Scrofula

This root of many evils-Glandular tumors, abscesses, pimples, and other cutaneous eruptions, sore ears, inflamed eyelids, rickets, dyspepsia, catarrh, readiness to catch cold and inability to get rid of it easily, paleness, nervousness, the consumptive tendency, and other ailments --Can be completely and permanently removed, no matter how young or old the sufferer.

Hood's Sarsaparilla was given the daughter of Silas Vernooy, Wawarsing. N. Y., who had broken out with screfula sores all over her face and head. The first bottle helped her and when she had taken six the sores were all healed and her face was smooth. He writes that she has never shown any sign of the scrofula returning.

It was their last regular meeting, as they have decided to partially disband during the warmer months. The members spent a very pleasant sociable evening, during which light refreshments were served.

-Mr. J. Coates Lockhart, the well-known tenor, of this city, has been engaged as soloist to accompany the Ki.ties band of the 48th Highlanders on their coming tour. They will go to the Pan-American and through the States to California and back. Mr. Lockhart's repertoire will consist of Scotch, Irish and English songs, and also Italian arias. It speaks well for Mr. Lockhart's ability in being selected as soloist for the band. Eugene Lockhart, his talented little son, also accompanies the band as regimental dancer. Just after closing the contract, Mr. Lockhart had an offer from New York to sing first tenor in the Metropolitan Male Quartet, of that city.

-The Girls' Mission Band, of the Dundas Center Methodist Church, held its closing meeting for the season in the Sunday school rooms last evening. A short business meeting was followed by a programme consisting of solos by Miss A. Donald and Miss Sparkman, and an instrumental selection by Miss A. Bradford. Talks on mission work were given by Miss F. Park, district organizer of the Baptist Missionary Society, and Mrs. Mc Mechan, of the Auxiliary. The annual reports of the recording secretary and the treasurer showed a gratifying increase in the membership and in the income. A committee of the Young Woman's Mission Circle served re-

BIG ENGINE CRUSHED HIM

Section Hand Instantly Killed at Hyde Park.

Was Lying Across the Track and the Train Could Not Be Stopped-Body Cut to Pieces.

Robert Herrington, a G. T. R. section man, was run over and killed half a mile east of Hyde Park station by the G. T. R. westbound express, No. 3, drawn by the big new engine, No. 988, which left London at 11:05 a.m.

When first seen by the train crew, the man was lying on the track a short distance ahead, and there was not time to stop the train before running over him. The train was in charge of Engineer Buckpit and Conductor Bruce. The body of the unfortunate man was horribly mangled, being literally ground to pieces. His neck was broken, the skull and face were crushed in, both legs were taken off below the hips and both feet crushed, while the arms were partially severed. The clothing was torn from the body, and not a single garment were holding to a Dundas street car was left whole-boots, socks, coat, in pieces. The hat was the only por-tion of his apparel undamaged. The contents of the pockets were a knife, a purse, a pencil and other small ar-ticles. The remains were gathered up and brought to the city, where they were removed to the undertaking rooms of John Ferguson & Sons. They were viewed by Coroner Ferguson, who concluded that no blame attached to the train crew. Both the coroner and the undertaker said they had never seen a body so frightfully mangled. Robert Herrington, the dead man, was unmarried, and was aged 24 years. The only relatives known of at present is an aunt living at Niagara Falls, N. Y. He had been working with a G. T. R. section gang under Foreman Albert Prince since May 24. He boarded with Thomas Lewis, near Hyde Park. Saturday he told the foreman he would not work because he

SHOOTING OF CONSTABLE BOYD

TO DEATH! As Told to the Court by Constable Stewart.

> The Scramble for the Pistols Thrown Into the Cab-Rutledge Told Rice to Shoot Boyd.

Toronto, June 8.-From the general sessions courtroom, where the Aurora bank robbers had received their sentence, the men were taken back to the police court dock, and Constable Stewart was placed on the witness

He related the circumstances leading up to the killing of Boyd. He told of the parcel being thrown into the cab and falling on Rutledge's side. Witness was opposite Rutledge. All the criminals except Jones, scrambled for the parcel. Jones sat back in the seat and inquired: "What's up?" Rice got a revolver from the parcel and Rutledge clutched something. Witness also clutched the revolver in Rutedge's hands.

By this time Constable Boyd and the prisoner Rice were struggling. Thought Rice said to Boyd "Quit, or give up!" Boyd refused, and Rice pulled on him. Rutledge, in the meantime, got possession of the revolver he and witness were struggling for. Putting it to Stewart's head he said "Quit." Rutledge said to Rice, "Give "Quit." Rutledge said to Rice, "Give it to him!" and Rice pulled the trig-

STEWART'S PRESENCE OF MIND. "I put up my hands," said Constable Stewart, "and told them to get out. They got out of the hack and I swung around on the step and fired at them. They were running toward the horses, and turned and fired at me. I think there was only one shot fired, and the one which killed Boyd, until I fired. I don't know how often I fired or how often they fired at me. I went around the hack and they went around the horses. They got on the trolley car and I followed. They were fighting with the motorman, and Rice said to Rutledge 'Give it to him,' meaning for Rutledge to fire at me. Rice tried to twist his revolver around at me, and Routledge was trying to get his revolver around at the motorman. I got Rutledge's revolver and pounded him with the butt. Somebody else hit Rice, and they both quit almost insensible."

DEFENSE OUTLINED. The witness was cross-examined by T. C. Robinette, the prisoners' counsel, who intimated what line the defense would take. He will attempt to show that the shooting of Boyd was not deliberate. Stewart said there was a struggle between Boyd and Rice, but he thought the shooting was delibe-Rutledge could have shot witness if he had wanted to. He did not know whether Rutledge had fired at him or not. He (Stewart) fired at all three, and not particularly at Jones. The investigation was then adjourned for a week.

