

CEMENT BLOCKS
CEMENT WALKS
Contracted for at lowest prices.
Works Opposite McKeough's
School House.

CONNIGAR & OLEMENTS
ST. CLAIR ST. CHATHAM.
Correspondence Solicited.

To Look Clean To be Clean

Is gratifying
Is satisfying. You will enjoy both when you place your linen with us, for we do our work by the most modern methods known to our art.

The Parisian Steam Laundry Co. Phone 30

NOW

Is the time for you to have that view of your RESIDENCE That you promised yourself you would have about six years ago. Or what about that family group or dozen of Cabinets, why not consult

GIBSON
THE PHOTOGRAPHER
He will call on you and make all arrangements.
STUDIO Corner of King and Fifth St.
Entrance King St.

The Chatham Loan and Savings COMPANY.

Capital, $1,000,000.
INCORPORATED A. D. 1881.

Money to Lend on Mortgages

Borrowers should apply personally and secure best rates.
Deposits received of $1 and upwards and the highest current rate of interest allowed.

Debentures issued for sums of $100 and upwards from one to five years bearing interest at four per cent. per annum half-yearly.

S. F. GARDINER
Manager

THE HIGHEST STANDARD

of excellence in equipment and work is found in the

Detroit Business University
University Building, 11-21 Wilcox St.
Detroit, Mich.

It has few equals. The cost of a term study is slightly higher than in a common grade Business School, but the conditions and results amply justify it.
Enter any time; Catalogue Free; Write for it.

W. F. JEWELL, Pres.
R. J. BENNETT, C. A., Principal
W. H. SHAW, Secy.

Eyes Tested Free

AT
Jordan's Jewellery Store

SIGN OF THE BIG OLOOK

'The YELLOWSTONE, NATIONAL PARK

Is something absolutely unique in this world. — President Roosevelt.

The popular route to this delightful spot is via Union Pacific to Montana, thence by stage to all points in the park.

The stage ride from McCloud, by the splendid Concord Coaches of the Montana & Yellowstone Stage Co., through scenery hardly inferior to the park itself.

Very low rates during June, July, August and September.

Inquire of
F. B. OHOATE, G. A.,
218 Woodward Ave.,
DETROIT, MICH.

Miner's Liniment Cures Deadroot

THEIR MAY FLITTING

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

"The an-dac-ty!" Elizabeth Brown's eyes flashed, and she threw the note from her angrily, then picked it up at the inquiring look of her mother.

"Read that," she commanded hotly. Mrs. Brown took the letter and read it meekly. It was brief:

My Dear Miss Betty—I have just left the house. It is down in the country and near the seashore and has piazzas and an apple orchard—in short, is an ideal home for a young married couple. Will call tomorrow and go into details more fully. Faithfully yours, JAMES GRAHAM.

Mrs. Brown looked up with a pleased flutter. "I didn't know it had—had gone so far, Elizabeth," she said eagerly, "that you were engaged. When?"

"We are not engaged," sharply, "and never will be. I have thought Mr. Graham a very pleasant man and have liked him, and he has called on us quite often lately, but there has never been a word of—of love spoken, and now this note! It is positively insulting! Mother, we must commence packing at once and move this very afternoon."

"Why, child, we can't," in startled dismay. "It will take a week at least. You know."

"I know we shall be out of this house before night!" vehemently. "I shall go and engage a moving van at once to carry our goods to the station, and I will have them taken to the little station just beyond the limits of the town. It will cost a few dollars more, but it will hide all trace of our whereabouts. Mr. Graham will be here tomorrow to go into details—the presumptuous wretch! I'm sorry I ever spoke to him about our plans to hire a quiet place for the summer. Now, mother, you go and be packing your clothes and valuables. I shall tell the van man to be here in an hour, and we must be ready."

"Yes, dear," meekly, "but where shall we go?"

