The Truthful Reader.

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, president of Amherst College, told a very pleasant story in his address to the graduating class at Haverford the other day.

It seems that President Lowell, of Harvard, had just published a new book, and had asked his publisher to send complimentary copies to some of his friends. By mistake, two copies of the book were sent to one gentleman, who promptly wrote to Dr. Lowell as follows: "Your new book reached me safely. I have read the first volume with great interest, and am now half-way through the second."

Something Sinister.

Dr. William H. Crawford, president of Allegheny College, said, on his departure to do war work at the front:

"Don't ask me for an interview. There's something sinister about an interview. It suggests that I'm never coming back."

"Yes, you make me feel almost as blue as the rich old fellow whose little nephew said:

"Uncle, will you please make a noise, like a frog?"

"Why, Willie!" said the rich uncle, laughing heartily, "why on earth do you desire me to make a noise like a frog?"

"Because," said Willie, "whenever I ask papa to buy me a pony or bicycle or anything, he always says, 'Wait till your uncle croaks.'"

What Annoyed Him.

A story is being told in France of a certain colonel, a strict disciplinarian, who has decided views on music. The other day he sent for the chief of his regimental band and delivered this scathing criticism: "I notice a lack of uniformity about the band which must be regulated. Yesterday morning they were out on parade, and the largest man in the band was playing a little bit of an instrument—flute or something of the kind—and you had the big drum played by a small man. That sort of thing doesn't look well, and must be attended to. I want the small men to play small instruments and the big men big instruments. And, another thing, I want the trombone players to slide their instruments in and out in unison. It annoys me to see them all out of step with their hands."

What Did the Curate Get?

A bishop of the Church of England had invited the clergymen of his see to a week-end party at the Episcopal residence. The guest of honor was a bishop from an adjoining diocese.

The first morning at breakfast, as the visiting bishop was about to crack the shell of his egg, he suddenly stopped, and, turning to the butler, who was standing at the back of the bishop's chair, he said, all the while holding his fingers tightly to his nose:

"Oh! my man! Take this egg away; the odor of it is atrocious. Take it away, please; take it away."

The butler, taking the egg in his hand and eyeing it closely, said, with great deference:

"My lord, a most regrettable mistake has been made. The stupid servant has given your lordship a curate's egg."

Looking Ahead.

A man had been lecturing his wife for exceeding her household expenses.

"I am afraid, my dear," he said, "that you do not practice economy."

His wife cast a contemptuous glance at him. "Come with me to the attic," she commanded.

He obeyed.

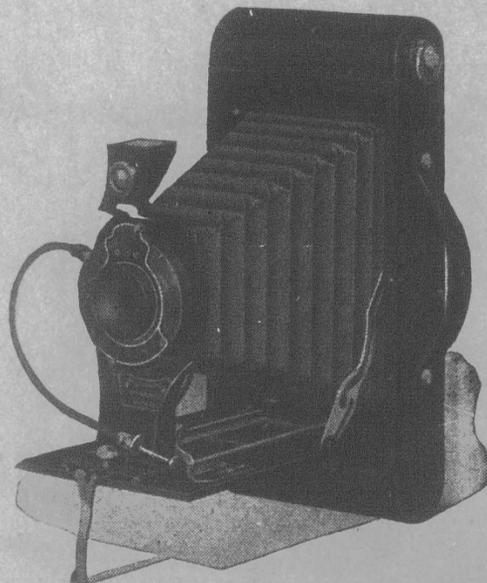

There she opened a trunk and took out a bundle wrapped carefully in tissue paper. Tearing off the wrappings, she disclosed a lovely filmy gown.

"That," she said, "is my wedding dress."

"And do you call it economy to save your wedding dress," he cried contemptuously. "That's not economy, it's sentimentality. It would have been economy to wear that dress and get the money's worth out of it. But lying here it is never likely to be of any use to you or anybody else."

"That's where you are wrong," she said calmly, "I am saving that dress for my next wedding."

Folding Autographic Brownies

As you look over one of these cameras at your Kodak dealer's, your first thought may be "How compact it is," or again, "How simple it is to work," or yet again, as you glance at the price tag, "It certainly doesn't cost much."

Everyone thinks somewhat along these lines as he inspects an Autographic Brownie.

And when it becomes your camera, and the first few rolls of film have been developed, another all-important fact establishes itself—"It makes good pictures."

An Autographic Brownie is a camera that gives you picture, date and title—a camera costing little, capable of much that will make good pictures for anyone.
