WRITES FROM SUNNY SOUTH

Geo. E. Young Tells in Entertaining Way of the State of California.

n a Letter to G. G. Martin he Describes That Wonderful Country.

Barrister Geo. G. Martin is in reeipt of the following interesting letter from an old citizen:

Los Angelos, Jan. 19, 1902. Dear Mr. Martin,-We arrived here all right, and had we been Prince Von Bismarck and lady we could not have been treated with more politeness and attention both on the Wabash and Santa Fe roads. The officials down to the porter seemed to vie with each other in showing us every attention, so much so that we felt sorry to say "good-bye." I am not going to say anything about the trip, as Mrs. Young was taking notes of the points of interest as we journeyed along, and these will be for-warded to our old friend-The Planet. When the conductor was informed that a full description of the journey was to be published in the Chatham Planet he was delighted, and said, "O, that lively paper is well known all along this line." Extra courtesy and attention were showered upon us at once, and we were taken from one side of the car to the other, so as to get the best view of all places of interest, and the train officials were profuse in their kind attention.

Los Angelos is a city of hills, and many of the streets are tunnelled. The street I go down to the city each morning is cut through a hill and a wall ninety feet high stands on each side, and this street is sixty feet above Broadway and Main streets, which are on the level. On the top where I am sitting is an o'd and favorite one, but too small; so they are putting an addition of 137 feet one way, and a wing of 90x40 in another direction. One hundred and thirty-eight new bedrooms and a dining room 134x40. These additions will be some twenty feet from the old part, and will be reached by three bridges, so that there will be no dark rooms. Two large hotels out Main street and Broadway are very massive structures of stone and pressed brick. Two others are to be built ed brick. Two others are to be built in the spring, one eight and the other ten storeys high, which are intended to eclipse all the present hotels. The good temperance people in Chatham will be pleased to know that there is no bar attached to any high-toned hotel here. They simply will not have them, and moreover, the man who indulges in spirits would find it extremely difficult indeed to even become a guest in one of these hotels. They are very particular on this point. The street car service is very complete and extensive here. I am now able to walk about 25 miles per day, the first day or so 16 miles made my legs pretty stiff at night, but i am getting over that micely. Next week I expect to walk 30 to 35 miles with little trouble. I am getting much better every day. This is the finest climate on earth, don't come here. Everything is cooked here with gas, which costs $1.00 per thousand feet, and for heating rooms when the fog is on they have a small stove that will hold a few pounds of coal, or a few bits of sticks six inches long. To see the large Chatham base burners, and then these, you would conclude a stove pedlar might hang one of them on his watch guard as a charm.

What surprises me most of all is the immense number of book stores. They are everywhere. You would think the people did nothing but read. There are two very large ones in Broadway with glass fronts as wide as Stone's dry goods store. Last Wednesday morning they put 1,000 volumes of "The Man from Glengarry" in these windows. On almost every street corner they have book shelves and books by the thousand, marked 5 and 10 cents, and these books are quite large, too. The drug stores here are probably the finest in the country, and as for cigar stores, they are everywhere. I do not think any of the men here chew tobacco, as I have never seen anybody expec-torate on the street, and I have yet of this cut there is a beautiful residence reached from the side by about an eath. Men here are apparently all 110 stone steps, and on the street behind this, there are a number of fine residences reached by 25 or 30 stone

It is very pleasant here just now I had to remove all my heavy clothing and have only on what I wore in Chatham in August. The only time it is chilly is when there is a fog at nights, then as soon as the sun is up it disappears. There is no twilight here; as soon as the sun-goes down it is dark, all at once. It is just like blowing out a candle in room at night.

Gorgeous flowers meet you at every turn. About five miles down Broad-way there are a number of hot houses and flower gardens; and such flowers! I could not name one in a hundred, as I had never seen them be-Here you can get a bushel basket filled with magnificent roses for 25 cents. You could get lost mong heliotropes over six feet high;

their growth is simply wonderful.