"Why, to—Oh, anywhere! It doesn't really matter. Suppose we try that little place where we had two weeks' outing last summer—Orchardville, you know. It's real country there, with solitary walks and gardens in every yard and country people coming in with things to sell. Rent must be cheap there, and by offering enough we can get some sort of house, or, if we can't, we'll hire part of one or rooms. Anyway we haven't time to engage one ahead now."

"Orchardville is where we first met Mr. Graham, isn't it?"

"Is it? Why, yes. I believe you are right, mother, but, you know, he told us he was just down there for a few days' fishing and that he didn't get a bite, so, of course, we wouldn't meet him again. Men never go fishing twice to the same place when they have had luck. Now, please hurry, mother."

The next afternoon they were standing on the front porch of a pretty vine covered cottage, superintending the removal of their goods from the local delivery wagon. The indignation still burned in Elizabeth's eyes. Mrs. Brown looked tired and plaintive. "I do hope we can stay here, Elizabeth," she sighed, "but the postmaster seemed slow in giving up the key and wouldn't promise us the house sure."

"We'll stay all right, mother; don't you worry. The house was to rent and the key left with the postmaster for prospective tenants. What if the owner did write to him about an old maid who was looking after a place for some young friends and that he would have her come down and see this. She hasn't put in an appearance yet, nor her young friends, and we were the first real applicants. Besides, we are in actual possession, and I was sent into the postmaster's hands. Now help me swing this hamper on the piazza here and then you lie down in it for an hour's rest."

Two days later they were settled and the furniture was all arranged. Mrs. Brown was lying in the hammock behind the screen of vines, gazing pensively at Elizabeth, who had stopped reading and was now contemplating the closed book in her lap with unseeing eyes. There were solitary walks about this village, many of them, and the young girl was facing the fact that the walks represented the social condition of the place. The previous summer's outing had been pleasant, but there had been companionship to make it so.

The gate latch clicked, and Mrs. Brown was aroused by a stifled exclamation from Elizabeth. Coming up the walk was James Graham, and beside him was an angular, middle aged woman who was apparently refusing to be convinced.

"That's the kind of house I want, Mr. Graham," she was saying shrilly, "not in any way. There must be a bay window in the end for Della's plants and willers in front for her an' Tommy to set under. She said I needn't even look at a place without the willers."

"But let me show you through the house, Miss Brown," urged Graham. "I am sure you will like the arrangement, and there is a fine willow in the back yard which the young people can sit under. There wasn't time to go to my agent after the key, but I can get the back door from the inside. I'm sure."

But the woman stopped short, turned and started back toward the gate. "Willers in front," she repeated aggressively. "Them's the last words

Della said. It's no use, Mr. Graham. I don't want it."

Graham watched her through the gate and up the sidewalk toward the station and then turned again to the house. "Might as well run through it while I'm here," he heard him say, then: "Why, hello! Looks as if somebody lived in the house—curtains at the windows, and, as he came a few steps nearer, 'hammocks swung on the piazza, and—Great Scott! Elizabeth—Miss Brown. You here! Well, well! This is luck."

Elizabeth was at the head of the steps now, an odd light in her face. "Who was that woman, Mr. Graham?" she demanded.

"Belle Brown, a queer stick, who is looking after a house. A friend recommended her to me as a joke and I determined to retort by actually renting her the house. You have noticed how I failed. But it is really possible that you have rented my house from the postmaster?"

"We really have," Elizabeth answered smilingly, "though we did not dream it was yours."

"An uncle gave it to me several months ago, and you are my first tenants. It's jolly that you are to be here all summer. I like the place and have planned to come down after a few days for a long stay, but I did feel a little apprehensive about the social loneliness. It's odd, though, that you didn't give me some hint of your coming. I—He paused abruptly at something he saw in her face, adding suspiciously: "Did you get that letter I meant for Betty Brown, which she told me never reached her? Yes?" as the color rose swiftly to her face. "I see you did. He hesitated a moment, then leaned toward her boldly. "Suppose we let the letter stand, Elizabeth, just as it was written," he whispered. "It is what I really would have sent to you had I dared."

