The Event of the Year

Regatta Day is but twenty-four hours passed, but is three hundred and sixty-four days away, and the scenes on the banks of picturesque Quidi Vidi yesterday will long linger in the minds of those who had the pleasure of participating in the one day in the year when St. John's meets itself on the green to celebrate the annual aquatic sports which have been rendered time-honored by custom and tradition. Yesterday's event was one of which the Committee in charge might well be proud, from the President down to the junior member. Nothing occurred to mar the features of the day. The weather man smiled most propitiously, and though a smarter breeze than usual ruffled the surface of the lake, making it a bit difficult for the boats to improve on their previous times, yet the thousands of spectators were pleased to have had such cooling zephyrs, even though their favorite crews did not break any records. The day was well spent, and was ideal for the sport entered into. The traffic regulations authorized by the Inspector General of Police were as perfect as could be made, and were carried out without a hitch, and to the general satisfaction of the public. All are agreed that nothing more enhanced the day's proceedings than the care and attention shown by the very efficient police in handling the streams of vehicles, from motor cars to perambulators, the objective of all being the classic green, famed in song and story. So then passes another day renowned in that sport which Newfoundlanders are so well adapted to make successful. The labor of love given by the Committee is well worth recognition, and no person can say they one and all did not give of the very best service in order to make the day the success that it undoubtedly was. Words of praise where deserved can have no better effect than in giving President Hiscock and his capable and zealous assistants all the credit that accrues from the very fine termination to the Regatta of 1922.

Will Enter the "Mount."

By Tuesday's express there left to enter Mount St. Vincent, Halifax, Miss Mary Emerson, daughter of Mrs. Annie G. and the late Otto Emerson. Miss Emerson has been attending school at the Mount for the past three years and met with much success in her studies. At the station to say "Good-bye" were a large number of friends, including many of her school mates with whom she was a general favorite. Miss Emerson took with her the sincere wishes of her many friends for a successful future in her religious profession.

MYARD'S LINIMENT FOR GARGET IN COWS.

Vitamines and Cod Liver Oil.

We are asked by Dr. Zilva to correct a statement made in an editorial article of Tuesday's issue, wherein we said that Dr. Drummond and Zilva who have been lecturing to the Board of Trade on the nutritive value of edible oils and fats have raised the point that the refined cod liver oil of Newfoundland is far richer in "life savers" than that of Norway. No such statement was made by Dr. Zilva. Dr. Zilva and Drummond in an article in the Lancet, asserted that several samples of Newfoundland oils were as potent as the most active Norwegian commodity. Dr. Zilva is to find out whether this is the case with all Newfoundland oils, and it is impossible for him to make a definite statement in this connection at this stage of the proceedings. The point we had in mind was that Dr. Zilva's investigation raised the issue of the superiority of our oils for medicinal purposes, and we are borne out by the remarks of Mr. W. A. Munn, who at the meeting pointed out that our oil made from livers of fish, caught out of the spawning season, would naturally be supposed to be richer in vitamins than the product of other lands, whose fish are caught during the winter months.

The Late Alexander Graham Bell.

Professor Alexander Graham Bell, LL.D., Ph.D., D.Sc., M.D., whose death was recorded yesterday, was an outstanding figure in various activities, but his name will be remembered longest as the inventor of the Bell Telephone, a system of which is practically universal. He was born at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1847. As a young man of 28 he emigrated to Canada, later accepting a professorship at Boston University. In 1876 he patented the invention of the telephone. Following he conducted a long list of scientific investigations which ended in many triumphs. Dr. Bell's Laboratories have been located since 1886 near Baddeck, Cape Breton. There for many years he conducted research and experiment in aerial locomotion and other scientific subjects and maintained his private museum showing the development of his great invention. He encouraged Samuel P. Langley to invent the first flying machine and declared after witnessing its flight at Quantico, Va., in 1896, that the age of the airplane was at hand, although Langley's machine was destroyed.

