

The Canine Curo.

Observing men are of the opinion that any ordinary dog - and he is always hungry - will eat and destroy in a twelve month, the equivalent of that which, if given to a well-bred pig, would make him at the expiration of that time 300 pounds, gross; 286,000 such pigs would aggregate 84,000,000 pounds of pork, now worth at the home shipping station, more than $4,700,000; requiring to transport them more than 2,860 cars, carrying fifteen tons each, or a train more than sixteen miles long. This would represent nearly $1,500,000 more than the entire amount paid in the country in 1880, for school, township, and county taxes combined: it would build 9,400 school houses and churches worth $500 each, or would pay the average wages of 14,000 school teachers, twice the number now employed. A condition of which the above is a poor outline, is at the bottom of what is each year becoming a greater irrepressible conflict between the wool growers and the savage brutes and keep in jeopardy, or destroy the flocks that, protected, would enlarge and increase to the extent of producing the wool for which we now send so many millions across the sea. If the dogs are maintained as a luxury, they are a luxury we cannot afford, and should give way to something less expensive, and less productive of loss and misery.

The rearing of better classes of sheep, always indicates a high state of civilization, where intelligence, comfort and competence abound, and no more un-failing sign of ignorance, squalor and poverty, can be manifested, than the presence of a varied and increasing assortment of flea-bitten curs, unclean and of low degree. It should not be difficult to choose between raising sheep and growing dogs.

Mistakes Made about an Editor. That he is never tired. That he never gets mad. That he has lots of leisure. That he loves to receive communications. That he invariably runs one hand through his hair while he writes with the other. That he is extremely grateful for complimentary tickets to free entertainments. That he can, if he wishes, give the top of the column to every blessed advertiser he has.

That he is afraid of anybody, and that he is not prepared to meet the maddest man who ever read his paper. That he can write obituary poetry at the rate of a mile a minute, and can give any one a good send off at a moment's notice. That he likes to have people drop in to read his exchanges, and leave them in a disorderly mess, after he has arranged them for his own convenience.

The Tariff and Free Trade. Owing to increased expenditure which, as I have said these gentlemen imposed upon you - that being so in Mr. McKenzie's time, in the time of those who preceded him and in the present time - taxes have been imposed to a considerable extent upon articles capable of being produced in this country; and no one doubts, although questions may be raised as to what is called the adequacy or inadequacy of the system, that to impose such taxation as according to this measure you are imposing, as the tax is greater or smaller, so is the advantage accordingly greater or smaller; and as according to this measure the advantage is in favor of the manufacturer who proceeds to manufacture the article for the home market; therefore it is what I say that those who have contended that the practical issue before the people of this country on the tariff question was an issue between absolute free trade and this tariff, are trying to raise a false issue together. (Hear, hear) I say that no part of this country has ever raised the standard that would practically apply to our affairs the system of absolute free trade, or the advocated raising of our chief taxes upon a few articles only, not capable of being produced here, and all that we differ upon at this time - but these differences are to my mind serious and important - but still all that we differ upon is, whether the present tariff, which raises the taxes upon articles upon which taxes are raised in perfect, or whether it is defective and unjust, and improper. I maintain, and the Liberal party maintain, that this tariff is defective and unjust, in several respects, and with the view of laying fairly before the country what we deem to be its clear and serious defects, we laid before Parliament this session motions which pointed out where we thought that it was markedly wrong and where we desired that it should be corrected. - [Mr. Blake.]

Dropsy is essentially a watery condition of the blood, dependant upon disordered kidneys. Burdock Blood Bitters are strongly Diuretic, and consequently the best known remedy, acting as it does upon the entire Secretory System.

Rheumatism is greatly dependent on visited condition of the fluids, and may be eliminated from the system by cleansing the blood and regulating the kidneys. Burdock Blood Bitters will do this most effectually. Trial bottle 10 cents.

Fort Albert.

Duncan Macdonald, who in a quarrel some five years ago killed Roderick Munro, has been released from the Penitentiary, and arrived home on Wednesday. He is a physical wreck, and his friends have little hopes of him recovering his health.

Unlucky. Mr. R. Bean was laid up for several days last week but is now on the mend. The sick committee looked after him.

Mrs. Cassidy burnt her wrist in a painful manner recently while attending to household duties.

Master S. Appelly rose at 3 o'clock on Wednesday the 7th inst., and did the first shearing of the season in this section. He also meant to get the start of Loeburn.