Elizabeth tried to frown, but the frown softened before it reached her eyes, and he was looking into her eyes. He was satisfied.

Didn't Satisfy the Magistrate.

The other evening a man of the burglar type stepped up to an old gentleman and, handing him a piece of paper, said:

"Sir, would you be good enough to read me the writing on this piece of paper?"

The individual addressed consented and, moving toward the rays of a convenient gas lamp, read the following words:

"If you utter a cry or speak a single word I shall shoot you. Give me your watch and chain and your purse at once and then pass on."

Completely taken off his guard, the gentleman handed over the articles asked for and walked off. A few steps brought him to a policeman, and, relating his story, the pair proceeded in pursuit of the stranger, who was not yet out of sight.

Next morning before the magistrate the vagrant was called upon for an explanation. "Your honor," he said, "I am not an educated man and can therefore neither read nor write. Last evening I picked up a piece of paper, and it striking me that it might be of some importance, I took it to the first person I met and asked him to decipher it. The gentleman read it quietly to himself, and then, without saying a word, handed me his watch, chain and purse and walked off without giving me time to recover from my surprise or to ask him what he meant. It seemed to me that the paper possessed a certain value, and that he had given me the valuables as a reward for finding it."

But the magistrate gave him six months just the same.—London Tit-Bits.

The Quiet Answer.

As a young and unknown man I went down to a certain session court on the Oxford circuit to prosecute for the crown in a case of extensive robbery from a goods shed of the London and Northwestern railway. Some ten or twelve of us, all members of the circuit, had accepted the invitation of a very good fellow, also an Oxford circuit man, to drive out that evening and dine with him at—manor. My case had duly come on and I had secured a verdict of "guilty" during the afternoon. Having changed into evening dress, I took my place in a private bus, together with my fellow guests, for the five miles' drive out. About half-way there I, as a newcomer, not having apparently been noticed by the rest (the inside of the vehicle was as dark as Erebus), a certain Mr. T., a great talker, asked in loud tones, "Who was the young idiot who prosecuted today in that railway case?"

"I was," I promptly rejoined from my obscure corner, and I never knew a man relapse so quickly into silence before or since.—Fox Russell in Pall Mall Magazine.

Autograph Fans.

It was in China that the first autograph fans were seen, and they became very fashionable there long years ago. Some carefully preserved specimens have belonged to the emperors and their wives, while others have been given as diplomatic presents. A fan of this description, for instance, was presented by the Chinese ambassador to Mme. de Clauzel at the coronation of Napoleon I. In India the very first fans were supplied by nature in the spreading leaves of the lotus and palm, but screen fans soon became emblems of power there also, for they are not only mentioned in the great Hindu poems—"Mahabharata" and "Ramayana," but Brahma and Indra are represented in the ancient sculptures at Ellora and at Paros, which latter was also considered as an emblem of supreme power.

It is in China that the first autograph fans were seen, and they became very fashionable there long years ago. Some carefully preserved specimens have belonged to the emperors and their wives, while others have been given as diplomatic presents. A fan of this description, for instance, was presented by the Chinese ambassador to Mme. de Clauzel at the coronation of Napoleon I. In India the very first fans were supplied by nature in the spreading leaves of the lotus and palm, but screen fans soon became emblems of power there also, for they are not only mentioned in the great Hindu poems—"Mahabharata" and "Ramayana," but Brahma and Indra are represented in the ancient sculptures at Ellora and at Paros, which latter was also considered as an emblem of supreme power.

It is in China that the first autograph fans were seen, and they became very fashionable there long years ago. Some carefully preserved specimens have belonged to the emperors and their wives, while others have been given as diplomatic presents. A fan of this description, for instance, was presented by the Chinese ambassador to Mme. de Clauzel at the coronation of Napoleon I. In India the very first fans were supplied by nature in the spreading leaves of the lotus and palm, but screen fans soon became emblems of power there also, for they are not only mentioned in the great Hindu poems—"Mahabharata" and "Ramayana," but Brahma and Indra are represented in the ancient sculptures at Ellora and at Paros, which latter was also considered as an emblem of supreme power.