In the world war, Dr. Bell and F. W. Baldwin invented a boat called a hydroplane which developed a speed of 70 miles an hour and was called the fastest in the world. It used an airplane propeller and carried beneath it a series of planes which lifted its main body above the water as its speed increased. It was intended for submarine chasing and scouting but the armistice prevented its use for these purposes.

BARTLETT-ELLIS.

The first matrimonial ceremony to be performed by Rev. W. B. Bugden, B.A., since his appointment to Carbonear Circuit, took place at the parsonage yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Chas. Archer Ellis, son of Mr. C. Archer Ellis of the employ at Gray and Goodland, was united in wedlock to Miss Eleanor Isobel Bartlett, daughter of Robert J. Bartlett of the firm of Messrs. James Baird, Ltd. Miss Dot Rooney attended the bride, whilst Mr. Walter Vey supported the groom. After the ceremony the happy couple received the felicitations of friends, and boarded the train for Coley's Point where the initial stages of the honeymoon will be spent. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will make their future home in Montreal, where the former is holding a responsible position with the Southern Press, Printers and Lithographers. If the sentiments expressed by the friends who witnessed the marriage are a criterion of the future, then the newly married couple will have the best of good fortune in their voyage over life's sea. The Telegram desires to add its best wishes to the multiplicity of others received by the contracting parties.

Terrible Tragedy At Catalina.

THREE BROTHERS DROWNED.
The following particulars of a sad drowning fatality at Catalina were received to-day in a message to the Deputy Minister of Customs from Sub-Collector Thom, Perry:—
"Mark Sheppard's three sons were drowned here yesterday while returning from the fishing grounds. A whirlwind struck their boat upsetting and immediately sinking it. One of the three brothers who were occupants managed to escape by holding on to a piece of wreckage. One of the three bodies has been recovered."

Flower Day for Belvedere.

Owing to the recent difficulty encountered in obtaining flowers for Mt. Carmel, the Belvedere Ladies' Association have wisely decided to offer flowers for sale on the sets on Monday next, the day of the Belvedere Cemetery Mass. In this way a double service will be served. Those who wish to decorate the graves will be assured of a plentiful supply of flowers at a nominal figure, while the proceeds will help along the fund in aid of the little tots at Belvedere Orphanage. This is a unique idea and one that is bound to take with those of our readers who are interested in the good cause.

Express Passengers.

The following first class passengers arrived at Port aux Basques by S. S. Kyle from North Sydney yesterday morning, and joined No. 2 Express at that point: Mrs. W. Chard and son, Mrs. R. Small, S. Mercer and daughter, Miss J. Morris, Miss Maher, T. R. Parby, Mrs. A. White, P. Young, E. Currie, Mrs. W. Gray, Miss E. Taylor, R. Young, J. and Mrs. Mallam, R. and Mrs. Wyse and daughter, Miss S. E. Power, Miss J. Campbell, Mrs. R. Hyman, Mrs. J. Clifford, Mrs. F. McNeil, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Suley, Miss I. Marshall, G. Wingrave, Mrs. A. White, W. A. Hayse, H. and Mrs. Normore, Miss S. James, Miss M. Cooper, Miss A. Moore, E. P. Bender, Rev. W. W. and Mrs. Clarkson, J. Bough, J. and Mrs. Scott, J. Babstock, B. Snow, R. Goodman, Mrs. J. Bonaly.

Screen Picture Taken.

The majestic moving picture man took a number of interesting pictures of yesterday's regatta, including one of the Regatta Committee. The scenes will probably be shown here in September along with other events, such as the War Veterans Sports, Mount Cashel Garden Party, Bell doing a flying machine and declared after witnessing its flight at Quantico, Va., in 1896, that the age of the airplane was at hand, although Langley's machine was destroyed.

Police Court.

Matters were quiet in police circles to-day. Four drunks, who were arrested last evening, were allowed to go on paying cost of conveyance. A domestic, who was charged with vagrancy, was sent down for 10 days. The girl is an old offender. Three drunks, arrested on Tuesday night, were not called as they left a deposit to cover costs.

