual and distinctive.

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF--25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair Coming Out?—If Dry, Brittle, Thin or Your Scalp Itches and is Full of Dandruff—Use "Danderine"

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yet—really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

A GIVE AWAY

Mistress—"Oh, and Eliza—that gentleman that called this afternoon—was it about one of my charities?"

Eliza—"No, m'm. From that second-hand dealer's where you sent those old clothes of master's, to say will you fetch 'em away or shall they burn 'em, 'cause they aren't doing anything' in patch-work quilts."—London Opinion.

HE WAS THE LIMIT

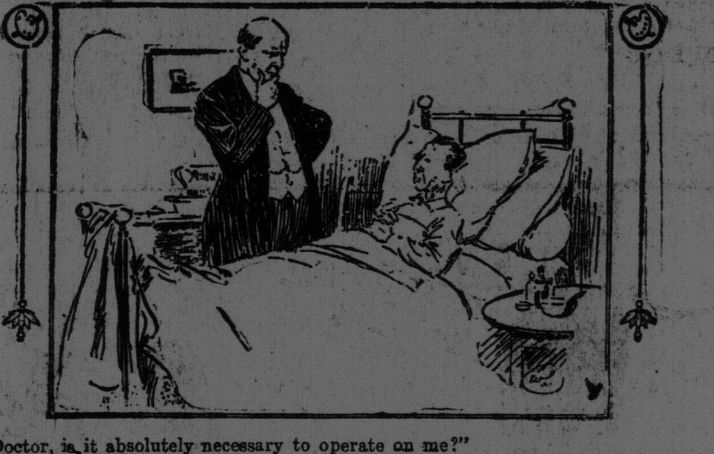

Wife (at breakfast table)—You are without exception, the most obstinate, ill-tempered man I ever saw.

Husband—Why, my dear! What is the matter?

Wife (threateningly)—Just because the coffee happens to be vile for once you declare it is all right—Just.

NOT NECESSARY, BUT CUSTOMARY

"Doctor, it is absolutely necessary to operate on me!"

"No; but it's—er—customary."—Tatler.

NEVER HAD A CHANCE

"What's the matter. Can't you skate without tumbling down?"

"I haven't had a chance to find out yet."—New York World.
