An Up-to-Date Concern.

A collar or a cuff is an insignificant erticle, unless, of course, you happen to have none ready for a party, for instance, when they have an awful importance, but a person would be surpaised to see the marvellously intricate machinery that is now used to put these little bits of wearing apparel in the nice condition that is always desired. No institution in Canada affords a better illiastration of this than the Partsian Laundry Company, whose excellent work has become so enormously popular here. Not in London alone, but in Toronto, Hamilton, and all over Western Ontario, is this so, and it is interesting indeed to watch the evolution from the somed goods to the clean, starched garment. A shirt comes into the great receiving room, is marked carefully, then washed, starched and dried, dampened again and passed on to the ironing machine. Six of these are used on each shirt, one for the ouff, another for the bosom, the yoke and sleeve, the body and neckband. All other goods, too, go through similar elaborate treatment before evolving as the crisply-cleaned article. New machines are being contimually added, such as a five-ton mangling and ironing machine for flat work, a steam-heated machine for putting on the dull finish, and one heated by gas for the glossy finish. The firm is strictly up-to-date in its methods and apparatus, and the amount of its work may be judged by the fact that three bookkeepers are employed all the year round, and eight delivery rigs are used.

" HE IS BRAVE "

A Boer Fighter's Opinion of the Canadian as a Soldier.

Buffalo, Nov. 3 .- Among the guests at the Hotel Broozel, this city, is Christian Dordman, a Boer refugee, en route to Texas, where he expects to make his future home. Although of Boer ancestry, Dordman is a British subject, and might be treated as a rebel and shot to death. For that reason he is in the United States, having been rendered unfit for further military service by reason of bullet wounds received while serving under Dewet. He praises the Canadian troops, and says that the colonial, unlike the re-gular British soldier, who will march right up the hill to sure death, will locate sure death and outflank it. "He is brave, and you want to look out that he does not make a fool of you, and of sure death, too," said Dordman.
