PANDORA RANGE

HOLDS FIRE ALL NIGHT

The good housewife always feels like bestowing upon the Pandora a cheerful "good morning."

Why? Because the Pandora always has a nice bed of hot coals as a reward for checking off the dampers closely before retiring to rest.

In five minutes after turning on the drafts she will have a good, strong fire.

Should she sleep two or three hours longer than usual there will still be a fire ready for her.

The fire-box, flues and dampers are so scientifically arranged that the Pandora can be regulated to hold a fire from 24 to 36 hours.

Pandora owners never have their sleep disturbed with dreams of making a new fire in the morning.

A Graceful Tribute to the Late Dr Sawyer

The following brief tribute to Rev. A. W. Sawyer, D. D., L. L. D., was uttered previous to the session in the Baptist Church in Bridgetown, N. S., on Sunday morning, August 11th, by Rev. Arthur S. Lewis:—

Since last we gathered in this house our denomination in these provinces has sustained an irreparable loss by the somewhat sudden death of the Rev. A. W. Sawyer, D. D., L. L. D., for twenty-seven years the President of Acadia College, Wolfville.

Forty-three years an able and honored professor in that institution. I cannot let this service pass, the first service of worship since his death, without a word of personal tribute to the memory of this great and good man.

Dr. Sawyer was pre-eminently a teacher. The professor's chair was his throne and he accepted it with a grace and dignity worthy of the state's highest honor. Few men have such an ample equipment for the professorship; and few devote themselves to it with more singleness of devotion. His mental processes were performed with the utmost precision. His power of analysis and synthesis was the marvel of every student who ever entered his classroom. Never did he simply skim over the surface of any subject, but always dove to the bottom of it, whether it be psychology, metaphysics, history, biology, theology, or sociology, and came to the surface again ready to make known the conclusions he had reached. "Those of you" who know him best will recall, with what marvellous breadth of view, and with what clarity of thought and expression his pronouncements on any subject were delivered. Never were his statements in the least confusing; they were invariably framed so as to convey one meaning and one only. As a teacher Dr. Sawyer possessed the

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

"Beauty is nothing more or less than the external evidence of a high degree of mental and physical health," declares Dr. W. R. C. Latson, writing on health in its relation to womanly beauty, in the January Outlook.

He goes on to show how the mental condition affects the digestive processes so necessary to health. "Any excitement, fear, anger, regret, haste, or other unfavorable mental condition will disturb its action to such an extent as to prevent its work being properly done."

The rules of diet are embraced in two words, moderation and simplicity. The eating of much meat is inimical to permanent health for beauty. Fresh fruits and salads of lettuce, celery, water-cress, and such fresh green leaves that grow in the sunlight are good. Highly flavored dishes are to be avoided, and one should drink freely of pure water on rising, on retiring, and between meals.

Physical exercises are especially important, and the best kind of exercise obtainable in general is free outdoor play, the kind that combines free motion with laughter and fun, and in which there is little sense of strain or effort. To play strenuous games such as basket ball, Dr. Latson says, is injurious. Any game calling for a combination of severe mental and physical effort brings lines of anxiety to the face, tends to make the movements angular and rigid, and to make the voice more harsh. The daily bath is a matter of course, and warm water, followed by cooler rinsing, is preferred to the cold bath.

Overwork is a foe to health and a deadly enemy to beauty. Rest and plenty of sleep are not luxuries, but necessities. The writer concludes:

"If I were asked what was the greatest foe to beauty in both man and woman, I would say, not errors in diet, not lack of exercise, not overwork, not coarseness, not any one of these, but bad mental habits. If we observe closely the faces of the people we meet at random on the street, or in the great shops, we will observe that nearly all of them are characterized by the lined mouth, the drawn brows and other facial disfigurements which accompany bad mental states. What do I mean by bad mental states? I mean anger, fear, worry, anxiety, irritability, regret, envy, jealousy, lack of trust in oneself, and in the Great God—all these are bad mental states; and all these destroy beauty, not only by interfering with the action of the vital organs, but by directly disfiguring the expression of the face."

The beauty-seeking young woman must be prepared to deliberately cultivate good nature, kindness, calmness, cheerfulness—to deliberately conquer all tendencies to the bad mental states above mentioned.

$29,240,000 Fine Imposed on Standard Oil Company

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 3.—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis today, in the United States district court, fined the Standard Oil Company of Indiana $29,240,000 for violation of the law against accepting rebates from railroads. The fine is the largest ever assessed against any individual or any corporation in the history of American criminal jurisprudence, and is slightly more than 131 times as great as the amount received by the company through its rebating operations. The case will be carried to the higher courts by the defendant company.

