

MEMORIES OF KETCHELL AND McGOVERN RECALLED BY RUSHING JACK DEMPSEY

Heavyweight Who Stopped Fred Fulton So Quickly Quickens Memories of Real Ringsters of Other Days—A Swarming "Quick Finisher" Once He Gets Edge on Opponent.

Jack Dempsey, the new heavyweight champion, is a sure-enough fighter. He is just the type of battler to "take" a boxer of Fulton's type. How he compares with the great heavyweights of other days we would hesitate to say, but among the present run of big fellows he stands alone. He is the master of his class. It is a pity that his bout with Fulton was not extended a few rounds, for then he might have demonstrated in a more impressive manner the true calibre of man he is.

There is something strikingly familiar about Dempsey and Stanley Ketchel and Terry McGovern. His style of action quickens dormant memories of those two wonderful ringsters. Dempsey has been like them in all respects, but he is the closest approach to them that has been developed since their days.

HAWAIIAN SERF RIDER TURNS INTO A "DUKE"

Hahanamoku Is Raised on the Beach At Waikiki and Was Nicknamed Duke.

"Duke Hahanamoku acts more like a duke,"—Springfield Republican. "But he is not really a duke. While he comes of a very fine Hawaiian family, he has no claim to a title of any sort, except that of champion swimmer. It appears that when Hahanamoku was born the Duke of Edinburgh was visiting Hawaii, and that the name was then applied in the way of commemoration," says Lawrence Perry in the Post.

He may be able to shed a little more light on the subject of the Duke's royal lineage and the origin of his title. Some years ago, when Hahanamoku came here for the first time as swimmer of the New York Athletic Club tank, we watched the bronzed Kanaka with great interest. We were sitting next to one of the Withingtons of Harvard, who had come all the way from Cambridge to see the Duke swim.

FRILLS ARE ALL RIGHT, BUT IT'S SKILL COUNTS

Obviously, the most important part of a trap-shooter's equipment is a shotgun, and in this there is a wide range of choice, both as to the type of arms and the model.

ROAMER BOUGHT FOR MERE $2,500 AS TWO-YEAR-OLD

Roamer, now hailed as the greatest racehorse in training was bred in Kentucky by Woodford Clay. As a two-year-old he didn't amount to much and was repeatedly beaten by commonplace horses. So little did Mr. Clay think of him that he sold the little gelding to Andrew Miller for $2,500.

IS RUNNING FAST

W. R. Appleberry, the world's professional sprint champion, is running fast for a soldier in active service. At a meet held June 9, near Station, he won a 100-yard closed race in 10 1/2 seconds and repeated this time in an open event. He ran the 200 in 23 3/8, and in an attempt to break the world's record of 5 1/4 for 50 yards, covered the distance in 5 1/4.

CLEVER WOMAN BOXER WHO KNOWS HOW TO HIT AND GET AWAY. PATSY CLINE ANXIOUS FOR CHANCE AT LEONARD'S LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE

JUDITH DUNDEE IN SPARING EXHIBITION WITH MRS. HARRY BURNS, CHAMPION WOMAN BOXER OF THE WEST

Boxing is now at the crest of its popularity, but it has still to reach that stage of development which sees women as exponents of the manly art of self-defence. California, like France, has its women boxers, however, and the accompanying illustration shows the woman champion of the coast, Mrs. Harry Burns, sparring with Judith Dundee, the clever New York lightweight, while he was making a trip around the country.

EXCITING FINISHES MARKED THE HORSE RACES AT MONCTON

Will Be Sure, the Bathurst Gelding, Captured the Thirtieth Class—Laecopia of Moncton Won the Fifteen, Both in Straight Heats.

Special to The Standard. Moncton, Aug. 9.—Holy disputed heats and exciting finishes marked the horse races held on Moncton speedway this afternoon when horses from three provinces participated. The attendance was large and the racing furnished one of the best afternoons' sport witnessed on the local track in years.

Twelve horses started in the 2.30 class, and eight in the 2.15 class, giving evidence of revived interest in Maritime circuit meets. In the 2.30 class Will Be Sure, of Bathurst won in straight heats, but even here was a race, especially among the contenders for a part of the purse. Laecopia of Moncton won the 2.15 class after a most exciting contest with Tommy Cutter, the Sydney horse. Laecopia barely won by a nose in the final heat. The summary follows:

REDS SWAMP CHASE

That Harold (Hed) Chase, captain and first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, has been indefinitely suspended because of alleged indifference to playing, is announced by Manager Matthewson. Chase was under a similar charge in 1915 while playing on the New York Americans and was traded to the Chicago Americans.

TY COBB'S WALLOP BRINGS DIVORCE IN ONE OF DETROIT'S HAPPY FAMILIES

A Detroit woman recently sued her husband for divorce because he so far forgot himself in his joy at seeing Ty Cobb crack out a hit that he slammed her in the jaw and sent her out for the complete cure of his dent. But she says she is not a quitter.

WANTS TO FIGHT JACK DEMPSEY

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Jess Willard, champion heavyweight pugilist who is here to box tomorrow for the overseas war to the bank. Hubby finally did—but with reluctance. The combat had not progressed very far when Cobb came up in a pinch—two on and two runs needed to tie. Right away hubby got all steamed up. In loud voice, and with gesticulations that reminded many persons of a whirling dervish, he implored Cobb to "kill it."

