Through experience Finnish importers have found traders in the Netherlands can offer better prices and terms than direct contacts in Canada. Buckwheat, millet, canary seed, coriander, caraway, and wild rice have negligible import potential or are unknown on the market. Sunflower seeds are imported mainly for crushing purposes. Major suppliers are Hungary and Bulgaria. The total import in 1989 was 198 tons of which 179 was of Canadian origin. Import of most oilseed requires import permits and are granted only if domestic supply does not meet demand. Permits are granted to crushers directly.
