ABOUT THE CRACKNUTS FAMILY.

"Tomorrow is our wedding anniversary," he said, for all the hair on your tail, Daddy. Twenty-five cents! That's a lot of money.

"Yes, it is," said Daddy thoughtfully. "That's a lot of money, Mister Jay Bird. I believe that I'll do as you advise. The hair will grow on my tail again, won't it?"

"Of course it will, Daddy," said Nick. "Why don't you take Mister Jay Bird's advice?"

"All right," said Daddy. "I'll do it. Come along, Mister Jay. I'll go over to your barber shop with you, and you can give me a tail bob, or a bob tail, or whatever you call it. I'll give you twenty-five cents and get Ma a

THE OLD HOME TOWN

By STANLEY

Nancy, who was waiting on the squirrel lady.

"I hardly know," said Mrs. Cracknuts. "I hardly know. You see I haven't been able to save much money and so I can't spend much."

"Why, I need some nice soft hair like yours to stuff a pillow," said Mrs. Owl. "Why don't you go to a beauty parlor and have it clipped off short? I'll give you twenty-five cents for it."

"That's a fine idea!" cried Mrs. Cracknuts. "It's coming summer and I'm too warm, anyhow. Besides, it will grow again and by fall I'll have a fine new crop of hair when the days are chilly."

So away went Mrs. Cracknuts to a beauty parlor and had her hair all cut off short. Mrs. Owl paid her twenty-five cents and away she went with the money to Mister Bags' store in the oak tree.

"Here's the money!" she cried. "I'm going to buy a twenty-five cent comb for Daddy's tail!"

Mister Bags wrapped up the comb for Daddy's tail.

Next along came Daddy Cracknuts, his poor tail as hairless as a lead pencil.

"Here's twenty-five cents," he shouted joyously. "Please give me that brush I've been wanting for Ma."

Mister Bags wrapped up the brush and Daddy took it home.

When he opened the door, Mrs. Cracknuts took one look at his tail and cried, "Daddy!"

And Daddy took one look at his wife's shorn coat and cried, "Ma!"

Then both of them laughed and laughed and laughed.

NEW CABINET IN NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, Nfld., June 9.—At noon today the Hickman ministry formally resigned and His Excellency Governor Allardice called on W. S. Monroe to form a government. The new ministry as sworn in this afternoon consisted of: Walter S. Monroe, Prime Minister and Minister of Education; John R. Bennett, Colonial Secretary; W. J. Higgins, Minister of Justice; Sir John Crobie, Minister of Finance and Customs; and W. J. Woodford, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs.

The other members of the cabinet are: Alfred B. Morine, M. S. Sullivan, Richard Cramm, A. Gordon Bradley and Joseph J. Long. With the exception of Mr. Morine, all these ministers were elected for various districts.

The proclamation for the by-elections made necessary in the case of department heads, issued this evening. The standing of the parties in the local assembly is: Monroe Party, 25 men; Hickman Party, 10 men, and one Independent.

MOULSON TEMPLE ELECTS.
Moulson Temple, No. 14, Pythian Sisters at its meeting last night in the Pythian Castle, Union street, elected its officers for the ensuing year and chose Mrs. D. Porter as most excellent chief. The retiring M. E. C. Mrs. G. C. Cosman, presided and there was a good attendance of members.

Baby and Nerves

A wise neighbor, who had had several children of her own, happened into the Mann household one afternoon to find Mr. Mann playing a game with the new baby.

The game consisted of jumping from behind a chair and clapping the hands; tickling the child from time to time, and crying "boo"—or some such word. "Tell your husband to stop that," the neighbor advised. "I've learned that the over-stimulation of a child's emotion isn't particularly good. The child may seem amused for the moment, but you will begin to see a reaction after a while."

It is very bad to frighten a baby, or to tickle it into hearty laughter. This is done by thousands of parents, despite the bad effects.

Any sudden outburst of emotion may greatly affect the child's nervous system. While the child may seem to be enjoying the game, it is, nevertheless, being shocked. It's system is not organized for such over-stimulations.

Nervous habits are very likely to grow from such sources and parents would do well to prevent anyone from any practice that tends to shock, either through laughter or fright.

ance of members. The list of officers elected was as follows: M. E. C. Mrs. D. Porter; past chief, Mrs. C. Cosman; excellent senior, Mrs. F. May Dinsmore; pianist, Mrs. Baine; installing officer, Mrs. W. Brown; and press convener, Miss Ethel Hammond.

POPULAR HORSE DEALER GETS SPLENDID RELIEF

Though 64 Years Old, Mr. Paquette Finds Dreco a Most Effective Remedy for Chronic Indigestion—Is Rapidly Recovering Old Time Strength and Energy.

"I was suffering from stomach trouble," says Mr. Thomas Paquette, of 819 Greene Ave., Montreal. "I could not eat a thing without feeling terrible pains all through my stomach. I was chronically constipated and had to take harsh laxatives all the time. I suffered greatly from a sluggish liver also, that was rapidly getting me into a state of despondency. I never knew what it was to feel really well. My ambition and energy departed and I had to give up my business for some time. I was certainly a very sick man and at my age didn't see much chance of returning to my former vigor."

"After reading in the newspapers about the splendid work Dreco was doing for people, many of them of advanced years and suffering from symptoms similar to my own, I decided to give it a trial. This was a most fortunate decision, because I started to benefit from the very first dose."

"I have taken three bottles of Dreco and feel like a new man today. I have no more stomach trouble. I digest everything perfectly, have a hearty appetite, rest peacefully at nights and wake up in the morning feeling refreshed and ready for an active day's business."

"I am rapidly regaining all my old time strength and ambition and intend to continue taking Dreco until my recovery is complete."

Dreco is made from herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. It is the most reliable tonic and corrective for digestive disorders on the market and is vouchered for by responsible people everywhere.

Dreco is being specially introduced in St. John by Ross Drug Co., 100 King St., Moore's Drug Store, 105 Prince Edward St., F. W. Munro, 357 Main St., and in West St. John by Watson R. Dunlop. It is also sold in Fairville by T. H. Wilson, and by a good druggist everywhere.
