

nation, with so much magnanimity, intrepidity, &c., urged by the powerful motives of the expiring liberties of a once happy, but now convulsed and tottering country !

“Tis not in mortals to command success,
But we've done more—we've deserved it.”

FINIS.