On the eighteenth day of January last, at the town of Richibucto, in this province, a most worthy and estimable brother, Thomas Wetnore Bliss, passed from life unto death after a very brief illness. Brother Bliss had reached the sixty eighth year of his life, during which he tast filled positions of honor and trust, both public and private, and had won the confidence and respect of all who shared his acquaintanceship or had transacted business tors of Brother Bliss came to this with him.

The ancestors of Brother Bliss came to this province with the loyalists at its early settlement, some of whom were honored members of the Masonic fraternity. His great-grand-father, the Hon. Daniel Bliss, who was a member of the provincial council and chief justice of the court of common pleas, was the first worshipful master of New Brunswick lodge, No. 541, constituted at Fredericton, A. D. 1789, and long ago extinct. The present worshipful master of lodge St. Andrew, No. 16. Richibecto, W. Bro. J. M. Uphan Bliss, is a son of our deceased brother. Brother Bliss received Masonic light in lodge St. Andrew, and was content to fill the office of secretary of the lodge a great number of years. The highest offices in the gift of the lodge were time and again tendered him, but he preferred the more humble though not less important position of secretary.