This is a city of hotels and furnished rooms, anywhere from the two storey frame to the stone mansion, and the prices from $150 to $50 per week, according to what you want and the length of your purse. Some of the hotels are very grand from four to six storeys high, and apparently not half enough of them. You can put on all the airs you like in these places at from ten to forty dollars per day, and indeed from forty up just as high as your ambition and money will lead you. Just behind an eath. Men here are apparently all gentlemen in the best sense of the term, and so kind and polite you would almost imagine you were in

There are about 20 banks here, and all very close together. You could go from the first to the last in fifteen minutes. The First National Bank building cost $750,000. Inside it is one glistening maze of gold, brass and mahogany. Then the real estate offices are magnificent buildings with great gold lettering. I may just add that seven-eighths of the real estate men here are sharks who will shed men here are sharks who will shed real crocodile tears after thoroughly swindling you.

The citizens here do little or no home cooking, so you see bake shops everywhere, and when they put cakes, bread, biscuits and rolls in full view, it is not hundreds of pounds, but thousands. One of their five o'clock displays would last all Chatham for one year. I have just returned from Pasadena, a suburban village of six thousand, and it is the cleanest and brightest place I ever saw. It is now late. Good-bye.

Frank Harris Will Sojoum for That Period in the Central Prison.

A year ago last fall Frank Harris swiped a pair of shoes from in front of Cowan's store. The shoes were small and Harris took them into get changed. Peter Cowan was there and telephoned the police. Harris heard him and fled. The colored man was not seen by the police again till

Mr. Anquetil called Peter and asked him about the shoes. The latter's reply was to ring for the police and Harris fled.

Chief Young was the next witness.

He remembered being called over to the store and he had faid the inforthe store and he had faid the information against Harris on the Monday following. The police knew that Harris was in London and, if he had stayed there, wouldn't have bothered him. The policy of the police was to drive from the city all the bad characters they could and send the rest to the pemitentiary.

The prisoner had told the chief that he didn't understand why he was arrested. Mr. Cowan had told him he ould go and he wanted to know why the chief was doing anything. Harris in his own defence told his story. He said he got the shoes from man named Jefferson, now dead.

Judge Houston said there was no doubt of one thing that Harris knew the shoes were stolen. He found the man guilty and sentenced him to six months in the Central.

"Great way to have the law," commented Harris. "Perhaps you want more," said Judge Houston. "No, thank you, that's enough," was the

SUSPICIOUS SULLY

Quinn-H s Reason.

Mayor Sulman and F. F. Quinn restock for the new Bee Hive and Mr. Quinn has been arranging for hardware stock.

Both gentlemen were in two slight railroad accidents during their trip, and the hardware merchant, who, the Mayor claims, is rather a superstitious person, accounts for the acci-dents by the fact that he dropped a table knife before starting on the journey.

The Mayor states firmly that he will not go on another trip with Mr. Quinn unless he (Mr. Quinn) takes an affidavit that he has experienced no othe knife dropping accidents.

MR. WIGLE IS WELL

Windsor Man who has been ill for Years at last finds a Remedy that Completely Cures Him.

Will Wigle, of Windsor, is very well known, not only to the people of his own city and Detroit, but also to host of travelling men through his connection with the International

For years Mr. Wigle was troubled with Dyspepsia and all its painful results. He could get no relief and his life was made very miserable by reason of the distress and pain which he suffered almost constantly. He could eat nothing that would agree with him, and every meal was followed by extreme pain, spells of coughing, pains through his chest, and general depression. He had suffered in this way for a long time growing gradually worse and he was very much discouraged. His case was pronounced by physicians as one of the most serious forms of Dyspepsia. At last he decided to try a treat-ment of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and purchased a box. From the very first they relieved him. The pain and distress grew less and less and he be-gan once more to enjoy the pleasure of a hearty meal, something he had not done for years before. He used the Tablets after every meal according to directions and continued do-ing so until he was completely re-stored to good health. His digestive P. C. Dodson saw the man on the streets and arrested him.

Dan Anquetil was the first witness. He remembered the incident. Harris tried to get the witness to change the shoes, saying he had got them from Pete. Mr. Anquetil called Peter and man.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured Mr.
Wigle of this very serious case of Dyspepsia after everything else had failed.

Many experiences just like this one have been and are being published and they all seem to point to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets as an instant relief and permanent cure for Stomach Trouble.

A True Brain Food

Must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that were fool-ish. The true brain food must be carried by rich, red blood. If mental fatique worries and alarms you, look not to the brain, but the stomach and as similative organs. No remedy yet discovered possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Fer-rozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating as-similation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red vitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozona is sold by McCall & Co.

He who can conceal his joys is greate er than he who can hide his griefs.
