

Forecast of Home Rule Bill.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.
The Daily Chronicle, a strong supporter of the Asquith Government, publishes a forecast of the Home Rule Bill, which provides that the Irish Parliament shall have full control of the Customs and Excise, Provision, however, is to be made for the continuance of complete free trade between England and Ireland. Ireland will receive for fifteen years an annual Imperial subsidy of ten million after which she will make contributions to Imperial expenditures based on the percentage of her revenue. The Dublin Parliament will consist of two houses. The Legislative Council will have about 50 members, the Legislative Assembly 100 members. The Council will have a suspensory veto on legislation. In the event of disagreement between the houses after the second rejection of a bill by the Council, it will be submitted to the two houses, deliberating and voting together, and adopted or rejected according to the decision of the majority. Ireland will continue to be represented in the Imperial Parliament, but by greatly diminished numbers. The Irish Parliament will have no control with respect to the navy, army, militia, foreign policy, coinage, military camps, coast lighting, and will be forbidden to establish or endow any religion or deal with religious matters. According to the forecast, it is understood that the Royal Irish Constabulary will be controlled by the Imperial Authorities for 11 years.

Record Prices for Furs.

LONDON, January 24.—Furs are likely to be higher in price, owing to the effect of the Puma of last September 23, restricting the hunting of seals throughout the czar's dominions. This coming restriction of supply was responsible for a scene of considerable excitement in the public sales rooms in London yesterday afternoon. The occasion was one of the periodical sales of skins and furs which take place in London four times a year—in January, March, June and October.

The room was packed with a polyglot crowd of 250 dealers drawn from the four corners of the earth. The excitement was due to the fact that 1,044 Russian seals, the first offered in a public market since the passing of the edict, were to be sold.

Prices were high from the start. Ermine skins fetched anything from a few shillings to over £15 ($75), for forty skins, of course undressed. At the other end of the scale were tails of mink, which went for as little as 2 cents each.

There was fierce competition for sable, as much as £18 ($90) being paid for a single skin. When it is remembered that a sable is about the size of a domestic cat, that it takes anywhere from forty skins upwards to make a long sable coat, and that the price is the price of the raw skin only, it is readily seen that sable coats are not yet going to become every day wear.

The World's Largest Dock.

LONDON, January 26.—The largest floating dock in the world has just been successfully launched from the shipyard of Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson, Limited, of Wallsend-on-Tyne.

Some idea of its immense size may be gained from the fact that the ground area of the actual dock is equal to two-and-a-half acres, while the height of the side walls is 66 ft. This is one of three docks that Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson, Limited, are constructing at present for the British Admiralty.

A good idea of the increase in the size of docks for the British Admiralty which has taken place in recent years is gained by a comparison of this recently launched dock with the Bermuda dock.

The Bermuda dock was built in 1902 by Swan, Hunter, and Wigham Richardson, Limited, for the British Government, and was considered a wonder at that time, it being far ahead of any other dock of that day. It had accommodation for vessels displacing 17,000 tons. The new dock has nearly twice the capacity of the Bermuda dock, for it has a lifting capacity of 32,000 tons. It is double-sided. At the bow end there is a pair of pivoted, flying gangways to give access from one wall of the dock to the other. In the walls of the dock is living accommodation for a large number of officers and men. A complete telephone system is also installed.

Nuggets in Turkey's Crop

Leads to Big Gold Discovery.

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—Reports from Minfonas in the Swan River Valley give details of the new gold strike, which is said to be phenomenally rich. Just before Christmas a farmer named Murphy, living some nine miles from Minfonas, sold some turkeys. Several flakes of gold were noticed in their crops and when the contents were properly examined a number of nuggets ranging in weight up to three ounces were found. No one seemed to know where the turkeys had come from, but Murphy heard of it and staked claims along a ridge of black sand where the turkeys had run during the summer and Fall. Other claims have been staked in the vicinity, and in all some hundred and twenty locations have been filed. There is too much snow for much prospecting, but a nugget weighing just over an ounce has been found and several smaller ones. When the snow goes there will be an active mining camp, for preliminary prospects show that a rich gold field has been located, with possibilities of finding the mother lode. Geological formations are similar to those of other rich gold mining regions, and two Klondike miners now at Minfonas predict a wild gold rush in the Spring as soon as the value of the deposit becomes known.

Maine Herring.

Shipments of domestic herring from primary points have fallen off during the week, indicating with the virtual close of fishing along the Maine coast, that dealers here and elsewhere have on hand about all they care to handle for the present.

It is now expected that no more herring will be caught off the Maine coast until spring. There have been practically none landed within the last three weeks, but the snow will stop any that might be along this way. It is a singular fact, says the Portland "Press," but the herring are not found after there has been a good fall of snow. It is reasoned the snow caused the feed to sink and so the small fish do not show themselves on the surface after it has fallen in to the water.—Fishing Gazette.