THE MACHINISTS

Take Up the Challenge of the Nationa Trades Association—War Declared.

Toronto, June 8 .- The International Association of Machinists, at this morning's session, in answer to the statement from New York that the National Trades Association had declared war on the Machinists' Union, on the ground that it had violated the agreement of May 18, 1900, by refusing to arbitrate the question of wages, passed a resolution stating that the question of arbitration of wages in connection with the nine-hour day is not mentioned, and that officers of the Metal Trades Association have themselves given the nine-hour day without reduction of wages, and that President O'Connell has done all possible to secure a national arbitration on the wage question.

The resolution continues, "The said efforts proving futile, the proffered offer of peace being brutally refused, be it resolved that we, the delegates assembled at the ninth convention of the association, after due and mature deliberation do hereby accept the lenge forced upon us by the National Metal Trades Association in accepting this declaration of war. We fully realize what it means, but, armed with the knowledge that our cause is just, as our efforts are honest, we cheerfully pick up the gauntlet and hurl back the defiance with the addition that if it is to be war let it be war to the knife, and the knife to the hilt, for we never will accept any modification of our demands or re-sume labor until the holy cause for which we struggle is triumphant and the shorter workday is an accomplished fact, monumental to the cohesive power and co-operative efforts of the International Association of Machin-

When about 19 years old, after having been in scores of smaller scrapes, he commenced his career in crime. In 1888 he broke into a store in his native town, and escaped to Toronto. He

While in the penitentiary he became on a marauding expedition. They made a specialty of banks, postoffices and customs houses, and secured several large hauls. Some time after the men were released, an attempt was made in the customs house at Port Dalhousie by three burglars. One of the trio was shot while in the act of climbing through a window. The next morning the dead body of a man was found in the vicinity, covered with "Billy" Black's coat. It was then known that the third man was Rutledge.

Inspector John Murray was placed on their trail, and with half a dozen Toronto officers one night went out to the Rutledge homestead, hoping to capture the whole gang. The house was surrounded, and at dawn the doors were broken in, but the quarry had flown. Rutledge and Black disappeared for short time, and when they returned to Ontario again they robbed several banks in Simcoe and Grey counties. Black was arrested in Hamilton, and got four years.

Rutledge succeeded in evading ar rest in Canada, and was next heard of Colorado. He had been apprehended in Red Cloud, Nebraska, for stealing bicycles, and was sentenced to serve four years in the state peniten- all trackmen employed on the system, tiary of Colorado.

Just a few minutes before the prisoner had handed Mr. Robinette what seemed a small paper packet. These things were so small as to be almost unnoticed at the time, but when the news flashed through the city in the afternoon, those who had witnessed this were convinced that Rutledge had made up his mind as to the end that was going to come in the next few hours. As a matter of fact, Rutledge walked almost straight from that dock to his death on the floors of the jail. In the meantime he had the past year he has not been in good sent the ring to a certain woman.

One of the officials at the jail said yesterday that he believed that Rice and Rutledge had both made up their minds to take their own lives, and that they both were to jump from the balcony, but they believe that Rice's courage failed him when the opportune moment came. They were carefully kept apart when in the jail. Governor Van Zant said that the prisoners had been models in their regard of the rules since they had been confined in the jail. He said that Rice will from now on not be allowed to leave his cell, for if he has the slightest opportunity he will do something desper-

A BIG UNION PROPOSED !

Detroit Street Car Men's Association May Be Largest in the Country.

Ottawa Plasterers' Demands Acceded To-Halifax Carpenters Will Have Arbitration.

Detroit News: It now looks as if De troit's street car men's union is soon going to be one of the big local labor organizations of the country. The buying in of the suburban lines by the owners of the Detroit United Railway will bring something like 500 more men under the agreement, present and prospective, and this means to all these former "outsiders" a substantial increase in wages.

"This was one of the arguments Mr. Hutchins used yesterday in refusing a raise of wages to us," said President Shafer this morning. "He said he would have to raise the wages of all RUTLEDGE'S the conductors and motormen on these suburban lines to our standard, which meant many thousands of dollars to the company. "There are three local divisions running suburban lines that will have to turn in their charters and join the Detroit union. We will have jurisdiction over a vast extent of territory, from as far north as Port Huron, to Toledo. The agreement committee has decided not to call either a general meeting of the union or a special meeting of the executive board, but will report at the latter's regular meeting, June 19."

OTTAWA PLASTERERS WIN. Ottawa, June 7. - The plasterers' strike, affecting 35 men and 11 contractors, has been settled by the contractors giving in and signing the agreement with the men. SENT UP TO DINNER.

When Rice and Rutledge arrived at the jail at about 3 o'clock, they were taken to the searching room opposite the governor's office, where they were rigidly inspected by the officials. Then they were sent up to dinner. The dining-room is on the first floor, and to reach it the route was through the bars at the main entrance to the corridors, then across the main hall to a spiral staircase. Rice was almost at the front of the other prisoners, and Rutledge was three prisoners behind him. Guard Tom Lonergan was on duty on the first floor watching cor-ridors 3 and 4, and the prisoners were being taken to dinner by Guard Geo.

WANTED NO DINNER. Instead of entering the dining-room with the other prisoners, Rutledge dashed away and ran two or three use of the council chamber for their stairs at a time up the spiral staircase which leads to the chapel. Then he placed one leg over the railing and took a quick glance at the floor 30 feet below. He adroitly dragged over the other leg, and then brought both feet almost up to the rail, where his hands were, and then pushed himself away by the feet and landed upon his head