The penalty imposed upon the company is the maximum permitted under the law, and it was announced at the end of a long opinion in which the methods and practices of the Standard Oil Company were mercilessly scored, the exact language of Judge Landis being:

"We may as well look at the situation squarely. The men who thus deliberately violate this law wound society more deeply than does he who counterfeits the coin or steals letters from the mails."

Judge Landis commenced reading his decision at 10 o'clock and occupied about an hour in its delivery. He reviewed the facts in the case, took up the arguments of the attorneys for the defence and answered them and then passed judgment upon the company, which he declared violated the law for the sole purpose of swilling its dividends.

The court held that the railroads have no more right to make a secret rate for a shipper than a board of assessors would have to make a secret assessment of any particular piece of property.

The court expressed regret that the law failed to provide more serious punishment than a fine, but insisted that the penalty should be sufficiently large to act as a deterrent and not of such a size as to encourage the offender to persist in lawlessness.

At the conclusion of his opinion, and after announcing the amount of the fine, Judge Landis directed that a special grand jury be called for the purpose of inquiring into the acts of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Company, it having been proved in the case just closed that the oil company accepted rebates from the corporation. The decision of Judge Landis aroused almost as much public interest as did the presence of John D. Rockefeller and other officials of the Standard Oil Company in the court room on July 5. The crush was so great that a large force of deputy marshals had much difficulty in controlling the crowd that was anxious to force its way into the court room.

OBJECT LESSONS.

It is not often that we hear of merchants retiring from business and entering an asylum, but such was the fate of a well-known citizen who lost $30,000 some time ago in mining stocks, and was afterwards taken to an asylum, where he will, it is feared spend the rest of his days. Men who cannot stand financial losses, should never go into mining deals, when they have a legitimate business of their own to attend to. Another case was mentioned to us of a lady in command of a well-known hotel, who had a safe investment paying 6 per cent. a mining concern paying double that rate of interest, but it only paid dividends for a little over a year and has not paid a cent since. The result has been the lady referred to has had to earn a living by going out to-day labor.

Big Drop in Price Deals in English Market

St. John, Aug. 7.—The lumber industry in New Brunswick is now experiencing the best manufacturing and worst selling season in a number of years. Conditions have arisen during the past few months which have resulted in heavy losses to some of the largest shippers, and from present indications the depression will continue during the remainder of the summer at least.

The English market has dropped two dollars and a half per thousand feet, and as a result it is estimated that one shipper has lost not less than $60,000 this season, another in the vicinity of $20,000, while the rest stand to drop all the profits made on early cargoes, or else to suffer a great reduction from their ordinary profits.

Early in the spring the outlook was promising. Deals are always bought early, tonnage is arranged in advance, and some of the deals are resold. Deals at the beginning of this season were purchased at from $14.50 to $15, and several shippers following their usual plans secured large contracts.

They made their charters, and now when the English market is down, are practically compelled to ship, even at a direct loss.

A few shippers, however, who felt suspicious of the market limited their purchases and now count themselves extremely lucky. Yet in spite of this precaution almost the whole output of New Brunswick mills have been contracted for, and up to date about fifty per cent has been forwarded. There are few deals now on the local markets, some small quantities being held by independent operators who, however, will not ship until the English situation improves.

Freights are neither high or low, the last reported being at 33 shillings which is very reasonable. This being figured that on the last big cargo sent to Liverpool, the shipper, a St. John man, lost at least $7,500, and that he in common with others having purchased deals early in the season at the high price, stand to lose not less than $100,000 before the summer's cut is cleaned up.

The cautious ones who invested in small quantities are rejoicing over their good judgment.

DESTRUCTIVE STORMS IN THE WEST.

Sinclair, Man., Aug. 6.—The worst hail storm in the existence of the old-settler visited this neighborhood about eight o'clock last evening, and thousands of acres of splendid crops are completely demolished. The hail is two miles wide and the length at present writing cannot be ascertained, but is not less than ten miles. The storm was accompanied by a high wind and there is hardly a whole pane of glass in the track of the storm.

Minto, Man., Aug. 6.—There was a very severe hail storm last night. Many of the farmers hauled out hail as big as hens' eggs. Some of the farmers had a lot of windows smashed, and other damages done.

Ruston, Man., Aug. 6.—The worst hail storm that ever visited this district happened about 8.30 yesterday evening. Windows were smashed in every house in the town, garden stuff was pounded into the ground, and grain reaching four or five miles each side of the town is more or less damaged.