Leoburn. Mr. P. Kehoe, sr., and old resident, has returned from visiting friends in Dakota. He looks well and hearty after an absence of two years.

The many friends of Mr. Thos. Fothering, who spent last summer here, will regret to learn that he is seriously ill at Winnipeg, which has caused him to resign a position on a surveying party.

Master John Hall sheared the first sheep this in this neighborhood on Saturday morning of last week at five o'clock.

Horse Died. A valuable driving horse belonging to the Rev. Mr. Thomson, of this place, died on Thursday last from pink eye.

PRESENTATION. - Previous to his departure for the old country, the congregation of the Union Church, Brussefield, waited upon their pastor, Rev. Mr. Thomson, and presented him with an affectionately worded address accompanied by a purse of $160 to assist in defraying the expenses of his trip. This gift is as creditable to the congregation, as it must be gratifying and encouraging to the recipient. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson sail from New York by the "Anchorage" and they expect to be absent about three months. During his pulpit will be regularly supplied by the Presbytery. On Wednesday morning a number of the friends of Rev. Mr. Thomson, Brussefield, and member of the congregation, accompanied them to Seaford, to see them safely off by the train and wish them bon voyage. - [Expositor.]

East Warramoon. A HAPPY EVENT. - On Thursday evening, June 1st, a large party composed of members and adherents of the Fordeyce congregation, gathered at the brick church with the intention of visiting their pastor, Rev. J. Anderson, B. A. in order to congratulate him on his able demonstration of his belief in the theory, that it is not good for man to be alone, and also, to welcome Mrs. Anderson. The lady visitors brought with them an abundance of good things of this life, which they displayed to the very best advantage on the table at the Mansie. They, the estates, proved very attractive, for soon all present and the table upon which they were spread were in very close proximity. As soon as all were prepared to attack the tempting array, Mr. Will McKay rose and read the following address: - To the Rev. Mr. Anderson, - Dear Pastor: - We, the members and adherents of the Fordeyce congregation feel desirous of making some tangible acknowledgment of our appreciation of your labors amongst us as pastor, and thinking the present occasion a very suitable opportunity, we beg your acceptance of this souvenir. We do not tender it as an intrinsic equivalent for your services, upon which an intrinsic value cannot be set, but we intend it to signify that in your services and devoted efforts for our spiritual welfare you have our warm sympathy, and in your schemes for the advancement of the cause in which you labor so efficiently you have our hearty co-operation. We also extend a cordial welcome to Mrs. Anderson, and would express the hope that she may never have cause to regret coming amongst us, and that you, in the multifarious and arduous duties which devolve upon you in your capacity as pastor may find in her an invaluable helpmeet. Miss Campbell then presented them with a purse of money. Mr. Anderson briefly replied, thanking them in very suitable terms for their kind expressions, both to himself and Mrs. Anderson, after which the demolition of the cakes and pies was proceeded with. The company then adjourned to the sitting room, and after spending an hour or so in pleasant conversation, retired to their homes. Social gatherings such as these, serve to establish and nourish that spirit of harmony and unity which should always exist between pastor and people, and it is to be hoped that the mutually amicable dispositions which animate these respective constituents of the church at present may continue to do so in the future. - [PHILANTHROPIST.]

Words of Wisdom.

Nothing overcomes passion more than silence. Faith and hope cure more diseases than medicine. The secret of felicity is a judicious inter-emption of routine. It is not wise to reject benefits when they may be refused. Happiness is like an echo; it answers you, but it does not come. A man without secrecy is an open letter for every one to read. Fortune has rarely condescended to be the companion of genius. When duty seems to elude, "the moral law always has the right of way." Excess of ceremony is always the companion of weak minds; it is a plant that will never grow in a strong soil. Blame from the manner in which praise and blame are dealt out in this world, an honest man ought to court defamation. In life it is difficult to say who do you the most mischief, enemies with the worst intentions or friends with the best. When a man dies they who survive him ask what property he has left behind. The angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him.

THE WAY IT WILL AFFECT YOU.

It excites expectation and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heats the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. SUCH IS THE IMMEDIATE AND SATISFACTORY EFFECT that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours time, if not of long standing. It is warranted to GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION, EVEN IN THE MOST advanced cases of Consumption. It is warranted not to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies), or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no real necessity for so many doctors by Consumption, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALM will prevent it, only taken in time. Physicians having consumptive patients, and who, having failed to cure them with their own medicines, are would recommend to give ALLEN'S LUNG BALM a trial. Sold by all Druggists.