It is in China that the first autograph fans were seen, and they became very fashionable there long years ago. Some carefully preserved specimens have belonged to the emperors and their wives, while others have been given as diplomatic presents. A fan of this description, for instance, was presented by the Chinese ambassador to Mme. de Clauzel at the coronation of Napoleon I. In India the very first fans were supplied by nature in the spreading leaves of the lotus and palm, but screen fans soon became emblems of power there also, for they are not only mentioned in the great Hindu poems—"Mahabharata" and "Ramayana," but Brahma and Indra are represented in the ancient sculptures at Ellora and at Paros, which latter was also considered as an emblem of supreme power.

It is in China that the first autograph fans were seen, and they became very fashionable there long years ago. Some carefully preserved specimens have belonged to the emperors and their wives, while others have been given as diplomatic presents. A fan of this description, for instance, was presented by the Chinese ambassador to Mme. de Clauzel at the coronation of Napoleon I. In India the very first fans were supplied by nature in the spreading leaves of the lotus and palm, but screen fans soon became emblems of power there also, for they are not only mentioned in the great Hindu poems—"Mahabharata" and "Ramayana," but Brahma and Indra are represented in the ancient sculptures at Ellora and at Paros, which latter was also considered as an emblem of supreme power.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Wm. Wood
See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LIVER PILLS.
FOR HEADACHE, FOR DIZZINESS, FOR BRUISES, FOR TORPID LIVER, FOR CONSTIPATION, FOR SALLOW SKIN, FOR THE COMPLEXION.
Price 10 Cents. (Purely Vegetable.)

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

The Hamilton Murder.

Kingston, Oct. 21.—An insurance agent just returned from Toronto had a conversation with Chief Green of the Tyendinaga Indian reserve, who declared that he recognized a picture of the woman found murdered in Barton Township as that of a half-breed who had lived for years in Deseronto. Three weeks ago she left, saying she was going to Collingwood to meet a man and get married. Since then nothing has been heard of her.

Hamilton, Oct. 21.—Detective Greer and the local officers are more than ever impressed with the belief that the victim of the Barton murder was a woman who went under the title of Mrs. O'Connor, or Connors. They have discovered that at least two women went under that name, and that one of them, resembling the victim very closely, was in the city and on the mountain the day previous to the discovery of the crime.

A woman can work herself into a spell of illness over a trouble that is not worthy of a second thought.

Dishonesty in small affairs often assumes large proportions.

It is a proverb of Japan that a healthy stomach is the basis of all strength. The Japanese as a people are remarkable for their health, endurance, patience and skill.

No man is stronger than his stomach. The greatest athlete has dyspepsia, and his muscles will soon fail. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food eaten is digested and assimilated.

It is because Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition that it gives strength to the body. When the weak stomach is made strong by "Golden Medical Discovery" then food is perfectly digested and assimilated, the nutrition derived from food is distributed to the several organs of the body, and the "weak" heart which was weak because it was not well fed becomes strong. So with the weakness of the other organs of the body, it is cured when the stomach is cured.

I am pleased to tell you that three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured my husband of liver complaint and indigestion," writes Mrs. G. Hall of New Ontario. "He suffered for a long time with indigestion, and was unable to eat. He here but they did not do any good; also tried several kinds of patent medicines but received no benefit. Then I wrote you and you advised us to try your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' We got a bottle at once and my husband and I took all of this one bottle he was feeling ever so much better and is now feeling better than for years. We have got several friends to try your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for different complaints and I am pleased to say that it has never failed."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the best laxative for feeble people. They cure constipation and biliousness. Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 31 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound.

25c BIRD TONIC FREE
Sold at 25c. But this medicine free by sending us a bird kept in a cage and a bird seed wrapper. Bird Tonic is a yellow pill (trial) of any price or drug. Dealer has no need send us a card or stamp for pills, wanted.

