

The Literary Digest

A Repository of Contemporaneous Thought and Research as Presented in the Periodical Literature of the World in all Departments of Human Life and Action.

IT IS CALLED "THE PRINCE OF WEEKLIES."
KEEPS ONE ABREAST OF THE ADVANCED
THOUGHTS AND EVENTS OF THE WORLD.

Bishop Huntington (Episcopal): "Extensively interesting and useful."

The New York Herald: "THE LITERARY DIGEST is always worth reading. . . ."

Francis E. Clark, D.D., Editor Golden Rule, Boston, and Founder of the Society of Christian Endeavor: "THE LITERARY DIGEST winnows the multiplicity of newspapers and magazines, and tells us the most important things which they contain."

Henry Randall Waite, Pres. Am. Institute of Civics, New York: "An epitome of the best thought of the day."

Otto Erickson, Attorney-at-Law, Buffalo, N. Y.: "One year's subscription is a university education in itself."

Warren R. Choate, Attorney-at-Law, Washington, D. C.: "Contains the kernel of best current literature."

Ex-Senator (U. S.) John G. Ingalls: "Abolishes provincialism. . . . Enlarges intelligence."

Judge Dickman, Supreme Court of Ohio: "Gives the best thoughts on living issues."

Augustus E. Wright, Rome, Ga.: "It is the brightest idea of the age."

Josiah Strong, D.D., Secretary of the Evangelical Alliance: "Indispensable to every student of the times."

Charles Clafin Allen, Attorney-at-Law, St. Louis, Mo.: "Of great value to lawyers who desire to keep up with the progressive thoughts in these progressive times."

R. H. Bradley, Librarian Supreme Court of South Carolina: "I enclose you $12 for four subscriptions for the judges of the Supreme Court."

Christian Leader, Boston, Mass.: "The merits of THE LITERARY DIGEST are literally too numerous to mention."

Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Hendrix, Pres. Board of Education, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "A publication of great value."

Judge Benjamin W. Pope, Illinois: "Fills a long-felt want for men who have much to do and short purses."

Dr. Wendell Prime, Editor New York Observer: "Mikum in Parvo, intelligently prepared, extremely useful."

THE READER OF "THE LITERARY DIGEST" IS A WELL POSTED MAN.
GREAT ECONOMIZER OF TIME AND MONEY.

One thousand other testimonials of similar expression from subscribers in the various walks of life find no room here. Send one year's subscription, $3.00; or $1.00 for a four months' trial subscription; or 10 cents for a sample copy.

THE LITERARY DIGEST, 30 Lafayette Place, New York.