CHATHAM, N. B., AUGUST 30, 1883.

The Brooklyn Eagle of 13th inst. published what it claims to be the official history of James McDermott's connection with the Fenian Brotherhood, his betrayal of the Fenian conspirators, &c. It says McDermott conspired that Mr. Gallagher and his brother were going to England to blow up buildings and allowed them, having first obtained a letter from O'Donnovan Rossa authorizing him to correspond for his paper. In Dublin McDermott sought Mrs. Cody, who supplied food to the Fenian Park murderers, and by the lavish use of money wormed from her the names of the persons who paid her to supply food to the assassins. She only saw his true nature when she learned of the arrest of the parties whose names she gave him. Featherston Rossa, the accredited agent, was then in Cork, and McDermott did not succeed in entrapping O'Malley. McDermott convinced Featherstone that he was not a spy and became quite intimate with him, although O'Malley warned him repeatedly. At a meeting of dynamite men McDermott was blowing up and proposed to poison Capt. Plunkett, the resident magistrate for Cork. That night the plan for the Liverpool explosion was decided.

A convict in the name of Deasy, who was arrested on the night of the explosion, stated in Parliament that he had been offered information for £10,000 of numerous plots for the destruction of public buildings. McDermott showed Dalton all the public buildings, and he is the person who gestured to the Fenian men in the company of Dalton opposite Westminster Palace. It was decided by McDermott and Featherstone that a box of nitro-glycerine should be brought up to Liverpool by Deasy. Deasy was warned not to take any dynamite to Fenian, to whom the dynamite was consigned, but before he left McDermott gave him a note to Fenian signed with Featherstone's name stating, "This is Deasy, a good man, and the person who brings you nitro-glycerine." Deasy was arrested on his arrival, and the note led to the capture of Fenian and conviction of him and Deasy.

Art in Milwaukee.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., 19th Aug., 1883.
To the Editor of the Miramichi Advance, Dear Sir--Speaking with one of the leading lights of Milwaukee's chief daily, yesterday afternoon, at the 4th annual convention of Photographers of the United States, now being held in this beautiful, cool and quiet city, your correspondent was struck by the number of photographs on view at the Exposition Building. So, in company with a friend,
an hour or two was spent in gazing upon the beauties of nature and art, for both were legions.

Numerous photographs taken by the electric light were exhibited by Dixon
of Toronto, but they did not appear superior in any point. Two Montreal scenes, one a Carnival at the Victoria Skating Rink,
and the other a game of Lacrosse, were fine
specimens of "composition" photographs from the studio of Inglis, of Rochester, N. Y., late of Montreal. The former picture contained more than a hundred figures, all of which were so vividly portrayed as to elicit hearty admiration, while the latter was well deserving of the encomiums bestowed upon it.

Numerous instantaneous views of landscapes and animals were exhibited; also some marine views by Lincoln of Cambridgeport, Mass., taken in the same way, which were eminently worthy of more than a passing notice, the waves even on the point of breaking being minutely delineated.

The landscapes were highly admired, especially those of Hines, N. Y., displayed by Ryder, where art seemed to have reached its perfection in the rippling surface of the stream and the downpour of the waterfall. Views of mountain scenery in the picturesque country of Gunnison, and other portions of Colorado, struck the beholder with awe at the "sublimity of their grandeur."
Architectural views were in abundance, some of which were exceedingly well-toned and finished, a fine specimen being the Court House of Quincy, Ill. A well executed work of art was the interior of a library by Pennell of Brooklyn, the minutiae of which were truthfully depicted--the light and shade being noticeably interesting.

An interesting feature of the exhibition was a collection of Egyptian views by Pymms, ruins of temples, bas-reliefs and mummies. Last evening Mr. Wilson, editor of the Philadelphia Photographer, delivered a lecture on Egypt illustrated with screen pictures from a powerful camera obscura. Mr. Wilson, when in Egypt, took pains to photograph these monuments of a mystic race, and they are about as perfect as it is possible to represent them in likenesses.

seemed to be in no way lessened by the camera. Strikingly prominent in this Department were the photographs displayed by J. H. Kent of Rochester, N. Y., the newly elected President of the Society, being rare productions in the art of Photography and acknowledged by all to be unequalled.

A novel feature in the exhibition was the plaque Photograph, which is a photographic imitation of a porcelain plaque, on a dark ground, and at a little distance, gives a very beautiful effect. It was patented October 10th, 1882, the principal claim being the convex raise or rim, in connection with the concave center; it is to this convex rim that the plaque owes its beautiful plaque effect. It is manufactured by Clench of Lockport, N. Y. Some excellent specimens of Crayons were on view, but they were not numerous. Those exhibited, however, were considered fairly good. St. Louis bore off the laurels in this branch.

There was a large assortment of scenic backgrounds, cameras and other paraphernalia pertaining to the studio. The Convention closed this afternoon 500 members having been in attendance during the session. It has proved an important work in introducing new and improved appliances to the profession, and by the numerous interesting papers which have been read upon the subject by men of high rank in the art. Dr. Herman Vogl having journeyed from Berlin to attend the meetings. President Kent is of the opinion that the electric light will never come to be extensively used in photography, as for ordinary purposes, daylight is always to be had. All unanimously agree that this is the best exhibition of the best work of the best photographers ever held, and the "Cream City" appreciates her share of the honor. Cincinnati will be the rendezvous next year.

I cannot close without a tribute to the galaxy of natural beauties who thronged the Exposition Building and were as ardently admired as their pictured rivals, possibly more so by some interested individuals, if the intensity of their gaze could be an indication of their partiality for London beer and bricks, Milwaukee is prominent for her beauties. An avowal. D. H.

General Notes and News.
Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts. The English papers record the death of Halloway, China, of Mrs. Scarborough, wife of the Rev. W. Scarborough, Weymouth missioner. The deceased lady was a sister of the Rev. A. R. B. Shrewsbury, of the N. B. and P. E. I. Conference.

John Hays, Credit P. O., says: "His shoulder was so lame for nine months that he could not raise his hand to his head, but by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil the pain and lameness disappeared, and although three months has elapsed, he has not had an attack of it since."
The sinking of the yacht "Mystery" with all on board is one of the saddest events of the season. The "Mystery" was from New Haven, Aug. 10, for a run to Nantasket, with four or five gentlemen, all good yachtsmen. She foundered, how or when is not known; but some of the bodies have been picked up. The drowned are Lieutenant Sargent, of New Haven, Raper Sargent, of New York, son of Geo. H. Sargent, of New York, Robert E. Hawkins, of New Haven, and Jos. Bartlett, of Ohio. They have large family connections.