BIRD BREAD
Give birds this and makes them sing. Free trial in a 10 Cent Bird Seed Box. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for help in bird troubles free for reply stamp. Address exactly COTTAM BIRD SEED, 19 St. Louis, Mo.

WE HAVE ON HAND A LARGE SUPPLY OF Lime, Cement, Sewer Pipe, Cut Stone, & Etc. All of the best quality and at the lowest possible prices.

J. & J. Oldershaw,
A Few Doors West of Post Office.

Smoke Quail on Toast Cigar 5c. Clear Havana filled.

BEGINNING MADE

Toronto, Oct. 21.—The chief development in the first day's proceedings of the investigation into the charge that Ald. Lynd accepted money for his vote upon the Paddy's Alley permit may be said to have been the establishing of the fact, on the evidence of George Elliott, that money was placed in his hands for his services as a lobbyist. That the money was used improperly in influencing the vote council, or that anyone else, so far as he knew, received any remittance from the firm, the witness denied.

The investigation opened at 10.30 a. m. yesterday and was adjourned after two hours' sitting, being resumed at 2 p. m., and continued for another three hours. The inquiry will be proceeded with at 11.30 a. m. to-day.

The witness taken in the bribery charges was attested upon the gathering in the court room, all ranks and classes being represented. The mayor was present throughout the bulk of yesterday's investigation, while most of the members of the City Council happened in and out during the sitting. Prominently to be noticed were Controller Spence and Ald. Graham, Vaughan, O'Holm, McGhie, McBride, Harrison and Dunn.

Ald. Lynd Unmoved. There were many interested glances thrown in the direction of Ald. Lynd during the day, particularly at those times when the name was mentioned in Elliott's testimony, a not infrequent happening. The accused alderman sat unmoved by the testimony just inside the railing.

Elliott a Poor Witness. The chief witness, Elliott, who was subjected to the questionings of Mr. Drayton during practically the entire day, can hardly be said to have come out with flying colors so far as telling a clear and convincing story is concerned. He seemed unwilling to pin himself down to any precise facts. His reluctance, shiftness and constant habit of avoiding the taking of any positive stand, brought upon him a number of occasions the criticism of the presiding judge.

George B. Elliott in his testimony said he got from Paddy Bros., a sum of money, five, six or seven hundred dollars, for his lobbying work.

His services were sought by Henry and George Puddy about the beginning of March.

He was not asked to use money improperly.

The money was paid in four or five remittances and he never received the $900 package spoken of.

There was a $4 bill in one payment, which Hogue changed because he (Elliott) "didn't like $4 bills."

The statement credited to George Puddy that he had no connection with him, Elliott declared to be incorrect.

Kept All the Money He Got. Elliott kept all the money he got, and was unaware that anyone else received any.

No pressure was brought to bear to get Ald. Lynd to vote, and Elliott didn't know how the alderman would cast his vote.

Elliott canvassed for votes and knew Ramsden was doing the same, but believed he was working solely for friendship for the Puddys.

Elliott saw Ald. Lynd often around the City Hall, but only once in Hogue's office.

School Trustee Harry Simpson stated that Elliott told him he got $1,200 for "putting the Puddy matter through."

George Puddy admitted that $700 was paid Elliott, with $200 more to follow.

The Crown Attorney read a statement from Messrs. Markham & Martin, builders, that Elliott had displayed a roll of bills, remarking he "had them all fixed but one." Elliott declared he couldn't recall having done so.

MUST REMAIN LEADER.

R. L. Borden Declared to Be Ablest Lawyer in Parliament.

Montreal, Oct. 21.—J. J. Stewart, editor of The Halifax Herald, who was in the city yesterday, declared that R. L. Borden must remain leader of the Conservative party in Canada. Mr. Stewart says that Borden is the ablest lawyer in Parliament at the present time, and that if Hon. Mr. Aylesworth should reach the House of Commons he will perhaps be a good second. He has known the leader for many years, and declares that he has not a single enemy. Although defeated in Halifax the editor of The Herald states that Mr. Borden is universally loved, and when the chief is at home you meet there a number of friends and conditions that come to pay their respects to the Conservative leader.

