

CHAP.	PAGE
XVII. Follows the fortunes of Miss Nickleby . . . .	214
XVIII. Miss Knag, after doating on Kate Nickleby for three whole days, makes up her mind to hate her for evermore. The causes which lead Miss Knag to form this resolution . . . .	224
XIX. Descriptive of a dinner at Mr. Ralph Nickleby's, and of the manner in which the company entertained themselves before dinner, at dinner, and after dinner . . . .	238
XX. Wherein Nicholas at length encounters his uncle, to whom he expresses his sentiments with much candour. His resolution . . . .	255
XXI. Madame Mantalini finds herself in a situation of some difficulty, and Miss Nickleby finds herself in no situation at all . . . .	267
XXII. Nicholas, accompanied by SMIKE, sallies forth to seek his fortune. He encounters Mr. Vincent Crummles; and who he was is herein made manifest . . . .	280
XXIII. Treats of the company of Mr. Vincent Crummles, and of his affairs, domestic and theatrical . . . .	296
XXIV. Of the great bespeak for Miss SNEVELLICI, and the first appearance of Nicholas upon any stage . . . .	309
XXV. Concerning a young lady from London who joins the company, and an elderly admirer who follows in her train; with an affecting ceremony consequent on their arrival . . . .	326
XXVI. Is fraught with some danger to Miss Nickleby's peace of mind . . . .	340
XXVII. Mrs. Nickleby becomes acquainted with Messrs. Pyke and Pluck, whose affection and interest are beyond all bounds . . . .	351
XXVIII. Miss Nickleby, rendered desperate by the persecution of Sir Mulberry Hawk, and the complicated difficulties and distresses which surround her, appeals, as a last resource, to her uncle for protection . . . .	367
XXIX. Of the proceedings of Nicholas, and certain internal divisions in the company of Mr. Vincent Crummles . . . .	384
XXX. Festivities are held in honour of Nicholas, who suddenly withdraws himself from the society of Mr. Vincent Crummles and his theatrical companions . . . .	394
XXXI. Of Ralph Nickleby and Newman Noggs, and some wise precautions, the success or failure of which will appear in the sequel . . . .	410