BOXING EXPERTS FOOLED BY FULTON

It's surprising how many boxing experts were fooled by Fulton and his numerous press agents. The tip off was furnished when the plasterer was almost knocked out by Cowler, a fourth rate, and also when he failed to best Mike in ten rounds, writes Joe Vila. Fulton's cowardice was demonstrated to the satisfaction of close observers when he deliberately quit in a rough bout with Carl Morris some time ago. But interest in Fulton was maintained by the manager and boosters when he stopped the ancient Sam Langford and the over-estimated (outbox) Smith. A hold challenge hurled at Jess Willard was another bit of camouflage, Willard, who really wanted to fight Fulton because he knew the latter would be a soft mark, accepted the challenge, but the match fell through. Still the fact that Fulton was considered by many experts a worthy contender for Willard's crown kept him in the limelight and enabled him to command big money for his services. As I pointed out at the time the match with Willard was made, Fulton would have been a punching bag for the big world's champion, but I doubt very much whether Willard could have put Fulton away as quickly as Dempsey did in the ring at Harlan.

HIGH CLASS EVENTS ON ENGLISH TURF

According to the latest racing news from Newmarket, the great English turf centre, the curtailment of racing by the war cabinet will not be as drastic as first anticipated, and after all there will be fixtures enough to satisfy the owners of the franchise. The cabinet will not be as drastic as first anticipated, and after all there will be fixtures enough to satisfy the owners of the franchise.

PATRIOTIC LEAGUE

The new schedule for the St. John patriotic baseball league has been arranged, and when sanctioned by the competing teams will be published in the press. This afternoon Y. M. C. I. and Acadia battle on Barracks Square and a good game is expected. No games will be played today at Sussex.

PATSY CLINE ANXIOUS FOR CHANCE AT LEONARD'S LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE

Harlem Boy Thinks That He Would Be Successful in Bringing Championship Back To The Irish Race.

Patsy Cline, of Harlem, recently expressed the opinion that if he got a chance to meet Benny Leonard in a title match he would "bring back the championship to the Irish race." It is an Irishman to hold the title within the next decade it will come about through a victory by Cline over Leonard, for the Harlem boy is the only representative of the old school now in the lightweight division who would have a possible chance against the champion.

Early Contenders Englimen. The early contenders for the lightweight title of America were nearly all Englishmen, including Abe Hickel, Billy Edwards, Arthur Chambers and Johnny Clark. Hickel, who held the title from 1868 to 1872, seems to have made good his claim to the championship. After Hickel Chambers took the title by defeating Clark and Edwards and wore the crown till 1878, when McLaughlin came to the fore and held the championship till 1896, when he retired without a referee's decision having been made against him.

Erne Foreign Born. Frank Erne, who took title from Lavigne, was born in Zurich, Switzerland, but lived nearly all his life in Buffalo. Joe Gans, who succeeded Erne, was a Baltimore negro, and Battling Nelson was a Dane.

Adolph Wolgast was American born of German parentage, and so also was Willie Ritchie, whose name is Gary Steffen. Freddie Welsh is an Englishman. The present champion is American born of Jewish parentage.

George Lavigne, who succeeded to the title, was of French-Canadian parentage. Charlie White is Charles Apowits, English born, of Jewish parentage. Law Tandler is American born of Jewish parentage.

Rocky Kansas is American born of Italian parentage. Patsy Cline was born in County Longford, Ireland, and moved to Harlem at an early age. It is readily seen that if Patsy Cline is to bring back the lightweight title to the Irish race he will travel a rocky pugilistic road.

JIMMY BURKE, NEW MANAGER, SEES PENNANT FOR BROWNS

It is experience is all that is needed to make a good baseball manager, then the St. Louis Browns ought to make Jimmy a manager. Jimmy was in New York with his Browns recently having succeeded to the job when Fielder Jones fell down in the estimation of the St. Louis fans. Jones was imported by President Phil Ball to manage the St. Louis Browns, but was never a pitcher. He was a first baseman and a corking good one. Burke went to Rochester in 1900 he captained the Milwaukee American Association team, of which Charley Comiskey was president, that being the year before Comiskey went to the American League. Comiskey carried Burke to the Chicago White Sox and he was with them in 1901.

Jimmy switched to the National League in 1902 in the course of the violent baseball war and signed with Pittsburgh, playing there in 1903. From Pittsburgh he shifted to the St. Louis National League Club, which paid him wages in 1903, '04 and '05. That ended his regular major career, except for a spell with Detroit in 1912.

Then began a long and successful course of wanderings by J. T. Burke through the minors. His principal stamper during was the American Association, where he began by playing third for Kansas City in 1906 and 1907. Louisville had him in 1908, and he was with Indianapolis in 1909. He slipped a bit for a season, and was with Fort Wayne in the Central League in 1910, but came back strong as manager and third baseman for Indianapolis in the American Association in 1911. Indianapolis sold him on May 13, 1912, to Detroit, which was his last stop.

It had to laugh when I read the scare stories early this season about Ty Cobb approaching the finish of his record as a great batter. Ty is still the king of them all, and I know he would be because he was always a late starter, and it is natural that he should start a little later this year. I am in hopes that his delay start will enable Slater to take the crown from him. Cobb batted .350, which shows that George has a chance to top the list.