TRIBUTE TO EX-TRADE COMMISSIONER.

Dear Sir:—Having recently returned from the United States, it is with great pleasure I write you to express my appreciation of the service your paper is performing, and its value as a medium. While in the United States, the Evening Telegram was the only paper from Newfoundland that could be obtained. While at Philadelphia the writer had the pleasure of reading your paper; in Boston it is always to be obtained at the Public Library, and judging from its tattered pages it is doing valuable work. At the New York Public Library, the Librarian informed me that the Daily Star would be received there till about twelve months ago, and he wondered the reason why it has not been sent. Now—apparently he was not conversant with Newfoundland politics. However, the Evening Telegram is always to be obtained in New York from Mr. J. M. Devine, our late Trade Commissioner, who keeps it there now on file, and right here, please permit me through your columns to express publicly my appreciation for the very valuable information received while in New York from Mr. Devine.

As you are aware, Mr. Editor, unless one is familiar with conditions in New York, it is no easy task to put things over! In order to separate the dross from the gold it requires knowledge and long experience. There are many breakers that the amateur business man can be wrecked on in the business ocean of New York, unless he is guided by someone who knows the ropes, and it is in this connection that I am grateful for the services rendered. Mr. Devine, though a very busy man, always finds time to answer questions, and help out scores of Newfoundlanders who call looking for information of various kinds regarding New York. If you are looking for a market to buy or sell, he has the information. If a letter of introduction is needed by any business man there, he will do it. In short the Commercial world looks upon 138 Liberty St. as the information Bureau for everything pertaining to Newfoundland.

While the writer was in Mr. Devine's office on different occasions, the phone rang many times, seeking the Trade Commissioner for Newfoundland, with questions about Mines, Timber, the Possibilities of manufacturing, Hydro Electric Power, Fishing and Sporting possibilities, Hotel accommodation, Guides, and where located, Prohibition, and a hundred and one other things, to say nothing of the telephone calls from exporters to know of duty on goods entering the country. It would be money well spent if Newfoundland would make an appropriation to take care of its immigrants in New York, and this town, in its entirety, seems to be not a question to be without it. Thanking you in anticipation, for insertion in your esteemed Journal. I am, very truly yours, J. W. McGRATH. 40 Cochrane Street, July 31, 1922.

Harbor Grace Notes.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Amelia Bray, whose death occurred on Friday evening, took place from her late residence, Water Street West, on Sunday, interment being made in the C. of E. Cemetery. Rev. E. C. Clench of Spaniard's Bay performed the late rites, in the absence of the Rector of St. Paul's, Rev. W. R. J. Higgett. Left to mourn were two daughters and two sons who live abroad; also a daughter, Mrs. George Pike Bear's Cove, and a son, Mr. Selby Bray of this town. To the bereaved we offer condolence in their hour of sorrow.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church are holding their annual Garden Party at Donnelly Hall grounds to-morrow, Wednesday. We trust the day will be fine and the affair a good success.

Mention was made last week that Mr. Michael Hayse, who was visiting his children at Boston, had been ill there. A message has since been received conveying the sad intelligence that the death of Mr. Hayse occurred on Friday night of last week. The body is expected to arrive here on Thursday, where interment will take place. We understand a son of the deceased, Mr. Walter Hayse, will accompany the remains.

Rev. E. C. Clench of Spaniard's Bay conducted the services at St. Paul's church on Sunday last.

S.S. Pawnee is running a special excursion to St. John's to-morrow, and no doubt those who are anxious to take in the Regatta at Old Quidi Vidi will avail of this fine opportunity. The service rendered by the Pawnee is a valuable one to the travelling public, and especially to the business men.

Obituary.

