THE ANTIQUES OF TO-MORROW.

"Will a kerosene lamp ever be an antique?" A friend of mine asked me this question the other day. I was just but a quarter in earnest.

We had just been to an antique shop and had seen a sample of whale oil lamps for sale at a good price. My friend who is an elderly woman says she can remember throwing away several of these lamps when she cleaned out the attic after her mother died.

"We had plenty of nice kerosene lamps," she said, "and I knew I should never use those again and I didn't see why I should keep them. And to think of their being antiques! I've got half a dozen glass kerosene lamps that haven't been any use to me since we put in the electricity. I was thinking of selling them to the junk man but maybe I'd better keep them; maybe my children will be getting three or four dollars apiece for them for antiques."

Wander Through an Antique Shop.

Of course we laughed at the idea but it set me wondering again, as I have often wondered before, what will be the antiques of the next generation?

Have you ever been to an antique shop lately? If you haven't, and get

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, loose and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of mucus. The cause is the same—irritated membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon cough.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "24 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

The Prince at Delhi.

GREETED BY GREAT THROGS OF CHEERING INDIANS.

Enormous crowds assembled to witness the Prince of Wales's entry into Delhi. They extended over the two and a half miles route from the station to the Viceregal Lodge and completely hid the martial proclaimed by the followers of Gandhi. It was a wonderful gathering, including at least 25,000 people of the so-called "untouchable" or lowest classes.

From the walls of the old fort nearly to the gates of the Viceregal Lodge the Prince saw solid tiers of applauding Indians. The Viceregal Lodge the Prince proceeded to a canopied dais, where he shook hands with the members of the Executive Council. After reading a reply to the address, which was handed to him in an ivory casket, he drove through the Lahore Gate and Kashmir Gate into the crowded streets, and was acclaimed with great enthusiasm. When earlier in the week the Prince of Wales entered Agra, one of the famous cities of the Mogul Emperors, he received a whole-hearted demonstration of good will from the populace. In spite of certain rumours to the contrary, the people of Agra and its neighbourhood rallied in many thousands to welcome the Prince on his arrival in the city. Immediately in front of the railway station rise the massive red and crim-

Gladstone and the Brewer.

There have been many good stories of Gladstone told recently. Here is one from Sir Henry Lucy:—"At one of the suburban meetings in the neighbourhood of Edinburgh, an argumentative brewer, rising from time to time from a bench immediately before the platform, persistently heckled him. At first Gladstone replied with his customary courtesy and causticity. At length his patience was exhausted. I can see his face now as he leaned forward with gleaming eyes that would have scorched up any human being less tender than a Scottish brewer. Tapping his forehead, he said, 'I am responsible for the working of such brains as is here, but I am not responsible for what God Almighty has placed in that occiput.'" son walls of the Fort, and below them a many-hued crowd waited impatiently for the coming of the Royal train, although the arrival was nominally private. There was no ceremony, therefore, and the Prince of Wales immediately drove off through the Port to his first function—an inspection of pensioners and ex-Servicemen, of whom a large number were drawn up in the park. The Prince expressed his sense of pleasure in meeting the men who had served the Empire so well. One very old man with whom the Prince shook hands claimed to have received a pension for 43 years after 33 years' service. About 30,000 are estimated to have attended the Prince's route, and of their real delight in seeing His Royal Highness among them there can be no question. —News of The World.

VALT MATHESON.

ANCIENT ACHEs. There are so many ways of curing the aches that torture bone and flesh, it does seem strange we are enduring the same old pains our fathers knew. On our main street the signs are swinging, the signs of healers by the score, who'll start our dismal hearts a-singing, if we'll dig up five bones or four. By every mall I get a letter from one practitioner or two, who'd free me from the gout or tetter, the rheumatism or the flu. And all these healers I have trusted, I've paid them money by the yard; I've had my ancient spine adjusted, and I've been bled in navel and I've taken pellets green and yellow, I've taken tablets flat and square, and guided by some healing fellow, consumed a horse's bill of fare. I've taken brown and brindled bitters, and pills that taste like toilet soap; for he must rank with tinhorn quitters who doesn't sample every dope. And yet with all my ceaseless taking I'm where I was long years ago; and as my grandfathers' bones were aching, so my old bones much anguish know. I read how Science knocks diseases, and wipes out human aches and stings; I also read some other wheezes concerning pills that fly with wings. The science tales are most alluring, but while I read them in my lair, I wonder why we're still enduring rheumatics, mumps and falling hair.

Pain in Her Arm is Now All Gone.

MRS. STANTON RECOMMENDS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Woodstock Lady Whose Rheumatism has Vanished Tells why She Believes in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, Ont. March 10. (Special).—Mrs. John Stanton, who lives on R. R. 1, near here is never tired of telling of the benefit she received from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. "About four years ago I had rheumatism in my left arm," Mrs. Stanton states. "It was so painful I couldn't dress myself."

"I read about Dodd's Kidney Pills and what they had done for others, so I sent and got six boxes. They did me good right from the start. The pain is now gone, but I keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house as I have an occasional touch of lumbago and they help it a lot. They help my husband's head too."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best known and most reliable of kidney remedies. They heal the kidneys, sound kidneys strain all the uric acid, the cause of rheumatism, out of the blood.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make healthy kidneys.

The Scot's Lament.

Lord Dewar has a large fund of good stories concerning his fellow-countrymen, but perhaps the best is that about the English tourist who came upon a farmer in a remote part of the Highlands.

"How delightful," he exclaimed, "to live in a wonderfully solitary spot like this!"

The farmer was not enraptured. "Wad ye like tae gang fifteen mile for a wee drap o' whisky?" he inquired.

"But," said the visitor, "you could surely keep a bottle."

"Whusky 'il no' keep," said the farmer, with a pitying smile.

Lascelles Was in North Sydney.

A pleasant incident in connection with the marriage of the only daughter of England's king and queen, the beautiful Princess Mary, to Viscount Lascelles, recalls the visit of Earl Grey, governor-general to North Sydney, on which occasion he was attended by the Viscount as aide-de-camp to His Excellency. Services were being conducted in St. John's Anglican Church by the then rector, Rev. Mr. Ward-Whitell. A slight rap at the door leading from the vestry into the main body of the church attracted one of the members of the choir, Mr. A. G. Ellis, who immediately made inquiries and found himself face to face with the present husband of Princess Mary. The Viscount made known his mission, saying that His Excellency and party would in a short time enter the church; and would Mr. Ellis be good enough to make it known to the rector? This was at once done, and no sooner had the reverend gentleman finished making the announcement, at the same time requesting the organist, Mr. Angel, and the choir to play and sing the National Anthem upon the entry of the royal party, than His Excellency and suite entered the church. The royal party took part in the services and immediately after the conclusion boarded their yacht, which was anchored in the stream off Salter's wharf.—North Sydney Herald.

Terrible Weeping Eczema.

For the year 1905, I suffered with weeping eczema on my hands which caused me very much pain and worry for I could not use my hands for but very few things. I tried many remedies but they all failed to give me any relief and I was obliged to give up my work and came south at the same time continuing to use any preparation recommended to me but my hands continued to get worse until I was told to try D.D.D. Prescription, also soap which I at once did and the first two or three applications gave me the greatest relief and when I had used but half a dollar bottle my hands were healed. I am indeed very thankful for your splendid prescription and may its fame spread world wide, in the wish of MRS. E. HAYES.
