Conference Sunday.

Conference Sunday was all that could be desired—a glorious day of refreshing for God's servants and people. The spacious church was filled to overflowing, many not being able to find admission. And while the sun in his glory shone without, the light of God's gracious countenance shone within through the ministration of His precious Word, while Bishop Horn unfolded the counsel of God, basing His remarks on St. John's Gospel 20: 21.

During the afternoon the ordination services were held, when the brethren E. E. Rife and L. K. Eidt were ordained as deacons, and A. W. Sauer, G. D. Damm and E. Becker as elders. After these exercises the missionary cause was taken up under the leadership of Rev. C. A. Thomas, President of the Missionary Society of the Evangelical Association, and in a comparatively short time over $1000 were secured in cash and subscriptions for our Conference and missionary work. It was an interesting and encouraging meeting.

The closing service, during the evening, was led by Rev. S. P. Spreng, editor of the Evangelical Messenger, who preached to a crowded house in the demonstration of the Master's power, while he discoursed on Phil. 2: 5-11. It was a fitting close to a blessed and peaceful conference session. May the character and example of Christ thus portrayed, prove an impetus to our work and a holy inspiration to every servant and hand-maid of God to labor with an increased degree of self-sacrificing love and devotion for the salvation of precious souls, and may His blessings attend our feeble efforts with abundant success.

Wm. Horn,
Chairman.

J. G. Litt,
Secretary.