MR. EDWARD DOWNTON.
St. John's lost another of its most respected citizens early yesterday morning, when Mr. Edward Downton entered into rest. Deceased had been ill for a lengthy period, and for the last couple of months his condition had been most serious, so that the news of his demise did not come as a surprise to friends. Upon leaving school Mr. Downton entered the employ of Messrs. Marshall Brothers, and by attentiveness to business he soon won the esteem of employers and the public, so that a responsible position was his. Of a quiet disposition Mr. Downton had the power of making friends and he retained them through life. He was a keen sportsman and in his younger days participated in all our athletic pastimes. The writer well remembers his ability in the noble game of cricket, a score of years ago. He was a tower of strength to his team and could always be relied upon. In football and the regatta, too, he was prominent, and being a gentleman played the game for the sake of the game. Deceased leaves a wife and two children, Miss May and Master Hubert and a large circle of acquaintances to mourn him. The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.30 from his late residence, No. 9 Fleming Street.

TAGGED SALMON CAUGHT.—Mr. Hill, a resident of Hermitage, whilst out trapping at Brunet caught a salmon weighing 31 lbs. The fish had a silver tag marked B. 68 attached, and is probably one marked by the Canadian Fisheries Bureau.

Filming the Pigmies of the Congo.

The cinematograph has been put to many strange uses since its invention some five-and-twenty years ago, but none stranger, surely, than the filming of the Congo pigmies in their native haunts, a feat recently accomplished by an American, Dr. Leonard Berg.

The average height of these little people is under 4ft., and they live as nearly the life of monkeys as it is possible for human beings to do.

They are apelike, too, in appearance, with hairy skins, long arms, short legs, and powerful, thick-set frames.

In his interesting book "On the Pigmies," Dr. Berg tells us many interesting facts concerning these forest dwarfs.

Will Attack Huge Animals.

They have no fixed abodes, but wander at will through the vast tropical forest—of which they are the only human inhabitants—in search of the game that constitutes their principal means of subsistence.

Though they are exceedingly timid and shun contact with all human beings not of their race, they are, nevertheless, bold and successful hunters.

No animal is too big or too small for a pigmy to tackle. They will even attack a full-grown bull elephant with their tiny bows and arrows, and will trail the huge brute, if necessary, for weeks on end.

BUT THEY CAN'T SMOKE.

Following on an elephant kill, or if a pigmy band happens on a patch of forest where game is plentiful, they will remain at the one place for a couple of weeks rarely longer. They may build themselves rude shelters of boughs as diminutive as their bodies. These are the nearest they ever get to a regular dwelling place.

Although anything and everything edible is welcomed in pigmy's lair, they have a perfect mania for meat of which, when they can get it, they devour inured childlike greed.

Nevertheless, when Dr. Berg offered them goat's flesh and fowls they refused the proffered dainties, because, they explained, they must eat no meat which is not killed by their own hands.

Neither had they any use for tobacco, and when the camera man coaxed one of them into a pose smoking a pipe, the picture was a failure. After a couple of whiffs the little savage changed color—and gave up the attempt.

The Latest Craze.

COLLECTING POSTAL SEALS AND LABELS.

Stamp-collecting has many charms; but several drawbacks—it takes much time and more money than most people can afford.

But these drawbacks do not apply to the collecting of the postal seals and adhesive labels used on correspondence for charitable, political, and social advertisement purposes, commonly called "stickers" by schoolboys.

They are usually larger than postage stamps, and being meant to attract attention, are generally more striking in design, prettier, and more widely interesting. A good collection of "stickers" gives far more pleasure to ordinary people than one of postage stamps.

We Invented the Stamps. Almost always printed in colours, they are produced by every kind of process. They are attractively designed and printed to tempt people to use them, sometimes to buy them, and always to keep them.

Originally, they were chiefly to advertise International Exhibitions. The authorities would give them to exhibitors, who put them on their letters. This was first done at the first International Exhibition held in Australia, at Sydney, in 1878.

Great Britain, however, was the inventor of these souvenir stamps, the earliest known being that issued in 1864, to commemorate the third century of Shakespeare's birth.
