La Grande, Oregon, Feb. 10, 1901. To the Chatham Planet .- As I am out in what is termed the Woolly West, and receiving the same old daily paper from Chatham, it might be and putting the piece of pork on top of the beans. Then we put the dish into a rather warm oven for about fifteen minutes, and serve in the same bake dish. In this way the beans come on the table whole and with that delicious brown color and flavor that distinguishes the "Home-made" baked beans.

The beans are thorough of interest to some of my old friends ley you have to irrigate or you cannot grow beets, and the land is so foul that it will take double the labor to keep clean that it would around Chat-

My advice to every man is to buy a Chatham fanning mill, clean the land, try beets. Later on wheat is bound to go up. It is worth 40c. here. bound to go up. It is worth 40c. here. They say they cannot grow it for less than 45c. and make a profit. Oats is very poor and light weight compared with ours. Barley is very good, but no market. Hay is fairly good and worth from $5 to $8 per ton. They grow quite a quantity of alfalfa clover where they can irrigate. This section of country is troubled with how cholera. Outs at number lost hog cholera. Quite at number lost hogs, some of them as high as $1200 worth. But I say, young man, stay east, don't go west. Yours truly, LUKE KELLY.

Driver Wanless Tells All About It—He Was in no Way to Blame

To The Planet.—Might I be permitted to trespass on your space in order to set at rest a number of false impressions and rumors that are being circulated fegarding the accident at the C. P. R. crossing on Queen street on Monday night by a number of people in our city who are talking merely from hearsay and who know nothing whatever of the actual facts of the case.

Before proceeding further allow me to make a few corrections in your report in Tuesday's paper. In the first place you state that there was an unlucky 13 in the party. This is not so as you omit Miss Griffith from your list. Then you say that we were making a great deal of noise. This is not a fact and in this statement I am borne out, not only by all the members of

This is not a fact and in this statement. I am borne out, not only by all the members of the party, but also by an eye witness whose testimony is unimpeachable.

Then you say the two boys in the front seat jumped. There were not two boys there to jump, Mr. Kipp being in the back of the sleigh and had we thought of jumping we would not have had time to do so, ing we would not have had time to do so, so quickly did the engine strike us.

Now 1, as driver, am getting blamed in some quarters for my actions, but I would like very much to see if my accusors would or could do any better. I looked toward the station, then turned to look the other way. By that time the team was just that the station, then turned to look the other way. By that time the team was just starting on the track while the engine was starting to cross the sidewalk. What could I do in such an extremity? Probably some of my accusors might have stopped the team then and there but I, also all the party, am glad that I took what action I did. However, there is one great consolation to me and that is that I am not blamed in the least by either the members of the in the least by either the members of the party or by the above mentioned eye-witness, who all agree with me that I did the best I could under the circumstances.

Then, again, the report has come to my ears that I was intoxicated at the time the accident conversed. It is processory for accident occurred. It is unnecessary for me to contradict this report as any person who knows me will at once realize the falsity of the rumor. I defy any person to say trutnfully that I have ever been known say truthfully that I have ever been known to take a drink of anything stronger than ginger beer or cider. I do not know the taste of strong drinks. And besides, what young lady would accompany a man who was intoxicated. I will wager any arount that none of those in our party would.

I wish that those who desire to gossip regarding the affair would come to me or to some one who knows something about the accident and learn the real facts of the

You state in your account of the accident that our escape was miraculous. We all consider it so and we are truly thankful that we escaped so lucky.

Before closing allow me to express on be half of our party our sincere and heartfelt thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Downey who rend-ered every assistance possible. Thanking you and trusting you will pardon me for treepassing so much on your valuable space, I am yours,

HARWICH RIFLEMEN.

The annual meeting of the Harwich Rifle Association was sheld on Saturday night. The club has been sadly demoralized since Capt. Ferguson's untimely death, but prospects are again reviving. In the election of L. W. Arnold to be captain a splendid choice was made. Ha will undoubtedly soon drill the riflemen into fighting trim. And just here let us say a word to the public in behalf of the riflemen. They have never, during the ten years of their existence, asked for aid and are not doing so now, but it certainly is not cheering to see the lack of interest shown by citizens for this clean, manly sport. For the sum of 25c. your name will be envolled as a member of this renowned rifle club. The officers for 1901 are:—President, M. J. Wilson; Captain, L. W. Arnold; Sec-Treas., James McCormick. Ranges, 100, 200 and 400 yards, and possible score 105 points. All ranges are fired from elbow rest. QUICK AND SURE.

HE WATCHED A FREIGHT

And Drove in Front of an Express Train

Going at 60 Miles an Hour-A Fatal Accident at Stoney Point.

T. M. Tennent, of this city, was in Stoney Point yesterday, and brings word of a terrible and fatal accident word of a terrible and fatal accident which happened there. Edward Grondin, an Essex county farmer, had his life crushed out under the wheels of a locomotive on the Grand Thrunk railway. He attempted to cross the tracks in a wagon in front of a Wabash express and the result was that he and his horses were killed. His mutilated remains were picked up by friends and taken to the depot to await the deposition of Coroner Reaume, of Wandsor, who was notified of the accident. Thomas Yates, the enaccident. Thomas Yates, the engineer in charge of the engine, was very much worked up over the sad affair. He said:

"We were a little behind time and at Stoney Point I guess the engine was going at the rate of a mile a minute. There was a freight train minute. minute. There was a freight train on the other line pulling into the station, and we passed each other on the crossing where the accident took place. I did not notice the man and his team until it was too late to do his team until it was too late to do anything. He was driving from the north and we were on the south track. "He apparently noticed the east-bound train as he was looking in that direction, for he whipped up his horses and in doin, so drove in front of my engine. The horses and wagon were oth struck and hurled in every direcboth struck and hursed in every direc-tion. I stopped my train as soon as possible and backed up to the scene of the accident. We found Grondin's body in one of the road guards. One leg was cut off at the thigh, the other was broken in several places, the side of his head was crushed to a jelly and by the look of the body I should judge there wasn't a sound bone left. Both horses were killed outright. One of the animals fell beneath the engine and life hind learn was and off. The

and its hind legs were cut off. The engine of the other train also passed over them."

The deceased was engaged in hauling ice from Lake St. Clair to Comber and was engaged in the comber and the comber was going to Stoney Point with his empty wagon when he met his death. He lived on a farm on Lake St. Clair about five miles from Stoney Point. He about five miles from Stoney Point. He had only recently purchased the property and lived alone. He was 32 years old and unmarried. His parents live near Stoney Point and he made his home with them until he purchased his own farm. He was very near sighted and it is thought he did not notice the express train coming when he was attempting to cross in front of a freight.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraterity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a conmedical frater-ity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and muccus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.