Power Men Agree.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Representatives of Ottawa and Hull power interests, which for several weeks have been fighting over the division of water power here, reached an agreement last night. They agree to jointly construct a new dam to cost $40,000 and to divide the power of the Chaudiere equally. The Government is to be asked to go on with its scheme for conserving and regulating the power of the Upper Ottawa.

Towed into Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—The steamer City of Exeter, Capt. King, bound from Swansea to New York, arrived in port Thursday afternoon with the barque Orion in tow. She was sighted 150 miles south-southeast of Halifax and was deserted. The Eturia, which arrived at New York Tuesday, reported the Orion, and also took off her crew. The Orion's destination was St. John, N. B.

Drowns in a Well.

Bridgeton, Oct. 21.—A sad accident occurred at the farm of David Cranston Thursday evening, about three miles from here. While drawing a pail of water, Mrs. Cranston accidentally fell into the well and was drowned. Mrs. Cranston was a young woman and leaves a family of five small children.

Language Concession to Poles.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 21.—An Imperial ukase, issued yesterday, authorizes provisionally the use of the Polish and Lithuanian languages in the private schools of Poland. Instruction in history and geography must, however, be given in Russian.

Smoke Quail on Toast Cigar 5c. Clear Havana filled.

Boxes can be had at the PLANET Office.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff

25¢ That Cough
which ordinary remedies have not reached, will quickly yield to
GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM
It cures those heavy, deep-seated coughs—takes away the soreness—cleans the throat—strengthens the lungs. None the less effective because it is pleasant to take. Just try one bottle and see how quickly you get rid of that cough. At your druggists. 25c. bottle.

District Doings

CHARING CROSS.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jenner have returned after visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. A. Fenton, of Highgate. Mrs. Jenner left Tuesday for her home in Toledo.

Mrs. B. S. Russell received severe injuries from a cow which turned cross while being milked. The doctor put 27 stitches in her forehead. Considerable excitement was caused at Charing Cross by Mr. Dodd's horse running away.

SORE THROAT AND COUGHS.

A simple, effective and safe remedy for all throat irritations is found in Crescote Antiseptic Tablets. They combine the germicidal values of Crescote with the soothing properties of slippery elm and licorice. 10c. All Druggists.

BUXTON.

James H. Gilhula, of Tilbury, was in Pale, Thin, Nervous?

Then your blood must be in a very bad condition. You certainly know what to take, then why not take it?—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If you doubt, then consult your doctor. We know what he will say about this grand old family medicine. We have no secret. We publish the formula of all our medicines. Lowell, Mass.

A CLEAN-UP BARGAIN SALE

25 per cent. reduction on all Baby Carriages, Co-Carts, Refrigerators, Blue Flame Oil Stoves, Hammocks, Lawn Mowers.

They must go; we want the room. Come and get a bargain.

WESTMAN BROS. Big Hardware

ICE CREAM PARLORS
OPPOSITE BANK OF MONTREAL
One of the finest assortments of Candy in the city, fresh every day.

WHOLESALE and RETAIL
Ice Cream or goods delivered to any part of the city. Light lunches served.

J. H. Rhody
In Wigzell's Old Stand.

The Coming Building Material
Cement Block manufactured by BRIGHT & FIELDER

Any persons desirous of building will do well to inspect these blocks. The electric road is using them for its new power house. After seeing them you will use no other.

Plant opp. Public Library Queen St.

Weather Strips!
E. W. HAMMILL, Harvey St., has secured the Local Agency for the celebrated CHAMBERLAIN METAL STRIPS, and will give estimates for fitting in residences or public buildings. Call at residence or drop a card to the P.O.